Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Well, they finally stopped us from sending marines to every war we could hear of. They are having one in Afghanistan. The thing will be over before Congress can pronounce it, much less find out where it is located.

It seems the King over there thought he was adopting modern ideas by limiting his subjects to one wife per each. No wonder they threw him out. He was just old-fashioned and didn't know it. He wasn't modern; he was just queer.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

LAST HOOVER STOP NEAR

Tour Will End at Rio de Janeiro

President-elect Will Proceed Directly to United States, Probably to Florida

Party Due in Brazilian City Tomorrow and Christmas May be Spent There

U.S.S. UTAH, EN ROUTE TO RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 19. (AP)—President-elect Hoover's good-will visit to South American countries will end at Rio de Janeiro. He and his party will proceed directly from Rio without other stops to the United States, probably to Key West and Miami, Fla. This program was announced officially today on board the Utah.

The Utah is expected to reach Key West January 4 or 6 unless Mr. Hoover decides to extend his Rio visit several days in order to spend Christmas Day there. He is to arrive there Friday. He has received invitations and suggestions from Rio inviting him to spend the holiday in the Brazilian capital, but he has not yet indicated that he will accept them. It is thought that he will refuse the Christmas invitation for the same reason that he has decided to cancel further South American visits and proceed straight home. This reason is his feeling that he should be back in order to give attention to matters demanding his personal consideration at home.

SEPARATE VISITS LATER

The idea persists that Hoover may, if possible, make separate good-will visits later to both Mexico and Cuba but this is undecided.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are situated

PEACE PATH SURVEYED

Questions Asked Latin Nations

Pan-American Body Requests Bolivia and Paraguay to Define Their Wishes

League Circles Rejoicing at Success of Efforts to Obtain Mediation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Conciliation proceedings in the Bolivian-Paraguayan dispute by the Pan-American arbitration conference began today with a special committee addressing to the two countries a set of identical questions to determine the exact scope of the proposed settlement. The two countries also were asked to express their views as to who should be selected on a mediation board.

The committee drew up the questions in the course of a long meeting today at which Bolivian and Paraguayan representatives were present for part of the time. The session was called as soon as possible after acceptances had been received from both Paraguay and Bolivia of the conference's offer of its good offices in the controversy.

REPLIES AWAITED

The questions then were handed to the delegates of the two countries for transmission to their governments. Until replies are received the committee probably will take no further action.

An exact definition of the dispute to be investigated and conciliated is sought from both sides in the questions. With these definitions in hand the special committee then will attempt to draw up a single document embodying the exact points under controversy and the extent to which the conciliation proceedings may go.

The questions likewise inquire of Bolivia and Paraguay the number of judges they would prefer on the conciliation board. The committee had in mind that each country appoint either one or two judges and that the conference appoint either one or three more.

PEACE SPIRIT URGED

Recommendations for the maintenance of peace and for the pacification of the present ill feeling in both countries also were addressed to the governments.

A move was made in the course of the discussion of the special committee on the Bolivian-Paraguayan tangle to empower Secretary of State Kellogg, as chairman of the Pan-American Arbitration Conference, to act as mediator in the controversy.

The proposal was made and found support among several of the Latin-American delegates present, but Charles Evans Hughes, who represents the United States at the meeting, opposed it on behalf of the United States. While expressing appreciation for the offer, he said he believes that endowing one country with conciliatory powers in a dispute of this kind would not work to the benefit of the Pan-American co-operators' ideal.

He urged that the United Pan-American front be maintained in all matters affecting the Western Hemisphere.

PARAGUAY ORDERS HALT IN WAR MOVES

Although news of Bolivia's acceptance of the good offices of the Pan-American conference was received officially and popularly with enthusiasm, the populace today continued patriotic demonstrations.

Subscriptions to the government still continued and volunteers for war service still are coming forward.

Mrs. Coolidge Visits Mother

NORTHAMPTON (Mass.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the President, arrived here from Washington tonight to visit her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, who is seriously ill at a hospital here. She was accompanied by Russell C. Wood, a secret service agent.

This is Mrs. Coolidge's seventh visit here since her mother entered the hospital on December 11, 1927. She will visit Mrs. Goodhue again tomorrow and then leave for Washington. Her mother has grown steadily weaker during the past few months.

Goebel, Flyer, Has Operation

WICHITA (Kan.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Arthur C. Goebel, holder of flying records and one of the outstanding pilots of the country, underwent an operation for appendicitis here today.

His condition is satisfactory, hospital attendants said.

Rescuers Find Miners' Bodies

DRAKESBORO (Ky.) Dec. 19. (AP) Rescue crews tonight recovered the bodies of six men trapped last night by an explosion in a mine of the Black Diamond Coal Company near here. The men had been dead many hours, it is believed.

And, Boy! How It Reduces!

KING CONTINUES PROGRESS

Day and Evening Bulletins Issued by Physicians Give Cheering Details of Improvement

LONDON, Dec. 19. (AP)—King George today continued to make slow but definite progress toward recovery from the disease which for a full month has besieged him and kept the whole nation in anxiety. Both the day and evening bulletins of the physicians brought cheering details of the royal patient's successful resistance.

"The King has passed a quiet day," said the 8 p.m. announcement. "Both the general and local conditions are continuing to make slow progress."

The morning bulletin recorded a restful night enjoyed by the King and it spoke of "the slight improvement" which had continued from yesterday. Both bulletins were signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Hugh Rigby.

The ultra-violet ray treatment, which apparently has given gratifying results, was administered as usual by Drs. Woods and Howitt just prior to the evening consultation.

QUEEN TAKES DRIVE

Queen Mary was sufficiently buoyant in spirit today to take her afternoon drive. She turned the outing into an excursion to the Zoological Gardens. She was accompanied by Princess Mary and the latter's husband, Viscount Lascelles.

The Queen of Norway, sister of King George, took tea with Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace.

An indication of the relaxation in public anxiety was seen in the manner in which the newspapers played up the scores of the "world series" cricket match in Australia between a traveling English and representative Australian teams. Accounts of the match crowded the King off the top position on the front pages.

HOPES FOR RECOVERY

An authoritative statement which will appear in the British Medical Journal and the Lancet tomorrow will say that dangerous phases of the illness of King George have been surmounted and that there are increasingly solid grounds for hoping for his recovery.

The bulk of the statement is a detailed technical analysis of the history of the case.

STREET MUD SOON TURNS TO PAY DIRT

Gold Rush Halts Repair Work as Shovels Reveal Coins, Nuggets and Gems

SEATTLE, Dec. 19. (AP)—A gold rush stopped street-repairing operations at Washington street and First avenue south for several hours today, when a workman turned up a gold nugget with his shovel. Jobless onlookers saw him make the find and the stampede was on.

Over the site of what had once been the M. & N. saloon and gambling house, a mecca of returning prospectors during the Klondike gold rush, fighting crowds of men re-enacted the scenes in the North of thirty years ago on a minature scale.

The muddy street yielded gold nuggets, gold chains, gold coins, South American currency, lockets, rings, necklaces and brooches, and brought Christmas to that part of town, where the 25th inst. is just another day without work.

A string of nuggets rewarded one of the luckiest "prospectors." One man staked out a claim and posted a "keep out" sign. Another, with a bucket, panned the pay dirt. But the pay streak was small and few of them were rewarded.

HOW OUR SKINS BREATHE

How the powerful ultra-violet rays of the sun penetrate the atmosphere of Southern California, how they foster health and long life, how they cause vitamins to be stored up in local fruits and grains, and the practical significance of this new discovery in attracting multitudes of new population to the Southland, is the subject of another engrossing article in the forthcoming Rainbow Edition of the Annual Midwinter Number, out January 2, 1929.

This beautiful edition of six illustrated magazines will not only tell the full story of present-day Southern California, but for the first time will essay the role of prophet and visualize future development as determined by impartial authorities based on facts and forces now in operation.

Bringing the record down to the last minute, the Rainbow Edition also will include a full account of the Tournament of Roses, with pictures of prize-winning floats and the great East-West New Year's football game.

SPECIAL ORDER BLANK NEXT SUNDAY

As it will be a distinct advantage to Southern California to have the Rainbow Edition reach eastern readers prior to the tourist season, The Times urges everyone to place orders in advance so that these may catch the first out-bound trains on date of publication. To reduce the cost to a nominal figure, The Times will mail the six magazines, postage prepaid, anywhere in United States, Canada or Mexico for 25 cents. (If mailed privately, postage will cost 16 cents.)

Watch for special advance order blank to be inserted in The Times next Sunday.

LOST PAIR'S BOAT SEEN IN CANYON

Daring Flyers Skim Over Swirling River But Fail to Find Hyde and Wife

GRAND CANYON (Ariz.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Racing through the Grand Canyon at times only a few inches above the swirling muddy waters of the Colorado River, Lieut. L. G. Plummer and H. G. Adams, army pilots from March Field, Cal., late today located and identified the scow of Glenn R. Hyde and his wife, eleven days overdue at Needles in their thrill-seeking voyage.

The craft, wedged against a jagged rock rising above the level of the water, was found at Separation Rapids, thirteen miles below Diamond Creek.

Landing at Grand Canyon after spotting the Hyde boat, the flyers returned to the scene with Emery Kolb who, with his brother, was the first to shoot the raging rapids of the Colorado in a boat.

Kolb will go to Peach Springs tomorrow, descend into the canyon to Diamond Creek and take a boat in an effort to reach the Hyde scow, which is fourteen miles below the mouth of Diamond Creek.

H. C. Hyde, father of the lost man, was optimistic tonight and enthusiastically lauded the feats of the two daring army men in their flight through the canyon.

Oakland Transit Fight Warms Up

OAKLAND, Dec. 19. (AP)—As another step in the city's campaign to prevent the Key System Transit Company from operating one-man street cars in the downtown area, the Police Court today ordered A. J. Lundberg, president of the company, to appear on the 28th inst. to show cause why he should not be arrested for violation of the one-man car ordinance.

The Transit company last week began operation of one-man cars under orders of the State Railroad Commission.

Woman Expires During Wedding

AURORA (Ill.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Death today halted the wedding of Mrs. Mary Eliot, 30 years of age, and Fred Barney. While a license clerk stood at her bedside filling out a marriage blank, Mrs. Eliot died, her hand in that of her fiance.

Mrs. Eliot and Barney had planned to be married on Christmas Day, but she became ill with influenza. When she learned today that her death was imminent Mrs. Eliot expressed the wish to be married. The clerk was summoned, but death came before the ceremony could be completed.

Vanderbilt arrived here last Thursday.

WEST GIVEN APPROVAL

Committee Tilt in Senate Won

Confirmation of Secretary Favored After Fight Over Connections

Nye Opposes Nomination Because of Dealings With Samuel Insull

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The nomination of Roy O. West of Chicago as Secretary of Interior was ordered favorably reported to the Senate for confirmation late today by its Lands Committee after the Secretary had listened to a blunt statement by Chairman Nye opposing him because of his previous holdings of stock in the Samuel Insull power utilities companies.

Replying to the views of Senator Nye which were read in open meeting Mr. West, somewhat flushed, declared himself "unbiased" but he volunteered in view of the opinions expressed by the committee chairman to withdraw from participation in any decision coming before his department affecting applications of the Insull interests.

It was the second time the Secretary, who was named last July by President Coolidge to succeed Hubert Work, had been questioned and after he had made his statement the committee went into executive session. An hour later it ordered his nomination reported by a vote of 7 to 3.

VOTE AGAINST WEST

Chairman Nye, a Republican from North Dakota, and Senators Walsh, Montana, and Wagner, New York, Democrats, voted against West. Three other members of the committee remain to be polled but their votes cannot change the result and Senator Nye announced he will place the favorable report on confirmation before the Senate tomorrow.

Those opposing the Secretary are expected to renew their fight on the floor when the nomination comes up but friends of the Secretary were confident tonight of his confirmation, although a vote may not be reached before the Christmas recess on Saturday.

The seven members of the committee voting a favorable report included Senators Oddie, McNary, Glenn and Larrazolo, Republicans, and Pittman, Kendrick and Ashurst, Democrats. Of those remaining to be polled two are Republicans—Smoot of Utah, and Dale of New Hampshire—and one a Democrat—Dill of Washington.

STATES VIEWS BLUNTLY

Chairman Nye took the breath of the committee when in the presence of Mr. West he volunteered to read his opinion of the nomination and offered later to have Mr. West answer. Shortly before the meeting opened, the chairman had been called to the White House where it is understood the West nomination came in for discussion.

"The appointment of Roy O. West to be Secretary of Interior is unfortunate," began Senator Nye's statement. He looked across to Mr. West whose face was flushed and interposed that he did not mean to be rude. But he thought it just as well to give his views to the Secretary personally in order that he might answer them. Mr. West nodded his head and set his jaw.

Senator Nye disposed of all criticism against Mr. West except his background and his long connections with Samuel Insull and investments in his companies. He declared "there is no question here raised as to the moral fitness or the general qualifications of Mr. West."

QUESTIONS FITNESS

"Remembering that the Federal Power Commission (of which the Secretary of Interior is a member) not only has the power to grant leases upon power sites in our great streams," concluded Senator Nye, "but also has the power of fixing valuations of power developments, it is extremely hard for me, in view of Mr. West's connections and background, to feel that the

OIL CHANGED IN FLIGHT

Planes of Army Used in Feat

Lubricant Pumped from One to Other as They Soar Over Alabama

Fokker Participant Finishes Second Leg of Trip to San Diego

SHREVEPORT (La.) Dec. 19. (AP) Landing at Shreveport airport late today, aviators flying the trimotored Fokker army plane, Question Mark, and its refueling ship, C-2, a Douglas ship, announced that the first actual change of motor lubricants in the engines of an airplane while in flight had been accomplished.

The feat was performed as the planes droned about 1500 feet above Western Alabama.

The Question Mark took off from Atlanta, Ga., today on the second leg of its flight from Washington to California on an endurance test to begin at Los Angeles at dawn New Year's Day. A stop was made at Montgomery, Ala., to pick up the refueling plane, which preceded it to Montgomery. In the endurance test midair refueling will be attempted to keep the Question Mark aloft for an indefinite period. The ship is under command of Maj. Carl Spatz, with Capt. Ira C. Eaker as pilot.

DIFFICULT TASK

The task of pumping 120 quarts of fresh lubricating oil by means of a hose into the tanks of the three 200-horsepower motors of the giant plane consumed nearly forty-five minutes and entailed some real physical labor on the part of Maj. Spatz, H. J. Adamson, attached to the office of Assistant Secretary of War Davison, and Staff Sergeant Ray Hooe, who took turns at the pump.

There was no hitch whatever in the operation of replacing the old engine oil with new, other than the experience encountered by Capt. Baker. For nearly twenty minutes he flew "blind" after the center motor's reserve tank overflowed with the result that the blast from the propeller sent a spray of oil over the windshield.

"It will, in my opinion, be only a matter of time before power-driven equipment for changing oil will be part of the regular installation of aircraft intended for long-haul service," Maj. Spatz said. "I believe the day is not far away when such ships will rely on fuel from flying filling stations."

FLIGHT SCHEDULE

The Question Mark and its refueling plane should reach San Diego Friday night or Saturday noon, Maj. Spatz said. The refueling ship is being flown by Capt. Ross Hoyt and Lieut. Elwood Quesada. Plans have been made for refueling practice tomorrow.

The refueling formation brings the planes within twenty feet of each other, the prop of the center motor of the endurance plane being directly beneath the landing gear of the refueling ship.

The flyers will take off from Shreveport early tomorrow for Midland, Tex. They expect to make a stop at Dallas and reach Midland by nightfall.

FIRST REFUELING TEST AT SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—The first refueling of airplanes in midair was successfully carried out here in June, 1923. It was done for Capt. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John Paul Richter of the Army Air Corps at Rockwell Field, flying in an old De Haviland plane. Fuel, water, lubricating oil and food were transferred to their plane from one in which Lieut. Virgil Hines, then adjutant of Rockwell Field, and Lieut. Frank Seifert, now City Councilman of San Diego, flew.

DOOM SHIP RAISED IN TEST

Navy Lifts Submarine S-4 in Experiment But Speed Not Satisfactory for Rescue

SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON (Ct.) Dec. 19. (AP)—The submarine S-4, raised from the sea with the bodies of forty men a year ago, was lifted from the bottom again today—this time the subject of a navy salvage experiment.

The vessel was towed into the submarine base early this evening, again sea-beaten and spotted with mud and oil, after resting fifty-five feet down in Great Salt Pond on Block Island, R. I., the meeting point of Long Island Sound and the ocean, where it was deliberately sunk Monday for a test of lifting hooks.

IN NEW TEST

After undergoing a thorough cleaning the submersible will go out again early next month, when it will be sunk for the testing of the diving ship Defender, which was rebuilt by a Bridgeport, Ct., firm, and submitted to the Navy Department as a vessel capable of sinking beside a crippled submarine and permitting divers to operate from the bottom out of a special diving bell.

In the meantime salvage experts who directed the test of the lifting hooks began consideration of their reports to Washington.

NO REPORT YET

No definite report has been decided upon, said Lieutenant-Commander Palmer Dunbar, who directed the experiment, although he said the test emphasized that perfection of rescue apparatus rather than salvage equipment is still the primary problem before the Navy.

The lifting hooks or "deadeyes," two on each side of the submarine amidships, were found accessible for attachment to pontoons by divers even though the divers worked against a list deliberately created. The Navy's experts, however, apparently are of the opinion that they have not solved the problem of speedy rescue, after two days of effort by divers, operating from the submarine rescue ship Falcon. The task of the actual raising of the vessel began last night, but only its bow broke the surface as a leak in the hull shipped water into the great public interest involved in these power schemes fostered under the leadership of the Insull interests, can be positive and secure in the hands of Mr. West.

"Somehow, Mr. West and the duties of the office to which he is appointed do not seem to fit or blend. His natural bent, I am convinced, is not in keeping with the great public interest now involved in the question of power rights. I therefore cannot become a party to a committee report which favors the confirmation by the Senate of the appointment of Roy O. West."

Completing his lengthy statement, Senator Nye invited Mr. West to reply and the Secretary in a low, steady voice said he felt he was "unbiased" and had a "judicial mind."

MAKES OFFER

"But in view of the opinion expressed by the committee chairman which may be shared by others here," he said, "I am willing to refrain very carefully from participating in any decision or finding wherein the Insull properties are involved."

At his first hearing Mr. West testified he had invested about $67,000 in Insull company stocks over a period of about twenty-six years. These he had sold on entering the Cabinet, he said, for about $118,000.

Senator Walsh of Montana said that while some committee members had been satisfied with Mr. West's statement they were not satisfied with testimony he gave to the Senate campaign funds investigating committee in Chicago in 1926 when he remarked that he "always" consulted with Mr. Insull about his investments."

"The use of the word always was wrong," West replied. "That is an expression of mine. It might even be termed a colloquialism. Words cannot change facts. I did not always consult with Mr. Insull. I did only in a general way and not always."

MATTER PENDING

Earlier in the day Senator Nye had read to the committee a report received by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, from the Federal Water Power Commission showing that there are ten applications from Insull companies for water-power licenses pending before the commission of which the Secretary of the Interior is a member. The total power involved in these applications for sites on the Wabash, Cumberland, Kentucky and Wolf rivers is figured at 330,000 horsepower.

Senator Walsh also inquired of Mr. West about his action in sitting at a recent hearing on the petition of an Insull company for a license for water-power development at Cumberland Falls in Kentucky. The Secretary said he was called upon by another member of the commission to open the hearing. It was just a hearing, he said, and the application has not been acted on.

In the event he withdraws from participation in any Insull case before the department, Mr. West was asked by Senator Nye if the law provided for some officer to take his place. Mr. West replied he was not informed who will sit in his place under the law. The other members of the Water Power Commission are the Secretaries of War and Agriculture.

Senator Norris, who is not a member of the Lands Committee, will lead the fight against Mr. West when his nomination is considered by the Senate.

MYERS MAY BE FILM CZAR

Reports Say Federal Trade Commission Chairman Will Accept Post With Independents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—It is reported on apparently reliable authority here today that Abram F. Myers, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, plans to leave his post to become "czar" of the Independent Motion Picture Producers' Association and direct their fight against the "motion-picture combines" which have been clashing with the government for several years.

Myers's term on the trade commission expired last September and he is now serving through a recess appointment. President Coolidge did not send his name to the Senate for another term and this gave rise to reports he was to be ousted. He has incurred the wrath of many Senators, notably Borah of Idaho and Walsh of Montana.

Myers has led the Federal Trade Commission's fight against the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation in connection with monopoly charges filed against them by the government.

He presided over a trade practice conference in New York shortly after the commission ordered the motion-picture industry to stop "unfair" tactics and cease block booking, which, it was hoped, would end the controversy in the screen world and lead to a voluntary agreement satisfactory to the Trade Commission. Myers came back to Washington dissatisfied with the results and recommended that the commission refuse to accept the agreement proposed by the larger producers. The commission adopted this course and proceedings were started in the courts to enforce the commission's order against the Paramount combine. This action is now pending.

There were rumors at the New York meeting that Myers would resign to go with the "independents" whose cause he espoused.

LEAK BALKS WORK

All ballast tanks and the engine room were flooded when the empty hulk was sunk, and even though all these compartments were drained by salvage lines from the Falcon and despite the total lifting capacity of 160 tons of two huge pontoons, the motor-room leak balked complete raising.

Navy experts regarded the delay as an illustration of the accidents that are encountered in almost every instance of attempt at rescue and salvage under the sea.

The ship suffered no serious damage during the experiment. The conning tower amidships, which was believed to have been smashed in when it was sandwiched between the pontoons, was found undamaged. In the inside lights and heaters which were left on at the time of the sinking still were burning and the temperature had not changed from its usual comfortable degree. After the ship broke its 231 feet entirely above the surface it was taken in tow by the submarine tender Chewink and brought through a rolling sea thirty miles to the submarine base. The S-4, stripped of all its machinery except apparatus for steering and pumping of ballast tanks, rode the swell as if it were again a ship of the line.

AIR CORPS PROMOTION BILL ACTION BLOCKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Furlow bill for a separate promotion list for officers of the Air Corps came up in the Senate today but immediate action was blocked by several members. Upon motion of Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, the amendments in controversy between the House and Senate were referred to the Senate Military Committee for consideration and report.

most pleasantly on the battleship, occupying spacious airy quarters on the top deck where cooling breezes dispel the tropical heat which has prevailed so far on the northward voyage.

Gen. Pershing occupied the same quarters now used by the President-elect when the Army commander went to South America several years ago. During the World War the Utah was a fleet flagship and the Hoover apartment was the quarters for the admiral.

COOL IN CABIN

Deck chairs are placed outside the Hoover quarters, but so far the President-elect and his wife have spent more time inside their cabin than on the deck because it is just as cool within.

Mr. Hoover utilized today's voyage to read a mass of informative material which he assembled in each South American country which he has visited. In tonight's moving-picture program of the battleship the chief interest of the President-elect was centered on the films showing his visits to Valparaiso and Santiago in Chile. The films were rushed from Chile so that they could be shown on the Utah.

The moving pictures were shown on the upper deck in the presence of the entire Hoover party, while a glorious night, a new moon, soft-rolling seas and the Southern Cross shining overhead contributed a beautiful setting for the exhibition.

RIO JANEIRO PREPARES TO WELCOME HOOVER

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 19. (AP)—This city is counting the hours until it will welcome the American battleship bearing the next President of the United States. Preparations for electric illuminations in welcome of Mr. Hoover are nearly complete with a special arch in front of the American Embassy made of American and Brazilian flags flanking "Welcome Herbert Hoover" in three-foot letters of incandescent lamps.

Following upon the action of the Senate, whose silver-tongued orator paid homage to the President-elect after that body had appointed a committee of twenty-one to greet him, the Chamber this afternoon paid its tribute to the next President of the United States through the lips of Augusto Delima. The Chamber named a similar committee of greeting.

When the Utah makes fast to the quay at the foot of the Avenida Rio Branco the Hoover party will step from the gangway to a red-carpeted runway leading through the Customs Building to the Praca Maua, the large square at the foot of the avenue. Automobiles will take the entire party to their shore quarters, but before leaving the quay Mr. Hoover will be greeted by President Washington Luis, members of his Cabinet and the committees of the Senate and Chamber.

Mr. Hoover will ride in the personal automobile of the Brazilian President, an American-made car, to Guanabara Palace, followed by another car containing Mrs. Washington Luis and Mrs. Hoover.

The newspaper men accompanying the good-will tour will be lodged in the Gloria and Palace hotels. They have a hectic program of entertainment before them by their Brazilian confreres in addition to the official program of Foreign Minister Mangabeira, who has arranged to occupy every hour of the three-day stay with two luncheons, two dinners and motor trips to Petropolis, the summer capital.

HOOVER SAID TO HAVE REPUDIATED INTERVENTION

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 19. (AP)—La Epoca, a newspaper which is generally regarded as a spokesman for President Irigoyen, said today that Herbert Hoover in conversing with the Argentine President, told him that in the future the United States government never will intervene in the international affairs of other countries, that it will respect their sovereignty and will recognize their rights to manage their own problems.

President Irigoyen was quoted as saying that he believes Mr. Hoover is not in accord with the ideas of President Coolidge.

CITIZENS PROTECTED

The newspaper said the subject of intervention by the United States in the affairs of other American nations was brought up by Senor Irigoyen. Mr. Hoover explained that intervention by the United States was not undertaken with the design of protecting American economic interests but was for safeguarding the lives of American citizens.

President Irigoyen is understood then to have referred to views of intervention expressed by President Coolidge in his speeches and Mr. Hoover is said to have replied that Mr. Coolidge was obliged to proceed as he did in view of the circumstances of the individual cases.

HOW POLICY AROSE

The paper said President Irigoyen next declared that he believes that Mr. Hoover is not in accord with the ideas of President Coolidge. Irigoyen added that Mr. Hoover answered that Mr. Coolidge adopted his attitude solely on account of the circumstances involved. Mr. Hoover did not reply when President Irigoyen expressed this belief.

The paper then quoted Mr. Hoover as saying that the American people are opposed to the policy of intervention and that he is in a position to state emphatically that such a policy has ceased. He concluded by saying that in the future there will be no intervention by the United States government in the internal affairs of other countries, that their sovereignty will be respected and that their rights to manage their own problems will be recognised.

HOOVER'S TRIP CALLED JOURNEY OF TRIUMPH

Many benefits will result from the visit of President-elect Hoover to South American countries, Henry C. Niess, official representative of the Republic of Argentina here and a member of the faculty of the University of Southern California, told those gathered at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the City Club.

Interpreting news dispatches with the eyes of one familiar with population and places mentioned, as well as information supplied him from private sources, Niess pictured Hoover's trip through Latin America as a triumphal journey.

The speaker, however, took occasion to voice disapproval of the Monroe Doctrine.

"It is a thing of yesterday," he declared. "The southern countries are really great nations and don't want to be treated as little brothers; they are not children any longer."

CUBA DISAPPOINTED BY CHANGE IN PLANS

HAVANA, Dec. 19. (AP)—Reports that Herbert Hoover will not visit here resulted today in official expressions of regret and disappointment at the Presidential palace. At the Secretariat of the President today there remained some hope, however, that the President-elect still will include Havana in his Latin-American good-will trip.

Cuba two weeks ago first ordered building of landing stair cases at the water front to be dedicated by Mr. Hoover, and renovation of a suite of rooms at the Presidential palace where he would be quartered. Plans of official Cuba were for a reception to equal that to President Coolidge last January at the opening of the sixth Pan-American Conference here.

CURTIS OF PUBLISHING FAME FETED

Schwab and Others Laud "Saturday Evening Post" Owner at Celebration

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Advertising, publishing and industrial leaders gathered today at a luncheon tendered by the Advertising Club of New York to Cyrus H. K. Curtis to celebrate the second centenary of the founding of the Saturday Evening Post.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was the principal speaker. He hailed Curtis as "just a good, honest every-day man," and a great pioneer of industry.

"He is a man to whom I would rather bow my head in honor," he said, "than the proudest monarch of the universe."

Among other speakers were Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times; Stanley R. Latshaw, president of the Butterick Publishing Company, and Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the Advertising Club.

SOMEONE STILL HAS THIRST

Maple Syrup in Old Whisky Bottle Taken and $10 Left in Its Place

SEATTLE, Dec. 19. (AP)—Some thirsty person was still thirsty today and had a quart of maple syrup to show for a $10 expenditure.

Federal prohibition officials said that a prominent Seattle woman was presented with a quart of home-made maple syrup when she was visiting friends in British Columbia recently. The bottle at one time contained a rare old whisky. When she crossed the international line customs officials sampled the syrup and her car was passed through.

She stopped at a small store on this side of the line and left her syrup in a shopping bag on a bench. When she came out the bottle was missing and in the bag was a $10 bill pinned to this note:

"We need this more than you do."

FEDERAL RADIO CASE DROPPED

Monopoly Charge Canceled by Trade Commission

Many Large Companies Have Interest in Hearings

Board Notes on Record Its Lack of Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission dismissed today its complaint charging monopoly in the manufacture and sale of radio devices against the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company, the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, the Westinghouse Electric Light Company, International Radio Telegraph Company, the United Fruit Company and the Wireless Specialty Apparatus Company.

Attorneys for the companies, including John W. Davis, for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, asked the commission last June to dismiss the case on grounds of insufficient proof and lack of jurisdiction.

The complaint issued in 1924 and since argued in a number of cities in different parts of the country, charged specifically that the companies involved "combined and conspired with the effect of restraining competition and creating monopoly in the manufacture, purchase and sale of radio apparatus and other electrical devices, and monopolizing radio communication."

Chairman Myers of the Federal Trade Commission, in concurring today with the action of the majority of the commission in dismissing the case, noted for the record that "the commission is without jurisdiction to enter an effective order" in this case.

KELLOGG PACT STRIKES SNAG

Priority Fight Impends in Senate Today

Surprise Move Delays Bill for Cruisers

King and Norris to Oppose Hale in Row

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Hardly had the Kellogg peace pact been reported formally to the Senate today before a surprise move was initiated to take it up for immediate consideration ahead of the long-pending naval construction measure.

An attempt of Chairman Hale of the naval committee to put the House bill authorizing construction of fifteen new cruisers before the Senate in accordance with the program of the Republican steering committee was blocked, and a decision on which will get the right of way went over until tomorrow.

When Senator Hale put his motion to take up the naval bill upon the disposition of the pending business, Senator King, Democrat, Utah, countered with a substitute motion to put ahead of it the Kellogg treaty which had been received a few hours earlier from the Foreign Relations Committee.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, another opponent of the naval measure, joined King and served notice that "there is no chance for a vote on this proposition today." A moment later the Senate adjourned and Senator Hale gave notice that immediately upon its reconvening tomorrow he will reinstitute his move to make the naval bill the unfinished business.

President Coolidge particularly is anxious for disposition of both the treaty and the navy bill and leaders believed they had worked out a situation whereby there would be no quarrel over the priority of the two.

Under the program which had the approval of Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, who is sponsoring the treaty, and of Chairman Hale, the two subjects would take their place in regular order. This would have given the naval bill right of way under the Senate's program, and Borah earlier in the day had announced he would wait until after Christmas to take up the treaty when it could be considered with a view "to getting somewhere." The row over priority now makes it doubtful if either proposal will get anywhere before Christmas.

Both Senators King and Norris are opposed to the naval bill. While a dogged fight seems in prospect tomorrow over making the navy bill the unfinished business, which would keep it before the Senate until voted upon, leaders believed tonight it would get the right of way.

Review of Day in Congress

Roy O. West's nomination to be Secretary of Interior was approved by the Senate Lands Committee.

The Kellogg antiwar treaty was reported to Senate and a move started to take it up before the cruiser bill.

The Hawes bill designed to permit States to bar prison-made goods from other States was passed by the Senate.

Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, declared the United States Steel Corporation will receive $65,000,000 in tax refunds under a settlement made by Secretary Mellon.

Congress Will Recess Saturday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Congress will recess for the holidays from next Saturday until January 3.

The Senate today passed a resolution already approved by the House fixing that period for the Christmas-New Year adjournment.

GARNER SCORES TAXES REFUND

Steel Corporation Amount Put at $65,000,000

Democratic Leader Attacks Secretary Mellon

Attitude as to Income Law Put Under Suspicion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The declaration that the United States Steel Corporation will receive $65,000,000 in tax refunds within one fiscal year through settlements with the Treasury was made in the House today by Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, which hands fiscal legislation.

The Texan declared he had been informed that if other cases of the corporation were settled upon the same basis, the government would have to refund between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 additional.

Fifteen million dollars of the refunds are included in estimates for this fiscal year, he said, and "if settled on the basis this one company alone will be settled with to the extent of $28,000,000 to $30,000,000 more, and be paid this year."

Loosing a veritable broadside upon the Treasury Department head, Garner charged that Mr. Mellon had given back more money to the taxpayers than all the other secretaries of the Treasury in the history of the country.

Then, turning to the proposal to repay $75,000,000 in back taxes this year, he inquired if it could not have been put off a little longer.

"There must be something in the back of his head to the effect that after the Fourth of March he might not have a chance," he said. "I don't know whether that is it, but I do know this, that he is in great haste to settle these cases that have been pending for eleven years.

"It would seem to me that he could let it go over just ninety days more and let a new administration do some of the refunding in the place of the old. It might have been advisable."

Beginning with the comparatively mild declaration that the Secretary of the Treasury in issuing statements of the conditions of the nation's finances, "makes his reports to fit his ivews on pending legislation," the Texan wound up with the charge that the Secretary seems to be administering the estate and graduated income tax laws in such a manner as to bring a demand for their repeal.

STATE BAR FOR PRISON GOODS NEAR

Senate Passes Measure Intended to Limit Sales; Bill Attacked by Borah

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Hawes bill designed to allow States to bar the sale of other States' prison-made goods was passed today by the Senate by a vote of 65 to 11.

The measure, already approved by the House, now goes to conference to adjust minor amendments before it may be sent to President Coolidge. The Senate changed the bill to make the interim before its provisions could become effective five years rather than three years as proposed by the House. The measure was supported by the American Federation of Labor.

The measure was assailed by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, as a proposal which will enable each State to say what interstate commerce should be permitted within that State. This, he said, is in conflict with the Constitution, which gave only the Federal government the right to regulate interstate trade.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, on the other hand, contended that the bill is not in conflict with the Constitution. He declared that it is entirely proper for a State to come to Congress for relief when that State by its own constitutional rights cannot pass the legislation to keep certain goods out of its boundaries.

BUDGET EYE SCRUTINIZES DAM'S COST

Measure Before Reaching President Also Will Go to Interior Department

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Boulder dam bill was received at the White House today and dispatched almost immediately to the Budget Bureau for consideration of the expenditures involved. Later it will be sent to the Interior Department for inspection there before being considered by President Coolidge.

After signing the bill today, Vice-President Dawes gave the pen he used to Senator Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada, one of the leading peacemakers in the bitter fight between California and Arizona over the Project.

"Now that the long fight for Boulder dam is over," he wrote Senator Pittman, "and in view of your aggressive and successful fight for that measure, I thought perhaps you would like to have the pen with which I signed the bill as President of the Senate."

Loans to Storm Victims Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—A bill by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, to authorize a loan fund of $15,000,000 for the relief of hurricane sufferers in Southeastern States was approved today by the Senate Agriculture Committee and will be considered in the Senate tomorrow.

The measure aims to relieve growers of cotton, corn and vegetable crops in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida by authorizing loans of not more than $3000 to any one farmer with which to rehabilitate his acreage.

CENSUS OUTLAY BEFORE HOUSE

Nineteen Million Requested for National Count

Item One of Largest in Latest Appropriation Bill

Measure Includes Funds for Four Departments

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The approach of the time when the Census Bureau will begin its fifteenth decennial counting of humans and compilation of other statistics was brought officially to the notice of Congress today when the House was asked by its Appropriations Committee to provide $19,000,000 for the job.

The figure is one of the largest single items in the appropriation bill submitted today for the State, Justice, Labor and Commerce departments, and accounts largely for the increase of $21,200,951 over current appropriations. For the four departments the committee asked $111,779,887, having pared the budget estimates by $94,460.

For each department the bill provides as follows:

State, $14,600,478, an increase of $275,475 over current funds and a decrease of $3120 from budget estimates; Justice, $27,944,370, increase of $1,136,307 and decrease of $159,200; Commerce, $58,519,609, increase of $20,147,079 and an increase of $62,860; Labor, $10,715,430, decrease of $352,910 and an increase of $5900.

IMPORTANT ITEMS

Important items for the Commerce Department include:

A total of $5,458,620 for establishment and maintaining civil airways; $490,000 for promoting of trade with South and Central America; $18,840 for prevention of overcrowding of passenger vessels; $85,700 for investigation of radio communication; $422,000 for investigation of mine accidents; $100,000 for potash explorations, and $75,000 for investigation of helium production.

For the Justice Department $2,307,720 is provided for detection and prosecution of crimes, including dry law violations; $1,930,000 for salaries of judges, and the following amounts for penal and correctional institutions:

Leavenworth, Kan., $1,086,910; Atlanta, $923,319; McNeil Island, Wash., $446,872; Federal Industrial Institution for Women, Alderson, W. Va., $293,210; United States Industrial reformatory, Chillicothe, O., $481,320.

STATE DEPARTMENT

For the State Department $2,000,000 is provided for foreign service buildings, $167,219 for the Pan-American Union, $28,597 for the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau and $250,000 for the eighteenth annual payment to Panama for rights granted in the construction of the Panama Canal.

Under the heading of contingent expenses for the State Department the committee inserted a provision which would permit the subcommittee in charge of appropriations for the State and Commerce departments to go abroad to examine the needs of these branches of the government.

The largest item for the Department of Labor is $7,915,000 for administering the Immigration Act.

New Land-Sales Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Authority for the Secretary of the Interior to acquire and sell delinquent lands in government reclamation projects is asked in a bill introduced by Representative French, Republican, Idaho.

The measure would provide that the Secretary require of settlers certain equipment and capital. Should the settlers fail to make the necessary payments, the Secretary would be authorized to cancel the contracts and release them from further obligations after forfeiting all rights and payments.

The bill would appropriate $250,000 from the reclamation fund to enforce the act.

Agriculture Bill Passed by House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The $143,000,000 annual supply bill for the Department of Agriculture was passed today by the House, virtually unchanged from the form in which it came from the Appropriation Committee.

SNOW CLOSES DOWN ON BYRD

White Curtain Shuts Ship in for Day and Night

Lone Fowl Seen Flying in Antarctic Storm

Vessel Forced to Wait for Clearer Weather

BY RUSSELL OWEN

[Copyright, 1928, by the New York Times Company and the St. Louis Post Dispatch.]

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, AT SEA, Dec. 18. (Delayed) (Exclusive)—We are lying in a world of drifting white. For hours the ship has not moved, shut in by solid ice that stretches for many miles. It is snowing hard, so one cannot see more than fifty yards and in the wind it sifts past us in a curtain that opens and closes giving swift glimpses of the tortured surface which are quickly hidden. Overhead is a pale glow where the sun is trying to break through, but only succeeds in making a diffused light that hurts the eyes as they strain to pierce the obscuring drift.

There is the fascination of the mysterious in this eerie concealment. It is not a haze or a mist but an enshrouding impalpable light that closes about us. When it opens for a moment we realize that our microcosm is not the limit of this frozen sea; but almost instantly that quick stabbing rift is blotted out and we are alone.

LIVE IN GRAY SILENCE

A day and a night now we have been living in this gray silence, broken only by the whistle of the wind in the rigging and the whine of the dogs. Voices are lost in this vast emptiness.

Every hour the light and color have changed, painting scenes which can never be forgotten.

Before the snow there was a wind which lifted clouds of scurrying drift from the surface of the ice and concealed the horizon. It changed its density constantly and uplifted cakes and hummocks which pushed out of the gloom and then were swiftly hidden as if an opaque but invisible hand had swept down over them.

A shining line would appear far away beyond the point where objects could be distinguished in the dull light, a line where the sun broke through between two clouds and advanced quickly toward us, picking out white monuments of snow that gleamed like golden beacons an instant and then disappeared.

CLOUDS FINALLY BREAK

A white bird appeared, a solitary thing moving silently and swiftly all but unseen against the colorless background of the snow. Like a strange and lonely spirit it moved among the obelisks and pyramids of ice.

It touched some primitive chord of superstition in those who watched it so much that it seemed to belong to another world, and one followed it intently till it flew into that misty curtain and vanished.

Toward midnight the clouds broke and for two hours the sun shone above the horizon, coloring the snow and sky with delicate pastel tints. From the ship stretched a path of rose-colored light, making beautiful the grotesque forms sculptured in the ice by the wind and the sea.

The snow and sky came together so that one could not tell where they joined, and the bands of rose and orange and pale green mounted to the golden-edged clouds.

Midnight and a world of subtle color that would have been the despair of a painter.

The capricious and threatening Antarctic has moments when it charms. No wonder men come back to it.

Now we are in this gray world of shadows again, the wind driving the snow against our faces and holding us bound. Leads may be ahead, but we cannot see them and so we wait until the storm blows by and we can push forward.

Gang Feud Seen in Dual Murder

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 19. (AP)—The bullet-riddled bodies of two men, one identified as Alfred Cearisse of San Francisco, were found twelve miles east of here this morning.

The shooting is believed to be the direct outgrowth of the slaying, November 24, last, in San Francisco of Gerry Ferri, reputed gangster leader, the Sheriff's office declared.

The investigators said they found a letter on the body identified as Cearisso's giving what they considered "conclusive evidence" that the dead man had been "taken for a ride" last night by gunmen friends of the murdered Ferri.

The Sheriff's office had not identified the second body late today.

Helium Plant Ordered Closed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Closing down of the government's helium plant at Fort Worth, Tex., on January 10 has been ordered by the Federal Bureau of Mines. Officials said the flow of natural gas from which the helium for the war and Navy Department aircraft is extracted has fallen so low that operations cannot be maintained.

The government now is completing another helium extraction plant at Amarillo, Tex., the output of which is expected to be sufficient for the military establishment's needs. The first flow of gas at this new source will not be available for some weeks.

Cousin of Czar Grows Worse

ANTIBES (France) Dec. 19. (AP) The condition of Grand Duke Nicholas, cousin of the late Czar of Russia, took a turn for the worse today. He is suffering from pneumonia.

Respiration became so difficult and so aggravating to the disease that the physicians administered oxygen. The entourage of the aged Russian nobleman has about given up hope for his survival.

PRESIDENT REMEMBERS VETERANS

Christmas Message Sent to All Organizations and Hospitals in Country

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—President Coolidge has dispatched a message of Christmas greetings to veterans' organizations and hospitals throughout the country.

"Personally and on behalf of a grateful and sympathetic country," he wrote, "I send you greetings and a message of good cheer upon this return of the holiday season.

"As we think of the bountiful benefits now enjoyed by our people, we can not and do not forget those who have suffered and do suffer because of injuries and ill-health received in the struggle to maintain these benefits secure. The material aids and comforts our government has extended have been freely given, and will be cheerfully maintained. But, at this time, I want to open to you the heart of the nation, which beats in warm response to your courage and fortitude in bearing your burdens.

"May peace and happiness be yours now and through the coming years."

"Pawnee Bill" Named in Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 19. (AP) Charging Maj. Gordon W. Lillie of Pawnee, better known as "Pawnee Bill," with breach of contract and refusing to pay for the story and scenario of his life for a motion picture, Lucina Bradshaw of Oklahoma City today filed suit in District Court for $50,000 damages.

Miss Bradshaw is a trainer of motion-picture stars, a biographer and scenario writer, she says.

As the result of an agreement Miss Bradshaw said she undertook to film a picture depicting Maj. Lillie's life.

Maj. Lillie later informed her that he had contracted with a film company for making the picture, Miss Bradshaw asserts.

Officer Shoots Bandit in Texas

HOUSTON (Tex.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Hundreds of Christmas shoppers were thrown into confusion last night when an unmasked bandit held up a jewelry store in the main business district, shot the proprietor over the heart, wounding him critically, and was in turn shot down by a policeman as he ran from the store with watches and jewelry in his pockets.

Jake Shainock, proprietor of the store, who was shot when he remonstrated with the robber, has a slight chance of recovery, hospital attendants said. Little hope was held for the wounded bandit, who identified himself as Harry Van Wagner. Charges of robbing with firearms were filed against him.

Plea Would Aid Disfranchised

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—A resolution to restore the rights of citizenship to approximately 1500 men and women who were convicted under the Wartime Espionage Act for utterances disapproving the war was introduced today by Representative Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin.

Berger himself was indicted five times on charges growing out of alleged acts of disloyalty during the war and was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary by former Judge Landis, in Chicago. The verdict later was reversed by the Supreme Court.

Senate Passes on Nominations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The nomination of Sherman J. Lowell of New York to be a member of the Tariff Commission was confirmed today by the Senate. The Senate also confirmed the nomination of Robert J. Grant of Denver to be Director of the Mint. Both nominations were for reappointments.

CHICAGO KIDNAP NET NARROWING

Witnesses Bring Accused Trio Nearer Chair

Law Forces Join Battle to Stamp Out Terror

Three Now in Custody for Reprisal Slaying

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—A dozen witnesses, some of whom reported receiving threats to keep them from testifying, today drove the final nails into the structure of evidence through which the State hopes to send to the electric chair three accused kidnapers of little Billy Ranieri, while all forces of the law are engaged in a battle to stamp out the reign of terrorism and lawlessness that has followed in the wake of the abduction.

In the same closely guarded courtroom in which 10-year-old Billy and his father and uncle yesterday pointed out the defendants, Angelo Petitti, Andrew Cappellano, and his son, Tony, 16 years of age, as the plotters, witness after witness went to the stand today to testify to statements of the defendants or to actions viewed by the State as showing their knowledge of and participation in the kidnaping.

SLAYING ROUND-UP

Meanwhile, the police had rounded up three men out of 150 arrested who they declar can throw much light on the slaying last Monday night of Ole Scully, cousin of the Ranieri boy's father and one of the State's principal witnesses against Petitti. Scully was shot to death in an Italian club room and several companions beaten with baseball bats.

The three held are Fred Petitti, brother of Angelo; Frank Mastroianni, Billy's godfather, and Frank Calabrese. The latter two are under indictment for extortion. Efforts during the early part of the day to free Petitti and Mastroianni were futile and the police prepared to take them before some of those wounded when Scully was slain.

The police, the State's Attorney's office, and the Coroner all were investigating the Scully killing and a special detail is at work inquiring into the various threats received by witnesses, prosecutors and other officials, including an anonymous communication of Judge Gentsel, all warning the prosecution and its witnesses to desist from prosecuting the defendants.

ALL UNDER GUARD

The Ranieri family, the jury and the State's witnesses all are under guard and spectators in the courtroom are searched before they are admitted.

Among today's witnesses were Nick Ranieri, the boy's uncle, who told of negotiating with Petitti for the release of the child; policemen who told of questioning Petitti and the Cappellanos, and Thomas Dominic, a relative of the Ranieris, who said he obtained a promise from Petitti to consider releasing the boy if Petitti were allowed to talk with his wife and son. The request was granted and the boy soon afterward was freed by the fiidnapers near Joliet, Ill., the witness said.

O'NEILL AT MANILA BUT UNRESTED

Playwright Seeking Quiet Identified Despite Hiding Behind Assumed Name

MANILA, Dec. 19. (AP)—Trailed constantly by newspaper men seeking to establish his identity, Eugene O'Neill, American playwright, today found in Manila but little of the rest and seclusion he has been seeking since his recent arrival in the Orient.

O'Neill, who arrived here from Shanghai yesterday under an assumed name, was identified positively today through his passport and correspondence and notebooks bearing his name.

Choosing to remain aboard the steamer Coblenz which brought him here, O'Neill spent a sleepless night last night due to the heat and the noise incidental to the loading of cargo. He looked haggard this morning.

Fourth Set of Twins Arrives

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—For the fourth time in seven years twins have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Robey here, bringing the total number of children in the family to fourteen.

"We missed the unlucky number, anyway," Robey said philosophically today.

"Doing well," was the report on the mother and the twins, a boy and girl to be named Clarence and Constance.

CORNELL GETS BUILDING GIFT

Law School Will Benefit from Its Graduate

Myron C. Taylor Member of Board of Trustees

ITHACA (N. Y.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Myron C. Taylor of New York, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, has given $1,500,000 to Cornell University for a new building to house the Cornell law school.

Announcement of the gift was made tonight by the board of trustees, of which Mr. Taylor is a member. He was graduated from the law school with the class of 1894.

In his letter conveying the gift, Mr. Taylor said that thirty years of experience in the New York bar and close contact with big enterprises had shown him the need for "competent and well-trained lawyers to guide in the handling of the larger affairs of the country."

"It has also appeared to me," he wrote, "that in the public affairs of the day, both at home and abroad, in peace and at war, no group of men has made a greater contribution than the members of the bar."

VESTRIS ENIGMA TEST PROPOSED

Sister Ship Will be Tilted to Find Answer

Federal Experts Hope to Find Tragedy Cause

Possible Instability Hinted in Construction

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—An attempt to solve the puzzle as to just what caused the Vestris disaster last month will be made in New York Harbor in January when the steamship Vauban, a sister ship to the Vestris, returns from her regular South American voyage.

The Lamport & Holt steamship line, which owns the vessel, has agreed to allow the Vauban to be tilted over on one side, while D. N. Hoover, inspector-general of the Steamship Inspection Service and his assistants study her behavior.

The Vestris sank off the Virginia Capes after springing leaks and listing. It has been suggested that her eventual loss was partially caused by a structural lack of stability under water-logged conditions. It is believed that by putting the Vauban into somewhat the same posture some facts can be learned which might clear up the Vestris incident and prevent any recurrence. Such inclining tests have been made before by the Steamship Inspection Service and constitute a regular portion of the testing out of new steamships prior ot putting them in service.

COMMISSIONER BLAMES LACK OF ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—United States Commissioner O'Neill, who presided at the Federal inquiry into the sinking of the steamer Vestris, with loss of more than 100 lives, said in his official report today that there was an almost total absence of organization on the ship.

"The organization and assignments which were supposed to be in force," the report read, "were almost wholly abandoned and no new organization was created."

The report stated that there was no general order to prepare the lifeboats and get passengers and crew into them, that no order to abandon ship was issued, and that the officers did not in most instances go to their assigned positions or make any attempt to distribute passengers in their proper boats.

EXTRAORDINARY CONDITIONS

"This failure on the part of the personnel," Commissioner O'Neill wrote, "and the unwise methods pursued are the more extraordinary inasmuch as the approach of danger was gradual and apparent, and it left ample time to conduct an effective and properly organized operation."

The commissioner made fourteen recommendations the better to safeguard life at sea.

The O'Neill report says that the storm the Vestris encountered and during which it filled with water and keeled over was severe but that such a vessel ought to have passed through it readily if well manned and seaworthy.

Considerable space is given in the report to inspection of lifeboats. Edward Keener, who inspected the Vestris before she sailed as an inspector of the Steamship Inspection Service of the Department of Commerce, wrote in his official report that he had lowered lifeboats in accordance with regulations but admitted at the Vestris's inquiry that this report was false. In this connection O'Neill quoted a communication from the Department of Commerce dated May 1, 1913, in which it is said that regulations about lowering lifeboats are applicable only to American ships.

"There is no legal requirement for the periodical testing of lifeboats on foreign vessels leaving American ports for ports other than a home port of the foreign country. Any testing which may take place is, in consequence, purely voluntary and not adequate basis for holding the inspector to any definite accountability."

CONSTRUES REGULATION

As with lifeboats so the same condition exists as to testing of life preservers, the commissioner continued, and "with great deference" he recorded his disagreement with the opinion that American requirements are not applicable to all vessels sailing from American ports.

The commissioner states that conditions at 4 a.m. of the day the ship sank should have prompted a prudent master to send out a distress call at that time. Capt. Carey dispatched the first SOS at 10 o'clock.

"The delay for six hours caused the great loss of life," Commissioner O'Neill asserts. "If the SOS had been sent out at 4 o'clock, vessels would have been standing by in a calm sea before the Vestris sank."

TRIGGER EXPERT TOO MUCH SO

Chicago Policeman Gets so Speedy That He Shoots Himself

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Thomas Pagni, traffic policeman, was practicing the fascinating art known as "quick on the draw."

He was getting pretty good. From a posture of absolute nonchalance he suddenly would drop his hand to his holster, whip forth the weapon and blaze away. It ceased to be a matter of seconds; it became a matter of split seconds.

It got so that Officer Pagni's finger would curl around the trigger even as the weapon was leaping from its holster, so that the bullet was well on its way long before he could say "Jack Robinson."

It got so fast, in fact, that Officer Pagni pulled the trigger before the gun was out of the holster; which explains why he was in the hospital today with a bullet in his thigh.

Judge Rawlins Expires at Sea

HONOLULU, Dec. 19. (AP)—William T. Rawlins, judge of the United States District Court at Honolulu, died last night on the steamship City of Honolulu, while traveling from San Pedro, Cal., to this city.

A message received here today from the master of the steamship said: "Judge Rawlins passed away last evening. Inform sister." His sister resides in Honolulu.

Judge Rawlins was in Washington recently on official business, and after visiting in Los Angeles a few days, left there the 15th inst.

He was born in Honolulu and had held many public offices. He leaves his widow and a daughter.

Anglo-Chinese Treaty Signed

NANKING, Dec. 19. (AP)—Semi-official Chinese reports state that an Anglo-Chinese tariff treaty was signed last midnight by Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister, and C. T. Wang, the Chinese Foreign Minister.

Previous dispatches from Nanking have stated that a Chinese-British agreement on tariff questions similar to the Chinese-American tariff treaty recognizing the principle of complete national tariff autonomy had been reached and would be signed shortly.

FLU SUFFERERS SHOW INCREASE

Surgeon-General's Report Analyzes Epidemic

Gain in Cases Expected as Disease Moves East

Mild Form of Illness Not Cause for Great Alarm

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Surgeon-General Cumming of the Public Health Service today said complete reports on the influenza outbreak indicated a total of at least 705,385 new cases throughout the country during last week, a "decided increase over the previous week's spread."

A larger increase in number of cases may be expected, the Surgeon-General added, as the crest of the wave of the disease continues to move eastward. He, however, did not view the situation with alarm.

"It appears that the majority of cases are of mild form," Dr. Cumming said, "although one State, Montana, reports that as the number of cases declines, there appears to be a great severity in the individual cases."

INCREASE NATURAL

The increase in the death rate reported by the Bureau of Census yesterday was looked upon as the natural result of the great increase in the spread of the disease.

Public health officers, he said, are at work investigating the causes and characteristics of influenza. Their knowledge of the disease, he indicated, will be increased by statistics on the course of the epidemic, but he held little hope of any material progress toward prevention of future epidemics until the influenza bacillus is isolated and a specific cure or a preventive is developed.

The estimate of 705,385 cases was based upon actual reports of 141,077 cases. Reports for the previous week showed 40,520 cases, or an indication of at least 202,600 cases.

Reports of the Public Health Service today gave the following number of cases.

NATION FOUND SAFE FOR DRYS

Illinois Anti-Saloon League Opens Victory Meeting

Hoover Election Called Long Step for Prohibition

Jail for Liquor Buyer One of Proposed Reforms

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Finding America "safe for prohibition," dry leaders from many States gathered here today to rejoice with song and speech at the "victory" convention of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League—and to devise ways and means for sharpening the teeth of the prohibitory laws.

Superintendents from various sections came to exchange notes on the election of November 6, last, and what it meant to the cause of teetotalism.

URGE JAIL FOR BUYER

Standing out among the reforms advocated was jail sentences for the buyers of liquor, who, according to Dr. W. H. Nicholas, president of the Illinois league, are "equally culpable with the men who sell."

"We want to make it unpopular for the movies and newspapers to ridicule prohibition and the persons who support it, and seek to promote it," he said.

"The November election was the greatest step forward for prohibition in history," was the message brought to the convention by P. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"Mr. Hoover's election has presented a great opportunity and has placed a great responsibility upon the dry forces," he said. "Within the next four years the people of America will expect the Eighteenth Amendment to reach its highest success."

SMITH DEFEAT CITED

"Gov. Smith's overwhelming defeat," he said, "demonstrated that the American people want prohibition to succeed. It has been decisively proved that the American people do not intend to have the prohibition laws either repealed or nullified. It is up to those who have opposed prohibition enforcement on the theory that it did not represent the will of the people to join with the majority in giving the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act their patriotic support."

As the result of the elections, he said, there will be only five wet governors; 329 drys, as compared with 106 wets in the House, and eighty dry Senators, compared with sixteen he classed as wet. Five outstanding wet Senators in the present Congress, he said, will be absent from the next session.

LOUISVILLE PROSPERS

Col. Patrick Henry Callahan of Louisville, Ky., president of the Association of Catholics for Prohibition, said:

"The city of Louisville, to which at one time the manufacture of whisky was of just as much importance as motor cars today are in Detroit, never saw any worth-while prosperity until the liquor business was destroyed."

"And in eight years of prohibition we have made as much progress in every way as was made during the previous eighty years," he added.

HYMNS HIDE SAWING AND PAIR ESCAPE

Lifer and Convict With Short Term to Serve Flee Prison in Washington

TACOMA, Dec. 19. (AP)—Sawing their way through steel bars to the strains of hymns being sung by prisoners and guards during morning devotional exercises in the prison chapel, two prisoners, one of them serving a life sentence for murder, escaped from the McNeil Island Federal penitentiary about 6 a.m. today.

The prisoners who made the daring escape are Jesse R. Watkins, 25 years of age, a lifer, and Alvin Hodges, serving a sentence of a year for violation of the National Motor Vehicle Act.

Watkins had been at the penitentiary since October 2, 1927, when he was received after being given a life sentence in Federal Court in San Francisco for a killing.

Hodges's escape was his second since he was received at the penitentiary February 10, last. He tried to get away on March 25 but was recaptured before he was able to get off the island. He had only four months of his sentence to serve before obtaining freedom. He was received from Phoenix, Ariz.

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Prof. Raymond Dodge of the Yale University department of psychology announced today that the ninth international congress of psychology will be held at Yale September 1 to 7, 1929.

WOMAN KILLS SELF TO KEEP COMRADESHIP WITH BROTHER

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Close to her brother in life, through the fall of Imperial Russia, where he was a man of rank and wealth, and during his last years in the United States as a university professor, Miss Claudia Maximow, 58 years of age, was with him today in death.

Having trudged with Dr. Alexander Maximow and his wife across the perilous ice fields of the Gulf of Finland, when he fled from soviet mistreatment, she took her place at his side in the laboratories of the University of Chicago, where he did research work in blood and connecting tissue, on which he was a noted authority.

Dr. Maximow died of heart disease the 4th inst. Yesterday the sister was found dead in her apartment. All the gas jets were open and two notes lay on a table.

In one she declared her sanity, adulation for her brother, grief over his death, and said, "Just bury me in potter's field. Let my unhappy sister-in-law spend as little money as possible on my funeral."

The other note criticised the University of Chicago.

"The trustees even refused to give Dr. Maximow's widow the money they took from him every month for seven years," she said.

Frederick Woodward, acting president of the university, said Dr. Maximow received full professional salary and that the trustees had ordered four months' salary to be paid to the widow following his death.

EARTH CORE PIERCED BY LONG QUAKE

Temblor in Far East Goes Right Through and Comes Out on Other Side

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Dec. 19. (AP) An earthquake which originated in the vicinity of the Malay Peninsula sent its vibrations through the core of the earth and to the surface again today with such intensity that unusual recordings were registered on seismographs at several observatories in North America.

The Harvard observatory seismograph recorded an earthquake starting at 6:58 a.m. and lasting until 8:30 a.m., when the record was removed. A study of the record revealed that the vibrations had traveled through the earth, a rare occurrence.

L. D. Leet, chief observer at Harvard, explained that the earthquake vibrations, instead of traveling around the earth, had gone to the earth's core, through it and out to the other side of the world. Had the earthquake followed its usual course, the vibrations recorded would have been weak, he said. Instead, they were of great intensity, almost as great as though the earthquake had originated comparatively near the observatory.

Lady Mary Says It's Not Truth

BUFFALO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Lady Mary Heath returned here from Toronto by airplane today, saying that she had canceled all her engagements in the Canadian city because she had been annoyed and embarrassed by an interview in which she says she was misquoted.

The interview made Lady Mary say that she found it a relief to get into Canada where "one might get a drink without dodging," and that she was "fed up with hole-and-corner prohibition drinking."

Lady Mary said she is practically a teetotaler and has great respect for the prohibition laws of the United States.

Chained Youth Found in House

RACINE (Wis.) Dec. 19. (AP)—An 11-year-old orphan boy was found a prisoner in a dingy rear room of an old house here today, bound to a bed by a heavy logging chain fastened with two padlocks.

Raymond Stratton, who said he had been placed there after being beaten because he did not wash dishes fast enough, was released by police. The lad said he had been brought to Racine from Chicago three years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson.

A warrant charging "torture, cruelty and maltreatment," was issued for the Johnsons.

Andrews Plans New Expedition

BELOIT (Wis.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Another expedition to Mongolia seeking remains of the "missing link" will sail the last of March, it was announced today by Roy Chapman Andrews, the explorer who led a party of scientists there early this year.

The remains sought are those of the "Java man's" ancestors. The search will be made, he said, on a Pliocene fossil deposit estimated to be from 1,000,000 to 6,000,000 years old. It is about 700 miles from Shara Mumuran in the Kaidan Path, Andrews said.

UNIVERSITY REGENTS START PLEDGE SUITS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Regents of University of California, acting as trustees for the San Francisco War Memorial Fund, today filed suits to collect $15,000 from Don Lee, automobile dealer here, and $3750 from the McCrerry Estate Company. The complaint asserted the money had been pledged to the memorial fund, but is unpaid.

GIRL CHASED IN AIRPLANE BY DOCTOR

Minnesotan at Capitol of Utah in Mystery Pursuit of New Yorker on Train

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 19. (AP)—Dr. David O. Beeker of Rochester, Minn., who flew over three States today in an effort to overtake Miss Ruth McConnell, a passenger on the San Francisco-bound Overland Limited, arrived at the Salt Lake Airport shortly after 8 o'clock tonight.

He refused to disclose the purpose of the aerial dash from Omaha, Neb., and described it as "merely a pleasure jaunt."

When questioned about reports emanating from Omaha that Miss McConnell was running away from her uncle, Kenneth B. Coulter, New York broker and treasurer of the Carolina Southern Railroad and that he had been commissioned to overtake her, he said "somebody had a pipe dream."

Francis D. Bowen, Omaha Indian, pilot, is not familiar with the unlighted airways between Salt Lake City and Reno, and refused to continue the flight tonight. Dr. Meeker announced he will take off for the west coast at dawn.

MRS. MEEKER THINKS IT'S JUST ANOTHER FAIRY TALE

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Dec. 19. (AP) D. Olan Meeker of this city, believed to be the Dr. Meeker engaged in the pursuit of Miss Ruth McConnell, is a student at the medical school of the University of Rochester. University authorities said tonight that Meeker is a fourth-year student there, but know nothing of his present whereabouts. Friends say he has not been at the university for the past three days.

Mrs. D. Olan Meeker, at her home here tonight, added mystery to the mystery pursuit.

"Most amusing, most fantastical, most absurd; a fine fairy tale, a pretty bedtime story," was the only comment of Mrs. Meeker when the story of the pursuit was related to her.

Mrs. Meeker said that her husband had not been home since Monday and that she did not know where he is.

Chicagoan Killed in Third Effort at Assassination

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Two times Clyde Healy escaped assassination. Yesterday he didn't.

His body, three bullets in the head, was found beside the curb of a south-side street. For many hours he was marked on the Coroner's records as the victim of a "vampire" motorist. When a careful examination was made last night the bullet holes were found.

Healy, whose father was a well-known politician on the south side two decades ago, apparently had been "taken for a ride" in his own car, which was found several blocks away. Search was started for his chauffeur, Bart Riley.

Police said an unsuccessful attempt to kill Healy was made some time ago by the Masters gang of Des Moines to whom, police were told, Healy sold 100 barrels of water which was supposed to be moonshine. Another attempt against his life was made following the slaying of a west-side tailor, who trafficked in liquor as a side line.

Wide Activities of Narcotic Ring Hinted in Inquiry

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Investigation into an international narcotic ring, one of whose shipments, estimated to be worth $5,000,000, was seized last night on a Jersey City pier, has led Federal agents to believe narcotics of many times that value have been smuggled into this country by the same ring the past few months.

Edward S. Silver, assistant United States Attorney, today said he has traced shipments of forty-four additional cases, all to the fictitious Philadelphia consignee of the nine cases they seized last night. The shipments were billed either as "brushes" or "porcelain."

Although some of the cases might have been dummies, sent through to test the safety of the route, Silver said he believes some contained narcotics.

Four Injured in Ship Crash

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 19. (AP) Four persons were injured today when the prow of the Norwegian freighter Hampholm plowed into their staterooms on the Princess Adelaide and buried them under debris. The 100-odd passengers on the Canadian Pacific Adelaide were safely transferred to other boats.

The freighter struck the Princess Adelaide amidships during a heavy fog which crippled shipping in English Bay here. The Hampholm cut her way ten feet into the side of the passenger vessel, opening a gap which flooded the engine-room. The two vessels returned to port here tonight.

BORNEO SCHEME BRINGS ARREST

British Officer of War Held in San Francisco

Angeleno Also Charged With Asserted Land Fraud

Broker Declares Self Victim of $27,000 Deal

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—An assertedly extensive scheme to exploit the hardwood forests of Borneo exploded today as police lodged one man in jail and warrants for grand theft were issued for two others who are accused of defrauding a group of San Francisco capitalists of $27,000.

The man arrested is John W. Donaldson Aiken, 54 years of age, British mining engineer and an officer in the World War. His accused associates in the scheme, for whom warrants were issued, are Harry Garson, Hollywood film producer, the former manager and reputed former husband of Clara Kimball Young; and Alfred Violetta, Los Angeles promoter.

BROKER CAUSES COMPLAINTS

The warrants were issued by Judge Jacks on complaint of J. B. Carroll, Jr., local stock broker.

According to Carrol's charges, Aiken represented himself as the friend of a native sultan in a Borneo province and said he held concessions on valuable hardwood timber lands. Carroll and his associates financed Aiken to go to Borneo and develop these concessions, it is charged, at a cost of $27,000.

When Aiken reached Borneo, the complaint says, he reported the lands covered by his concessions had been forfeited to the British government for nonpayment of taxes. He then offered to get further concessions if his San Francisco backers would advance him $30,000 or $40,000 more.

They refused, and when Aiken returned to this country two weeks ago, bitter arguments ensued, finally resulting in Aiken's arrest.

AIKEN DENIES CHARGES

The specific charge against him is fraud to the amount of $1000, which Caroll said he can prove specifically, although he said Aiken had taken a total of $6000 from him.

Aiken, held at the City Prison in default of $5000 cash bail, denies the charges. He says he not only obtained concessions covering 250,000 acres of hardwood timber land for which he originally went to Borneo, but he came back with concessions covering 1,750,000 acres.

Aiken maintains the plan was legitimate in every particular, and asserts he did not receive any of the $27,000, except $250 for personal expenses. Harry Garson acted as treasurer, he declared.

The promoter, he said, was Violetta. Aiken named Carroll's associates in the financing as Leon Kutner, wealthy importer, Jack Milla of the California Cotton Mills of Oakland and John L. Ickus of San Francisco.

Ponzi Creditors to Receive Fund

BOSTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—Creditors of Charles Ponzi, who is serving a State prison term as a result of the explosion of his get-rich-quick bubble here in 1920, will receive a final dividend of approximately $80,000, Henry V. Cunningham, trustee of the Ponzi estate, announced tonight. Checks for the amount are in the mail tonight, he said.

The final dividend completes a total payment to creditors of 37 per cent, or approximately $1,500,000 in five years.

SHE USES PREROGATIVE AND SHIFTS MIND, ALSO MATE-TO-BE

LONDON, Dec. 19. (AP)—A London bride today exercised her woman's prerogative and changed her mind—and her bridegroom—at the last moment, thus giving the society editors an opportunity to place their story under glaring headlines in the afternoon papers.

She is Miss Julia Sargood, a petite New Zealander, and, according to a recently published announcement, was to have been lead to the altar of the famous Savoy chapel by Capt. Edward Lewis Vallepope of the Royal Artillery. She appeared today with a tall young army officer. But he was not the man it had been announced she would marry. He was Lieut. Jan Lawrence Henderson Mac Killop of the Royal Engineers.

When the bride was asked now this had come about, she laughed charmingly as she replied: "For heaven's sake, get the names right. The other one is off. I'm not marrying Capt. Pope."

Further explanation was not forthcoming.

The statement of the Afghan legation that Kabul now is quiet may be due to this temporary cessation of fighting.

The British government has no late news. The Foreign Minister explained to the House of Commons today that the Indian government, fearing trouble, has been preparing to bring out British Nationals should it become necessary. That such necessity has not yet arisen is confirmed by an air reconnaissance from India and by official advices that the British Minister has received assurance from the rebels that they have no hostile intentions toward foreigners.

The British plane, which flew from the Indian frontier over the legation in Kabul, saw letters traced on the ground spelling, "We are all well. Do not attempt to land."

The British Air Ministry reports that another airplane with two occupants landed safely at Kabul and that it was not shot down as first reported.

The main disorder has been in the eastern district of Jelalabad, where the tribes revolted against taxes and laws requiring the Shinwari and Kahugyani tribes to carry identification papers, according to a statement issued by the Afghan Legation here tonight. It is denied that this revolt has any connection with the westernization program of King Amanullah and it is stated that it has been suppressed.

German Note About Fixing Sum to Go Unanswered

BERLIN, Dec. 19. (AP)—It was semiofficially stated today that Germany does not expect a reply to her note of October 30 regarding the appointment of an expert commission for the fixation of final reparations.

Negotiations over the technical preparations for the experts' conference are regarded as closed, and instead of a formal reply to Germany a communique will be issued to the press in Paris tomorrow explaining the points mutually agreed upon and outlining the functions of the experts.

It is understood that the United States will be invited to send experts by the British Ambassador at Washington, speaking not as the representative of Great Britain but of the six powers involved. Germany and Japan will appoint their own experts, while Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium may decide to have the reparations committee do so.

TOOTHACHE CAUSES MAN TO KILL HIMSELF

FORT CHESTER (Pa.) Dec. 19. (AP)—A toothache is believed to have driven Max Stempian of Greenwich, Ct., to commit suicide. He visited a dentist's office here for treatment early last evening and finding the dentist out, leaped from a window in the office and disappeared. Early this morning his body was found hanging by a belt from a rafter in a coal yard. He leaves a widow and seven children.

SWAIN COURTS WAY INTO JAIL

Romantic Box Maker to Pass Ninety Days Wondering Why She Said, "No"

OAKLAND, Dec. 19. (AP)—A romantic box maker from Lodi could not take "no" for an answer and was sent to jail today for ninety days.

William Wendschlag got into trouble once before when he insisted that Miss Rose Pollock marry him after a courtship by mail. The woman said, "No," and the swain's insistence won him a ninety-day suspended sentence.

Today the police judge was told that Wendschlag had called Miss Pollock on the telephone ten times within three hours and had come to her home with a parson in a futile effort to obtain her hand in marriage.

The judge made the jail sentence effective immediately.

JEALOUSY QUARREL RESULTS FATALLY

SYRACUSE (Kan.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Walter Plunkett, 21 years of age, son of Henry Plunkett, farmer residing northwest of here, was shot and killed yesterday after a quarrel with a farmhand over a woman. "Shorty" Mack, 34, surrendered to Sheriff Henderson of Hamilton and admitted the shooting. He is held in jail awaiting preliminary hearing. The shooting took place near the Plunkett farmhouse as Walter Plunkett, Mack and two other farmhands were on their way to the fields.

ARMS CUT PLAN TO BE RENEWED

League of Nations Will Act Early in Spring

Step Awaits Inauguration of Hoover

Naval as Well as Military Cut Proposed

PARIS, Dec. 19. (AP)—Efforts toward a reduction of world armaments, including naval forces, will be vigorously renewed by the League of Nations immediately after the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, provided the United States approves provisional plans which were formulated today. The plans were formulated at a meeting between Dr. J. Loudon, Minister of the Netherlands to France, who is president of the preparatory commission of the League, and Eric Colban, director of the League's disarmament section.

It was decided to convoke a committee of experts at Geneva on March 11 to discuss control of the manufacture of armaments. A tentative agreement was concluded to summon the preparatory disarmament commission after Easter during the first fortnight in April. The date of this meeting will be announced when the American government approves.

Since the opinion exists in some circles that the commission should not risk a fiasco similar to the last session and that the League should wait for the removal of some naval difficulties, it is conceivable that a further postponement may be decided upon.

Some observers hope that the delegates of the naval powers can reach an agreement concerning the types of cruisers and submarines to be limited during private conversations in the course of the general negotiations at Geneva.

Match this - if you can - for a thrill on Christmas Eve!

Such a Christmas has few equals. Such a Christmas comes but twice in a woman's life. First, as a bride, when that first modest budget is proudly stretched to include a modest piano. Then comes that glorious day - when the family budget is a bit more pretentious - and the first piano is exchanged for a truly distinguished instrument that will glorify her home for the balance of her days. Christmas time is piano-time the world around. Why not make it this year. And it is so easy to own even a fine piano - even a Weber - companion of the masters - and one of the three great international instruments.

$100 this Christmas—and the balance in two years or more will deliver

The Five Foot Weber - $1160

This model is the newest creation of the Æolian laboratories, designed for the restricted space of the modern home. The modern hostess wants floor space for entertaining - for dancing - for bridge tables, etc. She must have her piano, but her ideal is one that is not too large. Unfortunately, the great piano names were not to be had in the smallest sizes - until the advent of the Five Foot Weber only two months ago.

Bring her to our store! Let her see it - hear it - just once! It will sing its way into her heart.

MEXICAN ALIEN ENTRY LESSENS

Immigration Commissioner Confers With Congress

Workers Show Increased Tendency to Remain

Prospects for Box Measure Appear Unfavorable

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—The number of Mexicans crossing the border into the United States by illegal methods is decreasing, but no accurate check is possible under present personnel of the patrol force and present appropriations and any estimate placed on the number of Mexicans returning to their own country each year is "pure speculation."

This summarizes the testimony of William E. Hull, Commissioner of Immigration, and George J. Harris, an assistant, in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, made public today with the reporting of the Labor Department appropriation bill.

Harris, who carried the burden of the report on border conditions, told the committee, however, that an increased tendency on the part of Mexicans to remain in this country, had been noted. He said this was due to a fear on their part that restriction would be slapped on by the United States.

MEXICAN FEARS

"The Mexicans," said Harris, "are afraid of more restrictive legislation. Formerly they went back home with the thought that it was a very easy matter to return, but now they have the thought always in mind that if they leave this country they may not be able to get back. Consequently they are staying in large numbers." He said a six months' check, as accurate as could be made, showed a 50 per cent return.

While not asked to give a direct opinion about the Box and Harris bills which would place Mexico in the European quota act, Harris said that to take Mexicans away from this country during the cropping season in the Southwest "might cause very serious losses to the farmers."

FIGURES GUESSWORK

The entire questioning was wound up with discussion of various immigration regulations which have to be observed on the border, the payment of head taxes and other routine details which keep United States inspectors so busy watching the influx of Mexicans they have no time to check on those crossing the border the other way. Hull and Harris stated repeatedly that this is the case and that any figures bearing on the to-and-fro flow of Mexican immigration are necessarily based on guesses.

As the result of their testimony the Labor Department measure as reported from the committee carries an increase of approximately $110,000 for border work, most of which will go by administrative direction to the Mexican boundary stations. Both officials stated there is no particular problem of illegal entry on the Canadian line.

BOTH SIDES SATISFIED

The committee testimony centered fresh attention on the fight in Congress over shutting out Mexican immigration, with both sides declaring it helped their view of the case. The Senate Immigration Committee, headed by Senator Johnson of California, last Thursday reported out a bill by Senator Harris, Democrat, of Georgia, applying the European quota act to Mexico, and it is possible the senate may consider the legislation before the end of the present session. However, the main struggle is in the House Immigration Committee, where for several years advocates of Mexican restriction have been attempting to get favorable action on a twin measure, sponsored by Representative Box, Democrat, of Texas.

After trying to get speedy and, in fact, semisecret action by the committee just prior to the reconvening of Congress, friends of the Box bill relaxed their efforts and apparently have given up hope that the legislation may be reported out in time for House action this session. Interests in Southern California and other sections of the Southwest, dependent on Mexicans for menial labor natives will not perform, have demanded further hearings before any action is taken.

LAW OF GLADES SUPREME

Seminole Indian Chief Charged as Slayer of Squaw Does Penance in Tribal Manner

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Bending over a kettle in which was brewing a propitiatory decoction of roots and herbs, and appealing to the Great Spirit for comfort and guidance in his trouble, Josie Billie, Seminole medicine man, charged with slaying a squaw of his tribe Sunday, began the last of a four-day ceremonial penance today, as enjoined by the custom of the Seminoles.

Still clad in the torn and bloody garments which gave evidence of the battle he fought with three jealous Seminoles, who attacked him Saturday night, Josie Billie said, "No can change clothes, no can eat, no can tell about fight for four suns."

SUFFER VICARIOUSLY

Every member of the Blind Pass community performed ritual purgation yesterday—each taking a strong draught of herbs as a symbol that all Josie Billie's clanspeople suffer vicariously for the misdoings of any member.

Soon after Christmas Josie Billie will journey into the far Everglades to appear before Ingram Billie, great chief of all the Seminoles. He will be accompanied by W. Stanley Hanson of Fort Myers, who is leader and padrone of all the Seminoles.

WAIT FOR DANCE

Then he must wait for the time of the green-corn dance in June, when all notable infractions of Seminole discipline and custom, and all serious misdeeds are judged, sentence passed and execution carried out. In the case of Josie Billie, it may mean death.

The squaw that Josie Billie is charged with stabbing was taken to a Miami hospital by the Indian.

Seminole law will be allowed to take its course by the white authorities, both State and Federal.

FERRY MERGER DEAL RATIFIED

Combine of Bay City Vehicle Carriers Approved

Four Companies Will Unite to Improve Service

Boats to be Shifted According to Need of Seasons

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Formal ratification of the anticipated merger of all vehicular ferries operating on San Francisco Bay was attained at a meeting of the four interested companies in New York today and made public in a joint statement here. The deal has been pending for several months. Although the announcement provides little of detail and gives none of the financing arrangements involved, it serves to authenticate previously published reports.

The companies in the move are the Southern Pacific, Northwestern Pacific, Golden Gate Ferry Company and the Monticello Steamship Company. Merging arrangements were agreed upon by Paul Shoup, president - elect of the Southern Pacific, acting for that company and the Northwestern Pacific, complete control of which recently was acquired from the Santa Fe, and S. P. Eastman, representing the Golden Gate and Monticello companies. Confirmation followed immediately by E. H. Maggard, president of the Northwestern Pacific for that line individually, and by A. O. Stewart, president of Golden Gate Ferry Company.

FOR BETTER SERVICE

Co-ordination will be accomplished, the announcement said, through the formation of a new company, the name of which was not given. The new organization will have a board of nine directors. It is assumed actual union of the essential securities will be undertaken at once.

The merger involves only those ferries operating in the vehicular service, although some of them combine the carrying of foot passengers as a convenience. It does not involve the exclusively passenger-carrying lines. The vehicular business on the bay is admittedly the highest source of revenue, and the fundamental factor behind the union is announced as better service through the allocation of boats when and where needed.

BOATS TO BE SHIFTED

"This will result in improved service to the public by eliminating duplication and losses," the announcement reads. "The union of the auto fleets will enable the fullest use of all the ferries so that peak seasons and holiday traffic may be fully cared for, transferring idle boats to the routes of greatest traffic.

"Thus the maximum requirements for Marin county service (now fed by the Northwestern Pacific and the Golden Gate) in the summer months may be supplemented by boats from the Berkeley service (now fed by the Golden Gate,) where summer traffic is at a minimum on account of university vacation.

"On the other hand, the Berkeley and Oakland service, when their requirements are the greatest in the fall, during the college football season, may be aided by the transfer of boats from the Sausalito (Marin county) service, which is less active at that time."

WESTINGHOUSE SERVES EVERYWHERE

These elevators are as modern as this year's motor cars

Elevators — like automobiles — have been constantly improved to meet the demand of modern life for more speed, more comfort, more safety. Electrical engineering is responsible for this improvement.

It took electrical engineers to develop elevators that would maintain a constant speed in spite of load variations. Electrical engineers are responsible for working out improvements in elevator control which bring the car to a smooth stop at the floor level automatically.

Westinghouse engineers have contributed much in this improvement. They developed the "variable voltage" system that makes possible present high speed service. Out of this development came "automatic inductor landing"—whereby cars stop smoothly and automatically at floor levels.

Westinghouse products for the building industry:

Carbon Circuit Breakers, Elevators, Fans, Fuses, Insulating Materials, Lamps, Lighting Fixtures, Motors and Control, Panelboards, Ranges, Safety Switches, Solar Glow Heaters, Stokers, Switchboards, Turbines, Water Heaters, Watthour Meters

LEWIS RETAINS TITLE IN SCRAP

Champ Defeats Malcewicz on Mat at Olympic

BY PAUL LOWRY

Ed (Strangler) Lewis, the heavyweight mat king, made it the end of a perfect year by defeating Joe Malcewicz, the bare-footed expert, in two out of three falls at the Olympic last night.

It was a tempestuous match which saw Lewis win the deciding fall by using Malcewicz's favorite weapon — the body slam — to accomplish his end.

The first fall went to Lewis in 41m. 21s., with a series of headlocks. Malcewicz took the

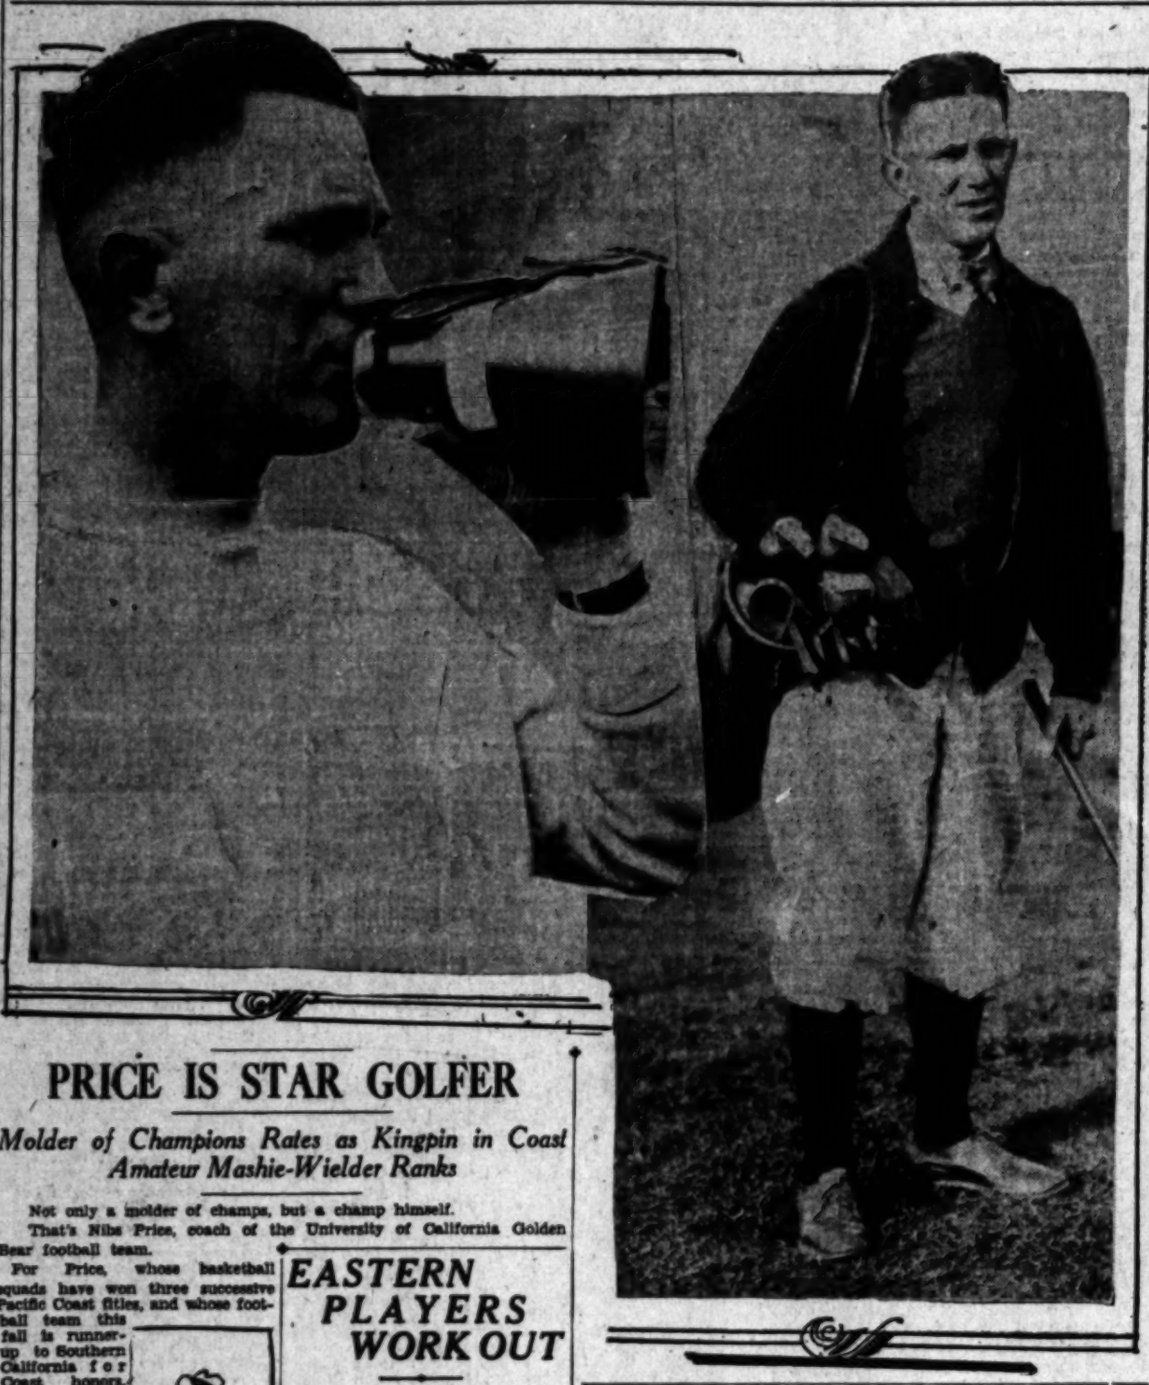
HE BELIEVES THE "ALL WORK AND NO PLAY" ADAGE

So Nibs Price, who coaches California's Golden Bears, spends his leisure moments on the golf links—and he's the best player among the coaches on the Pacific Coast. In fact there are few amateurs who can beat him. He is a consistent 75 shooter. Nibs leads his pig-skinners into town tomorrow morning, and the golf clubs will be part of the picture. In the morning he will play a round with the scribes on the Pasadena municipal links, and in the afternoon he will put his football stalwarts through their first practice on Southern California soil in preparation for the New Year's Day game with Georgia Tech.



GEORGIA TECH WARRIORS IN SPLENDID CONDITION

Price's Squad Plans Light Practice

BERKELEY, Dec. 19. (AP)—California's Bears finished their drive for academic touchdowns today and with final exams for the quarter over set about the business of preparing for the gridiron tilt with Georgia Tech New Year's Day at Pasadena.

The California squad abandoned football tactics for book study after the Stanford game, November 24, and has been hard at it since.

Coach "Nibs" Price, however, is not worried as to the condition of his charges. He said today it would take but little time to whip them back into the same shape that carried them through the Coast Conference season undefeated.

The squad of forty-seven will turn out tomorrow for a light practice and will take a night train for Pasadena. From then until game time steady practice will be held in the Rose Bowl.

Clarence "Brick" Mitchell, freshman coach, scouted Georgia Tech against Georgia and returned with the news that the Tech team's line will compare with any in the country. He also gave Price considerable information of the southern eleven's defense against passes. Those close to the California coach expect him to switch his tactics from defense to offense via the aerial route. Last year in the post-season game with Pennsylvania, Price did this and the Bears walloped the easterners handily.

Thirty-one on Long Jaunt to Coast

ATLANTA (Ga.) Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Tomorrow the Golden Tornado turns westward to cut a path through the nation to the famous Rose Bowl of Pasadena, where it will bow to victory or defeat on New Year's Day against the Golden Bears of the University of California.

Coach Alexander will lead a squad of thirty-one men westward with him and with him will go the hopes of all the Southland. A victory for Tech will mean an undisputed national championship and defeat will mean—but there is no thinking of that.

The players, coaches, managers and newspaper men will occupy two special cars that will catch the "Sunset Limited" at New Orleans and with hardly a stop from that time on will arrive in Pasadena Sunday night. From then until the time of the game the squad will be put through a course of intensive training under the climatic conditions of California.

LAYTON DEFEATS HOPPE TO CLAIM WORLD'S CUE CROWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Johnny Layton, the carpenter three cushion national champion, tonight annexed the first world's three-cushion title as the pocket billiard division of the combined tournament ended in a series of protests. Playing one of the most brilliant games of his billiard career, Layton turned back the threat of Willie Hoppe, 50 to 23, in twenty-five innings.

In trouncing Hoppe Layton had only six openings and on one of these he played a safety. He had a high run of 9 in the eighth inning, and in the second clicked off seven billiards before missing a difficult lie.

While the title-holder was crushing Hoppe the tournament committee was deciding the fate of the pocket tournament that culminated

PRICE IS STAR GOLFER

Molder of Champions Rates as Kingpin in Coast Amateur Mashie-Wielder Ranks

Not only a molder of champs, but a champ himself.

That's Nibs Price, coach of the University of California Golden Bear football team.

For Price, whose basketball squads have won three successive Pacific Coast titles, and whose football team this fall is runner-up to Southern California for Coast honors, has quite a reputation himself as a golfer.

Nibs can drive and putt with the best of them, proving it recently when he met Walter Hagen and came out at the end of eighteen holes with as good a card as the master. The California coach paired with Al Sais, pro at the Berkeley Country Club, to split a match with Hagen and Johnny Farrell before a gallery of 1000 spectators. Hagen and Price made the course in 77.

Price is a steady, quiet sort of a golfer, knocking the little white balls around with an unassuming, unobtrusive manner that produces results.

For the last two years he has held the championship of the Berkeley Country Club. This year he did not enter the tournament,

BEARS BOAST WEIGHTY EDGE OVER GEORGIANS

BY BRAVEN DYER

Weight isn't everything in this football business, but it means a lot and those Golden Bears from California are going to have it all in their favor when they tackle Georgia Tech at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. The Bears have an edge on the line and in the backfield, according to the official weights released by each institution of learning.

Of course, that old saying about figures not lying doesn't apply to football weights for it is a well-known fact that coaches generally lop off at least five pounds per man when giving the poundage of their athletes. However, when both mentors do it the average remains the same, so there's no hoodwinking of the public.

California's line is one of the largest in captivity, with two players hitting the 200 mark or better and two more hovering right around that figure. It is not generally known that Steve Bancroft, hefty tackle, weighs 222 pounds, which boosts California's average tremendously. Bancroft is down on the programs at 198 pounds, but his father dropped into The Times office recently and gave out the word that his illustrious son, one of the best tackles on the Coast, really checks in at the other figure.

The California line averages 184 pounds, the weights being distributed as follows: Avery, 195, and Capt. Phillips, 190, ends; Bancroft, 222, and Fitz, 198, tackles; Schwars, 200, and Gill, 182, guards, and Capt.-elect Riegels, 176.

The Bear backs average 176 pounds and are listed as follows: Elsan, 167, quarterback; Lom, 175, and Barr, 172, halfbacks, and Schmidt, 192, fullback.

That gives a team average of 188 pounds, which is a pretty hefty ag-

SCHAEFER TAKES LEAD OVER COCHRAN IN BILLIARD SETTO

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Jake Schaefer took the lead over Welker Cochran for the first time at the half-way mark in their special 4800-point 18.2 balkline billiards match tonight. With four runs of over 100 points, the highest 196, Schaefer added 636 points to his total in the sixth block tonight, giving him 2400 points against 2368 for Cochran.

Cochran started by adding thirty-one points to his unfinished run of eighty-one in the afternoon and added several good runs, but he could not cope with Schaefer's brilliant shooting. He scored 368 points

LOUGHRAN MAY SHOW HERE

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—The heavyweight championship aspirations of Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, have surged to a new height as the result of his victory over "Big Boy" Peterson, New Orleans heavyweight, Monday night.

Matches at Boston, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Los Angeles and San Francisco may be arranged to give Loughran a busy winter, his manager, Joe Smith, said.

C.I.F. HEADS EXPECTED NOT TO RULE AGAINST PREP GAME

The California Interscholastic Federation is slated to meet in Los Angeles today, but those close to the organization doubt very much if the body will take any action in regard to the intersectional football game to be played at the Coliseum one week from Saturday. The contest features Fort Worth High of Texas against the Southern California prep All-Stars, and is being staged under the auspices of the Los Angeles Elks.

Those in touch with the situation point out that the C.I.F. at this time has no rule prohibiting the boys from playing, that the game is being staged during vacation period when the boys' time is their own, and that the contest is a benefit one. It is further argued that with more than thirty boys available for the game, no one athlete will be called upon to play more than half the contest at the most, which blows sky high the argument that the players have already had too much football. In fact, it is the plan of Vic Kelley, George Hobbs and Earl Pine, coaches of the All-Stars, to use at least two complete teams during the game, starting one outfit and then replacing it with a brand new team at the start of he second quarter.

Nurmi Decides Not to Drop Mile Run in Favor of Longer Races; May Set M

QUIST PRAISES FINNISH STAR

Great Speed in Workouts is Spur to Phantom

Changes Mind Despite Defeat in Olympic Contest

May Race Phil Edwards on Board Tracks

BY F. G. YOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Paavo Nurmi is not yet ready to abdicate as king of the world's one-mile runners and fall back on the longer distances for his laurels.

PAAVO NURMI

Under the urging of his Finnish-American friend, Hugo Quist, Paavo is fast reaching the point of making up his inscrutable mind to take a few more whirls at the old mile route this winter and spring before the invisible opponent, Time, takes too heavy a toll of endurance and speed.

Nurmi today is confident that he can defend his reputation as the greatest runner of modern times against all challengers, provided the distance is long enough. Even the marathon would not be too far to suit him, although he never has tried it, and probably will reserve that event for the distant future, when age has robbed him of everything but his marvelous stamina.

FINISHED THIRD

Concerning the mile, Nurmi was not so sure when he arrived here last Saturday. The mile takes speed as well as endurance. It was in a race at 1500 meters, only slightly less than a mile, that he met one of the few reverses of his career last July 7 in the Finnish Olympic trials, a defeat the more crushing because not only one but two of his countrymen led him across the line.

Harry Larva was the winner in time which exactly equaled Nurmi's record, set in 1924, and another Finnish youngster, Borg, also came home ahead of proud Paavo.

That seemed to mark the end of the 1500-meter or the one-mile trail for Nurmi. Believing he had lost the necessary speed, he let his Olympic 1500-meter crown go by default and the fast-traveling Larva gathered it in at Amsterdam, while Paavo had to be content with winning only the less spectacular 10,000-meter run.

But since the Finn arrived here he has shown enough to convince Quist, a shrewd trainer and handler of runners, that he still has the speed necessary for the mile.

MAY SET MARK

Some who have watched the graceful, galloping phantom glide over the ground or the boards in his daily workouts this week even believe he has a chance to shade the world's indoor record of 4m. 12s. he set in 1926, at Buffalo, a mark which was equaled ten days later by Joie Ray at New York.

Ray long since has given up the mile and Nurmi might conceivably gain as clear a title to the indoor record as he already has to the outdoor. That is one of the things Quist is telling the great runner. Another is that when Larva and Borg beat him Nurmi was out of shape, whereas now he is very near the peak, or will be by the time he starts his campaign next month.

Nurmi at least should have no trouble in beating the best milers now extant in the United States. In 1925 he ran six one-mile races on his tour of the country and was not beaten from scratch in one of them.

His strongest opposition in mile events this season may come from Ray Conger, the present national indoor and outdoor 1500-meter champion, and possibly Phil Edwards, the New York University and Canadian Olympic flash who holds the national indoor 600-yard crown. The N.Y.U. negro has been running cross-country to build up stamina and Coach Emil Von Elling says he is going to run him at the mile this winter.

A race between Nurmi and Edwards would be a great one to watch as both have a loping smooth-running gait that is beautiful to behold. In full stride they resemble a couple of ghosts, one white—one black.

Benefit Show at Pasadena

Pasadena Arena tonight presents its annual newsboys' Christmas benefit show. The exhibitions will bring to the arena a big bunch of fistic celebrities, if they all keep their promise. Hymie Miller is to box a three-round exhibition against Don Kennedy, a Pasadena boy. Armand Emanuel will take on George Trenkle; Kid Francis vs. Delos (Kid) Williams is another; Baby Joe Gans goes back to scenes of early triumphs to toy with Jimmy Harrison. And, the crowning event of all, Mushy Callahan will appear against his sparring partner.

The regular boxing card of the evening is headed by Ernie Hood vs. Billy Cain, flyweight, six rounds. The rest of the boxing card, in four-round goes, is Buell Paul vs. Gene Watson, 145 pounds; Jack Gilbert vs. Domingo Suzana, 120 pounds; Phil Blood vs. Jack Grindle, 145 pounds; Bobby Rodrigues vs. Mickey Martone, 112 pounds. Two wrestling matches are to be presented also.

Dave Landau has arranged for seven acts of vaudeville.

IZZY SCHWARTZ LAID UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Izzy Schwartz, recognized as flyweight champion by the New York State Boxing Commission, has suffered injuries to his right leg when he fell down the stairs at his home that will keep him out of action for three weeks, his manager announces.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

LOUGHRAN-EMANUEL

TOMMY LOUGHRAN beat Big Boy Peterson with ease and dispatch in Chicago the other night, and is seeking new heavyweight worlds to conquer. Included in his list of proposed conquests is Los Angeles.

This move suits Mr. Armand Emanuel, the fighting barrister who tamed "Wild Bill" Cox the other night, to the well-known T. He would enjoy a ten-round gallop with Tommy here.

Young Emanuel had the pleasure of meeting Loughran in New York last spring, and some of the boys—a large majority, in fact—reported that Mr. Emanuel "took" Mr. Loughran.

At that time Mr. Loughran was wearing the mantle of light-heavyweight champion—a title which he did not lose in the ring but merely relinquished in pursuit of heavyweight pickings.

And Mr. Emanuel having added a few pounds since he faced Loughran in that New York ring also has designs on the heavyweight escutcheon. And he believes he can beat Loughran.

Both Mr. Loughran and Mr. Emanuel confess to an avoirdupois in the neighborhood of 182 pounds, which is not much less than the manly Mr. Tunney packed in his best fighting days. And the returns being so much more interesting in the heavyweight realm both boys are turning their backs on the light heavies for good.

The Emanuel-Loughran match is an attractive one for this city. And also for San Francisco.

Both Mr. Wadhams of the Olympic and Mr. Ancil Hoffman of the up-State metropolis are well aware of the fact, and each is striving to beat the other to the punch.

Emanuel made a lot of followers by the decisive manner in which he handled "Wild Bill" Cox the other night. Cox proved by his victories over Andy Mitchell, Mack House and Ernie Owens that he is no chump, but Emanuel made him look like a sucker.

No fighter in the heavyweight class ever displayed smarter ring tactics than the Jewish boy in whipping Cox. First, he outgeneraled him, and then he outpunched him. Cox never had a chance.

An Emanuel-Loughran match here next February, say, will be a sweet dish—as sweet as anything New York can brew.

THE BOXING FIGURES

FIFTY-SIX counties to two—635,901 votes to 543,518.

That's the official tab on the attempt to kill the California boxing bill at the last election.

The figures have been compiled and sent out by Donn Shields, who helped Assemblyman Harry Morrison frame the present bill over four years ago.

The only counties that voted to repeal boxing as supervised by the State Athletic Commission were San Bernardino by a slight majority of thirty-five votes out of total of over 30,000, and Santa Barbara by 7396 to 6449.

The biggest majorities for the boxing bill were obtained in Humboldt, Sacramento and San Diego counties, which returned more than a three-to-one verdict.

The "cow" counties, which were supposed to be against the boxing bill, were among its heaviest supporters, and the biggest counties—San Francisco and Los Angeles—turned in nearly two-to-one majorities.

In the face of such returns there isn't much left to be said, at least by those who orated about "brutal" prize fights and "greedy promoters" in the hope of turning out the voters to repeal the bill.

"A PERFECT TEAM"

SOME of the supporters of the Trojan football team may feel insulted because they believe Howard Jones's boys were slighted by the all-American pickers—but not Mr. E. W. Stewart of 443 South San Pedro street.

He says his bank roll is fatter and his spirit happier than it has been for three years. "Thank the Lord U.S.C. had no all-American players this year," he writes.

"The Stanford game this year to me was the most perfectly played game the writer has ever seen from U.S.C.'s viewpoint, yet when I left the Coliseum I had no particular player in mind but simply felt the team as a whole was a real team.

"Look at Cagle in the Stanford game. What did he accomplish? All-Americans can be singled out and played for, but give us a whole team of fairly good players who play together and they can hold up their end.

"Let's pull for Jones to keep up this year's task, forget all-Americans and play for teamwork and my pocketbook will be fatter, not flatter, as it has been in the past when I was hoping for Kaer or Drury to accomplish the impossible."

gregation if anybody should ride up in a hearse and ask you.

As for the Golden Tornado, it averages 185 pounds on the line, or about ten pounds less than the Bears. Loss of Frank Speer, 202-pound tackle, brings Tech's average down considerably for Ken Thrash, who takes his place, weighs only 184 pounds. This, however, is heavy enough to do plenty of damage. Pommerening of Michigan, who made virtually every all-American team in the country, weighed less than Thrash. The Tech linemen are listed as follows: Jones, 173, and Waddey, 182, ends; Thrash, 184, and Maree, 200, tackles; Westbrook, 176, and Drennon, 182, guards, and Capt. Pund, 200, center. It will be noted that the guards are apparently of the Notre Dame type, light and probably fast for interference work.

The Tech backs average 172 pounds, slightly less than the Bear ball packers. They are Durant, 156, quarterback; Mizell, 170, and Thomason, 175, halfbacks, and Lumpkin, 190, fullback.

This gives a team average of 181 pounds, as compared to 188 for the Bears.

Part of this difference would be made up if Tech has a lineman who weighs in the neighborhood of Bancroft's poundage. We recall a couple of years ago when Alabama came out here that Goofy Bowdoin, a husky looking guard, was listed at 195 pounds, when, as a matter of fact, Bro. Bowdoin really weighed 220 pounds and admitted it. Freddy Pickhard, the giant Alabama tackle, appeared in the programs at 215 pounds when, as a matter of fact, he boosted the Fairbanks to 230. Frank Anthony, Trojan tackle, was down for 185 pounds all this season when he really weighed 202 pounds.

Weight, as we said before, doesn't mean everything, but if Tech plans to play a line-smashing game against the Bears, she is likely to run into the Rock of Gibraltar.

FRESNO MENTOR RETIRES

FRESNO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Coach Arthur W. Jones of the Fresno State College today announced his retirement as football coach to accept the directorship of a newly created department of intramural sports for the college. COLIMA READY FOR SMITH

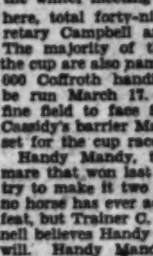
Mexican Idol in Fine Shape, Rival Boasts Win Over "Poison" Homer Sheridan

Dependable Bert Colima has been shot into the breech. The Mexican middleweight heads the Hollywood American Legion Stadium card tomorrow night. He meets Warnie Smith, who is no novice, and has had many a fight during his eventful career, one of which was with Homer Sheridan in an outdoor show at Wichita, Kan., last July 4. Mr. Warnie Smith copped the decision.

Now there is talk of matching the winner of the Friday night fight with the winner of the "Poison" Homer Sheridan - Eddie Gill main event, which takes place at Hollywood in two weeks.



Bert Colima

Bert Colima has been working out for the past two weeks and is in fine shape. He injured a hand when he fought Joe Cardosa at Hollywood and has been taking things easy ever since. He wants to get ready for Homer Sheridan, and if he can beat a fellow who beat Sheridan, the fans will want to see Colima and Sheridan in action.

The Hollywood shows for the next three weeks have been lined up. Next week Jackie Fields and Tommy Elks will meet in the main event and in two weeks Homer Sheridan fights Eddie Gill. That gives the Hollywood three big attractions for the remainder of this month. With Ray Miller, who beat Jimmy McLarnin by a knockout coming to the Hollywood stadium, it begins to look as if business is on the boom.

The preliminaries supporting the main event are featuring youngsters so that the fans will be assured of action. Huerta Evans and Ray McIntyre may put up the fight in the semi-wind-up that will steal the show. McIntyre is Irish and Evans is a Filipino.

Joe Noto will meet Chet Gleason in the special and there are two fast-looking four-rounders to complete the card.

EASTERN GRID MEN WORK OUT

signals were run through. Head Coach Andy Kerr said he would give no thought to formations until the players arrive at Stanford, Friday.

The team that will try to wrest honors from the western squad this year has not such individual stars as last season's eleven which boasted of Bruce Caldwell of Yale, Herb Joesting, Minnesota, and many others. However, Kerr believes that the 1928 aggregation is better balanced than those of the past years and considerably stronger.

Another light workout will be held tomorrow. On Friday the players will be taken to Stanford University to train until the day of the game.

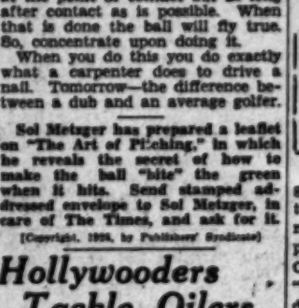
Gridiron warriors who will help the West seek its fourth successive victory, started reporting today. Among these were, Petty, end, Texas A. & M.; Walker, quarterback, Texas Tech; Cowan, quarterback, Sul-Ross, Texas; Horan and Rohwer, halfbacks, and Dressell, tackle, all Washington State.

Coach Orin E. Hollingbery received word from several others that they would arrive tonight. The westerners will be given their first workout tomorrow and will hold daily practices thereafter.

POMONA GREEK FIVES BATTLING FOR TITLE

CLAREMONT, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Phi Delta and Sigma Tau Fraternity basketball teams continued merrily along their way in the intramural cage race here yesterday, and all indications are that the title battle will be fought between them. Phi Delta scored a convincing 10-2 victory over Phi Kappa Alpha with Sigma Tau taking an equally hard-fought decision over Alpha Gamma Sigma, 12 to 4. The tournament will close in the first week after the Christmas holidays.

"Hit Through and on Line," Sarazen Says



BY SOL METZGER

The contention of many that continual discussion of golf tips results in confusing the average player because it causes him to think of too many things when trying to make a shot is both right and wrong. My own idea is that it all depends on the pupil. If he tries to think of stance, grip, pivot, wrist pronation and a dozen other things during a stroke, he is lost.

On the other hand, if he solves most of these problems before starting his backswing, and then concentrates on one point, golf instruction will be of great aid to him.

What is the main point on which to concentrate? Unquestionably it is hitting the ball. That's fine. But there are ways and ways of hitting a golf ball. Gene Sarazen carries one idea in mind in hitting, as do all stars. It is to hit straight through the ball on a line toward the hole. Get your club's face at right angles to this line before contact and concentrate on keeping it moving forward on this line not only at the point of contact but as long after contact as is possible. When that is done the ball will fly true. So, concentrate upon doing it.

When you do this you do exactly what a carpenter does to drive a nail. Tomorrow—the difference between a dub and an average golfer.

Sol Metzger has prepared a leaflet on "The Art of Pitching," in which he reveals the secret of how to make the ball "bite" the green when it hits. Send stamped addressed envelope to Sol Metzger, in care of The Times, and ask for it.

Hollywooders Tackle Oilers in Puck Match

While civil war hovers in the offing—threatening to create dissension between Richfield and officials of the California Ice Hockey League—the storm-tossed Richfield Oilers will take the ice against Hollywood tonight in the second game of the series at the Winter Garden Ice Rink.

Whether Richfield would again prove adamant in playing the two stars whom President Tuthill demands be suspended was a question that had hockey fans in suspense today prior to the contest. But, according to other officials of the league, the two men in question will take their places with the Oilers as they line up against Hollywood, and at the next meeting of the league directors, action will be taken against them.

Both clubs are primed for the game tonight, and it won't take much to start the rough work on its way.

Scots to Make Hockey Debut

The Clan Scots, a fast ice hockey aggregation of Highlanders, make their debut in the Southern California league tonight at the Palais De Glace when they meet the Union Oilers in the second game of the league schedule. A crowd of 2500, many of whom will be fans of Scottish extraction, are expected to view the puck chasing sextets in action.

Gordon Dewar, leader of the Highlanders, will send a formidable team on the ice against the Oilers and if the Clan Scots perform up to the form they have showed in practice, they will give Kenny Claman, the Union goalie, a lot of work this evening.

A bag pipe band will be on hand this evening and exhibitions on the ice will be held between periods.

The line-ups follow:

Union Oil		Clan Scots
Swindell	Wing	W. Armstrong
Stanington	Wing	L. Robertson
Crapper	Wing	Jacobs
Hartom	Defense	A. Armstrong
Gaudin	Defense	D. Robertson
Claman	Goal	Ireland

SAGEHEN FROSH FIVE LOSE TO POMONA HIGH

CLAREMONT, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Earl Merritt's Pomona frosh basketball squad dropped a 24-to-13 decision to the Pomona High School quintet here last night. The frosh are unusually weak this year and couldn't put up much of a battle against Archie Nisbet's preps. Tscharner and Langdon starred for the collegians with Keough doing most of the heavy work for Pomona High. It was the last workout before the Christmas holidays for Merritt's quintet. They will play three conference games with Redlands, Caltech and Occidental this season.

RICE INSTITUTE ABANDONS SOUTHERN TRACK CLASSIC

HOUSTON (Tex.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Officials of Rice Institute here today announced the abandonment of the annual Rice relays, heretofore a feature of the Southwestern track-and-field season.

It was explained that Southern Methodist University was sponsoring its first annual set of games next spring and that it was believed three relay carnivals in Texas would be impracticable. The University of Texas event, the first of the outdoor relays in the State, was inaugurated five years ago.

For the past four years the Rice program has drawn athletes from outstanding schools throughout the Southwest and Middle West.

TED BARNES LEADS OPEN GOLF EVENT AT CATALINA

Brotherton of Rancho turned in a card of 134 for third place and Vincent Patrick, Catalina amateur, and Tony Longo, New York pro, tied for fourth with 139.

Hancock did not fare so well on his first attempt and turned in a practice round of 35, three over par. John Black, famous Oakland pro, who finished second to Gene Sarazen in the 1921 national open, also shot a 35. Among the other well-known invading professionals who played over the course were Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., Billy Burke of Port Chester, N. Y., Danny Williams of New York City and Francis Gallet of Seattle. Hancock was particularly pleased with the course.

HAGEN DUE TODAY

Walter Hagen, British open champion, is due to arrive tomorrow morning with his manager, Bob Harlow. From all indications, "The Haig" will have no easy time beating the field. Hagen is well known for his tendency to play all over the course, which would be disastrous on the semiminiature Catalina course, where natural hazards severely penalize hooks and slices.

Tomorrow will be a busy day on the course with approximately eighty golfers yet to qualify over the thirty-six-hole route, while the remainder of the pros who are not required to play in the qualifying round will arrive on the morning boat from Los Angeles.

It is unfortunate that several of the foremost professionals may, not play. MacDonald Smith, Los Angeles $10,000 open champion, finds it impossible to make the trip down from San Francisco, Bill Mehlhorn is staying out to take a needed rest after winning the Hawaiian open, and Tommy Armour has also decided to remain on the side lines.

Opinions as to what score will win the open are rampant with a number of golfers having broken par Joe Fishel, Catalina pro, who holds the course record of 29, figures that 144 will qualify for the tournament. Only one pro, Phil Hessler of Tulsa, Okla., has equaled the record. His 33-29-62 for eighteen holes tied him with Barnes for low scores.

HIGH MARKS RULE

Few slipped in under the 144 mark today. John Neil, Texas professional, 142; Earl Diehl, Erie, Pa., John Amlin, Fox Hills, Will Price, Catalina, 143, and Joe Esar, Texas, 144, were in the select group. Barnes's card:

Par 443 443 433—32
Barnes 442 334 532—30.
444 433 433—32-62.
334 443 433—31.
444 344 443—34-65-127.

Russell (Buddy) Thompson, Southern California intercollegiate champion, will be among the leading amateurs to qualify tomorrow. Charley Seaver and Fay Coleman, Southern California amateur champion, will also arrive tomorrow, but will not have to qualify. They rate as the three ranking amateurs entered with Coleman figured to give the pros a real battle.

Among the other prominent qualifiers are Cliff Castle of El Caballero, Arthur Clarkson of Rancho, Hutt Martin of Reno, Nev., Lewis Scott of Hillcrest, Roy Tufts of San Diego, and Mel Smith of Portland.

The tournament will start Friday morning with 100 entries even scheduled to play eighteen holes. Eighteen holes will be played Saturday with low forty-eight and ties scheduled to play the final thirty-six holes Sunday.

WINTER GOLF HERE BETTER THAN SUMMER TOURNEYS IN EAST, CLAIMS WALTER HAGEN

Declaring that most of the best golfers in the world are attracted to California by the winter tournaments held here, Walter Hagen, principal speaker at the Breakfast Club yesterday morning, also said, "It is a mighty fine thing that you do, for the boys who follow golf so closely; for I find that winter golfing in Southern California is even more ideal than summer golf in the East. I want to express my appreciation, too, of your putting greens, for they have the finest texture of grass imaginable, so that one may use a uniform putting stroke and hold his score down. The possibilities here are wonderful—sunshine every day; wonderful courses, and a pretty little bungalow on a hill—what more could one ask?"

L. E. Behymer made an impassioned appeal for a general observance of the outdoor Christmas-tree idea. Final preparations were completed for the club's annual children's Christmas party, which will be held next Sunday morning, with upward of 2500 children from destitute homes enjoying a turkey dinner, circus and distribution of toys.

Stars of radio KNX furnished entertainment numbers, including Calmon Lubovski, violinist; the American Singers mixed quartet; Belle Miller, soprano, and Jack Carter, English comedian. The cast of "The Beggar's Opera" added to the Christmas spirit by singing a group of carols. The hosts were Thomas R. Dempsey and Lee A. Sturges.

LOCAL LAWYERS HOLD MONTHLY TOURNEY

The Los Angeles Bar Association's golf section held its regular monthly golf tournament Saturday morning, December 15, at Hollywood Country Club, followed by a luncheon in the club's grill.

The tournament play was "a tin whistle" and the winners of "trophies" were as follows:

H. E. Fitch, first place; E. E. Moss, second; W. L. Miller, third; Ray L. Monroe, fourth; Floyd Sisk, fifth; C. L. Kincaid, sixth; C. L. Variel, seventh; E. K. Brown, eighth; Mayor Cryer, ninth place; E. E. Noon, tenth place.

The next regular tournament of the association will be at Fox Hills Country Club, Saturday, January 19. The event will be match play vs. par, with prizes to the winners of the first ten positions.

DE MILLE ADVANCES IN LEFT-HANDED PLAY

Defeating D. (Scotty) Chisholm 1 up at the nineteenth hole, Dr. C. De Mille became one of the favorites in the Southern California left-handed golfers' championship tournament, which is in progress over the Los Angeles Country Club links. Second round matches, which are to be played today, find De Mille paired with L. R. Palmer, winner of low-net honors in the qualifying round.

Another sparkling match in yesterday's card saw "Babe" Ellis, former manager of the Vernon Tigers, victor over Walter Hunter in a spectacular battle that did not end until the twentieth hole.

In today's pairings Mayor George E. Cryer is matched with James Woods, secretary of the Health Commission, in a second flight grouping. Play will start today at 12:30. Yesterday's results, and today's pairings:

LEWIS RETAINS TITLE IN SCRAP

second fall just as he appeared on the road to annihilation under the pressure of the Lewis headlocks again. The time was 3m. 16s., Malcewicz breaking a lock and slamming Lewis to the floor amid a wild tumult of shouting. The third fall consumed 14m. 55s.

It was Promoter Lou Daro's last mat show of the year, and the turnout was something like $500. It was a Malcewicz crowd, and it went wild when Panther Joe won his fall and made Lewis beg for an extra five minutes of rest during the intermission.

REFEREE SEEKS ADVICE

The champion was so insistent on the point that Referee Bob McDonald left the ring to ask State Athletic Commissioner James Woods for a ruling on the matter.

The commissioner wisely told the referee he was boss of the works in the ring, and that if he didn't know the rules it was a poor time to start learning them.

While the pow-wow was going on the bell rang for the resumption of hostilities. Lewis and Malcewicz advanced to the center of the mat, and a terrific uproar arose when the fans noticed that there was no arbiter in the ring. However, McDonald quickly calmed the uproar when he hopped between the strands and urged the gladiators to do their worst.

The warriors were in and out of the ring several times during the course of their match, and the timekeeper, in accord with the rule of the commission, gave them the count. Lewis was out a couple of times for eleven seconds, and Malcewicz twice ran the count up to fifteen. The rule says an opponent out of the ring twenty seconds loses a fall. Previous to the match Malcewicz insisted that Lewis had violated the rule in the past by crawling under the strands to escape punishment.

RAPID FIRE MATCH

But for the interest in the challenge bout Dick Daviscourt and Paul Jones would have stolen the works.

As it was their one-hour engagement to a draw had the main event cheated for rapid-fire action.

There wasn't a thing these boys forgot in the course of their exercises from slapping, butting, kneeing and gouging to real downright wrestling.

They left the ring with the howls of the multitude in their ears—Jones a big hero and Daviscourt the deep-dyed villain.

The fracas wound up with Daviscourt biffing Jones in the face just as the bell rang; however, Jones went to Daviscourt's corner to shake hands, and when Daviscourt turned his back and refused to extend his mitt the bugs gave him the rebel call, and filled the ring with peanuts, programs, newspapers, cigarettes and whatnot.

ANOTHER DRAWN BOUT

In the jiu-jitsu feature of the evening, Jack Roller demonstrated a very efficient way in which to keep Kazuo Yoshimi from beating him.

Roller didn't win, but he flopped on top of the Jap at the start of hostilities, secured a firm hold of his little foe's jacket, and maintained h'n position.

This prevented the Jap from winning, and brought Roller a great moral victory even if the referee did call the affair a draw. The boys were in one spot for almost the entire fifteen minutes.

Lou Daro thought the Jap was invincible. The Nipponese had beaten every man tossed in against him, and Roller's feat was unexpected.

LA SALLE LOSES TO ARIZONA JOE RIVERS

Arizona Joe Rivers defeated Bobby LaSalle last night in the main event at the Wilmington Bowl. The decision was a popular one with the fans.

CHET SHANDEL BEATS STABENAU IN RING GO

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Chet Shandel, 210-pound San Francisco giant, won an easy ten-round decision over Tony Stabenau, 210, of Buffalo, N. Y., at National Hall here tonight. Shandel floored the easterner three times for a nine count, twice in the first and once in the second round. Stabenau, a leather-jawed youngster, took the heavy rights and came back for more. The San Franciscan captured every round easily.

MERCURY FIVE MEETS BRUINS

Club Quintet Out to Check U.C.L.A. Win Streak

Speedy Squads Will Tangle Week from Tomorrow

Lasuell and Olney to Play for L.A.A.C. Outfit

The Los Angeles Athletic Club basketball team now faces the strenuous task of putting a stop to the winning streak of the fast - stepping U.C.L.A. quintet, which has piled up an impressive total of points in straight victories over Pomona, La Verne and the Hollywood Athletic Club.

MAYNARD LASWELL

The Mercuries tangle with the Bruins at the club gymnasium a week from tomorrow night, and the way Coach Stan Josephs' cagers have been going in recent workouts they may be the outfit to stop Coach Works's boys, just as they did last year by a count of 23 to 18.

Josephs has been working his men at top speed for several weeks and now has them in splendid early season form. Return of Maynard Laswell and Fred Olney, old-time players, has popped up the Mercuries considerably and it will be an experienced quintet that Josephs sends against the Bruins in the first big game on the club 1928-29 schedule.

Laswell didn't play last year, but has kept in perfect condition with his continual handball playing. Olney, one of the greatest centers in the business, won't start the games, but he'll pull a lot of them out of the fire with his accurate shooting.

As matters stand now, Josephs will start a team against the Bruins consisting of Laswell and Louis Alman, forwards; Geoglein, center, and McBurney and Parker, guards. Alman is a star from Pittsburgh University, while all the others have played with the Mercuries.

Tommy Lewis from U.S.C., Jones from Drake, Murray Rock from the Larry Semon's team, Butler, Washington State, Ben Gerphide, U.S.C., and Staples, are others who will see action.

After the game with the Bruins will come contests with Brigham Young University and U.S.C. before the opening of the Big Six program of the A.A.U.

Jaysees Nose Out Trobabes

Long Beach Junior College nosed out the Trojan frosh five 31-20 last night at Long Beach in a last-minute thriller. The Trobabes were leading, 19-18, when the Long Beach team rallied, scoring six baskets in rapid succession. Osler was the star for the Jaysee team, scoring 12 points.

Wildcats and Trojans Clash

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 19. (AP)—Meeting the Southern California Trojans tomorrow night, the Arizona Wildcats will open one of the most extensive basketball seasons they ever had.

The Trojans without their head coach, Leo Calland, arrived here today sixteen strong. Harry Anderson, an assistant coach at Southern California is skipper for the team which last year won its first Pacific Coast Conference hoop title.

The Wildcats are in the best of shape and although they have not had much practice to be in perfect playing form, they have showed enough to brand them as one of the best teams Arizona has had since 1921.

LAYTON WINS CUE LAURELS

this afternoon when Frank Taberski of Schnectady, N. Y., protested his game with Ralph Greenleaf, eight times national champion.

The committee decided that Taberski and Greenleaf should meet again Friday night. Greenleaf needs a victory to clinch the title while a victory for Taberski would force the championship into tie between the national champion and the Schenectady man.

Sammy Jackson took a eight-round decision over Jimmy Carter last night in the main event at the Ocean Park arena. In the semi-wind-up Oscar Rankin scored a five-round technical knockout over Tony Bevo. Entire Production Expected to Enter Port Transportation of crude oil from the new Elwood fields, already under way to Los Angeles Harbor for consignment to adjacent refineries, will be augmented materially soon by the completion of two new moorings off the coastline at that point.

The job will be contiguous to the flexible loading line, also recently completed by Merritt, Chapman & Scott for the Rio Grande Oil Company, on plans by the engineering firm of Leeds & Barnard. Completion of the moorings is expected by the 28th inst.

With the new addition it is estimated two tankers a week will be making trips regularly from Elwood to San Pedro, probably to be augmented with the rapid development of the field.

A few chartered ships already have brought Elwood cargo here, but reports are current a big Pacific company with a fleet of modern tankers and a refinery at the port may contract to haul off all of Rio Grande's product here.

The pipe line leads directly off the field, which is about fifteen miles north of Santa Barbara near Coal Oil Point.

STOCK FOOD CONCERN ENLARGING PORT PLANT

Plant additions being made at the outer harbor factory of Philip R. Park Company will increase that unit's output of stock food from twenty to forty tons daily, shortly after the first of next year. The principal addition will be a large-size drying apparatus.

The plant, which is one of the first of its kind in America, harvests kelp from the ocean, dries and grinds it, mixes it with fish meal and other ingredients, and ships it to eastern markets.

Iodine, a corrective for goiter in stock as well as in humans, is an important component of the kelp, as of the fish meal, while potash found in both also contributes to the food value. The plant has been operating about a year, and is shipping its products throughout the Middle West and Atlantic seaboard.

Continued growth of the H-10 Water Taxi Company, Inc., has reached a point where it is contemplating marine ways to handle repairs on its large fleet of speed boats servicing Los Angeles Harbor. Tentative location has been made of a tract on the water front of the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company, and requires only the approval of the Los Angeles Harbor Department, which has general supervision over the port. Two ways will be constructed and a machine shop installed, on plans designed by William P. Durr, industrial architect. The H-10 company now has a fleet of eighteen craft, and is completing several additions.

Santa Claus will have to hunt up King Neptune or Davy Jones if he adorns every Christmas tree this Yuletide. Seven thousand of the trees, coming south as a deck load on the Hart-Wood lumber steamer, Point Loma, had to be jettisoned at sea, the ship listed so badly. The steamer, in yesterday from Aberdeen with lumber, encountered headwinds until within 200 miles of here. The Norwegian steamer Horda also suffered bent stanchions and damage to her fore'le head in the same storm. She sailed yesterday for South America under charter to the Latin American line.

Capt. J. D. Dryburgh is the newest local skipper to burst into the writing game. His "Through the War on a Submarine," a serial, opens in the January number of the magazine, Adventure Trails. It is a thrilling saga of the undersea, replete with duels with destroyers, submarines and even seaplanes. Capt. Dryburgh says the story is built on real happenings during his three years on the British submarine G-10 during the World War. Although he still holds a British commission as lieutenant-commander in the Royal Naval Reserves, he has filed intention papers to become an American citizen. His last command was the tanker Chuky, which he left here just before her fatal voyage, when she disappeared from the face of the earth in mid-Pacific a year ago.

Norton, Lilly & Co. have been appointed local agents for the American Pioneer Line, succeeding the Dollar Line, and will handle the Radnor as the first ship, due for bunkers Saturday, bound from New York for the Orient. American Pioneer Line operates twenty-two ships, allocated from the United States Shipping Board.

Sun Oil Company's tankers will make at least forty-eight calls here during 1929, mostly for gasoline for Philadelphia, according to Harry Davis, agent. The tanker Sunbeam will carry out 80,000 barrels today, to be followed by the Sunoil with 115,000 barrels late this week. The latter, a new Sun-Doxford opposed-piston Diesel tanker, consumes seventy-five barrels of fuel each twenty-four hours and makes a loaded speed of eleven and one-half knots.

Permission was granted by the Harbor Board yesterday for the construction of a case oil warehouse, costing $16,000, and a fire wall to inclose it, costing $1200, to the Texas Oil Company on its lease at Berth 217, at Dock street, Terminal Island.

The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company was given permission to construct storage bunkers at Berths 53 and 54 at a cost of $1100. The Toyo Fisheries Company was given permission to erect a fence at its lease, 207 Anacapa street. The Coast Fishing Company was granted permission to erect a fence at the rear and on the wharf extension at Berth 189, Wilmington.

The board approved the request of the Hancock Oil Company for construction of a wharf fronting its lease at Berth 215 on Terminal Island at the earliest possible date. Plans for the wharf were approved and bids on it will be opened January 4 at 10 a.m. at the branch City Hall in San Pedro.

On her maiden voyage to this port, the new German tank motorship Skagerak of the Atlantic Tank Company of Hamburg arrived from Germany last night to load 60,000 barrels of gasoline at the Union Oil station for the United Kingdom. She is the second of the fleet to appear here, the motor tanker Adria having made two trips. The new motor tanker Kategat will follow in four weeks and another is building for this trade, according to Capt. A. R. Paulsen, agent.

The little motorship Camina, unharmed by the recent storm to the south, arrived yesterday with 4000 bunches of bananas from Puerto Valanta, Mex., 1100 miles from here. L. Elison, operator, who returned on her, said more than $3,000,000 has been invested by New Orleans capitalists in banana plantations on the west coast of Mexico, and they expect an eventual production of 10,000,000 stems yearly, much of which will be brought to Los Angeles.

Dr. L. Prier, Panama Canal Zone surgeon, and Mrs. I. Murphy and son of Maracaibo, disembarked to pass Christmas with relatives yesterday from the Furness motor liner Pacific Trader, in from the United Kingdom via Central America. Capt. E. Barr, retired British navy officer, and Lieut.-Col. E. W. Montgomerie of the British Army, are continuing on the ship to Vancouver. The vessel dropped general cargo and 16,000 bunches of Panama bananas and 400 bags of cocoanuts.

A resolution asking the War Department to remove the wreck of the sunken tanker Washtenaw from the main channel of the harbor was adopted by the Harbor Board yesterday and forwarded to the Secretary of War. The action was taken because all local measures for removing the tanker as a menace to shipping have failed.

Ragnar Palmquist, low bidder on the work of constructing bridge abutments where the Santa Fe will cross Truck Boulevard on its permanent connection with the Harbor Belt Line Railway via the Anaheim-street viaduct, was awarded the contract yesterday on recommendation of General Manager Edwards and Harbor Engineer Nicholson. His bid was $5500.

The Western Enterprise Engine Company was granted a five-year lease in the Fish Harbor district at a rental of $10 a month yesterday by the Harbor Board.

The Union Ice Company was granted a ten-year lease of space at Fish Harbor for furnishing cracked ice for the fishing fleet yesterday by the Harbor Commission.

Application of the Naturaline Company of America for lease of 1.65 acres north of the Union Oil Company refinery on the west bank of the West Basin at the harbor has been referred to the general manager for a recommendation by the Harbor Board. The company wants permission to put in spur tracks for handling tank cars in connection with its oil processing plant.

STOCKYARDS TO REGISTER GAIN

Receipts at Local Yards Up Over Last Year

Hogs 40 Per Cent Ahead for Eleven Months

Cattle and Calves Slightly Under 1927 Total

Due principally to the rapidly increasing rate of pork consumption, receipts of live stock at the Los Angeles Union Stockyards for the first eleven months this year point toward completion within a few weeks of one of the best years in the history of the market, J. A. McNaughton, vice-president and general manager, declared yesterday.

Hog receipts for the eleven months ended November 30, last, jumped 78%650 head, or 40 per cent over the receipts for the same period of 1927, totaling 275,035 head. This more than compensated for a slight decline in cattle and calf receipts, which totaled 173,487 and 51,584 head, respectively. Sheep receipts amounted to 39,416 head, an increase of 7846.

TRUCKS NEW FACTOR

One of the most notable instances of the development of the live-stock trade in local territory is illustrated by the steady increase of truck-ins, Mr. McNaughton pointed out. By using the truck as a means of transportation, the small grower, he said, has been able to compete with the large operators. Truck lines extend to within a radius of 150 miles, although the majority of these shipments originate in Los Angeles county.

Truck-ins for the eleven months aggregated 68,355 head of cattle, calves, hogs and sheep. Compared with truck-ins for the same period of 1924, this is an increase in four years of 39,359 head, or more than 125 per cent. A marked gain is also recorded over the corresponding period of 1927.

CATTLE IN LEAD

Of all the truck-ins, cattle receipts showed the greatest increase over the four-year period, with 36,-355 head for the eleven months, compared with 6538 head in 1924. Hog receipts amounted to 15,923 head as against 12,491. The balance of this year's receipts was about evenly divided between calves and sheep.

Slaughter of cattle over a period of eight years has increased 200 per cent in volume, Mr. McNaughton said. Hog slaughter has gained 300 per cent, and the slaughter of sheep, 25 per cent.

California feed lots, which include the Imperial Valley and the Salt River Valley in Arizona, are the chief source of supply of cattle for the local stockyards during the late spring and summer. At this time the California grass season is under way and practically the total

Retail Buying in Local Area Showing Gains

November and December wholesale business has not been up to expectations, and collections have been far from satisfactory with sales now practically limited to fill-in orders, it was reported yesterday in the weekly letter of the Bradstreet Company on Los Angeles conditions. In retail lines, merchants expect the last few days of buying before Christmas to bring sales up to 1927 figures in gross at least. It is believed the influenza epidemic has delayed shopping.

Banks in the district continue to show increases in deposits, and recent reports show all in an excellent condition. One institution announced the loaning of sums to employees up to $1000, which has met with favorable comment. Attention is also directed toward the large gain in clearings this year, the increase for eleven months being $681,000,000.

The motion-picture industry is in an unsettled condition as far as employment is concerned. Some studios are closed down due to overproduction, while talking picture studios are working overtime. Executives forecast a busy year for 1929 with more employment and expenditures that will materially aid allied lines, according to the review.

Foreign Loans Held Benefit to American Trade

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (Exclusive) American investments abroad reaching a total of about $15,000,-000,000 have enlarged our overseas markets and increased the prosperity of many American industries, said Dr. George W. Edwards, economist for Stone & Webster & Blodget, Inc., at the monthly luncheon today of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the Whitehall Club.

He said also that foreign investments were proving beneficial as they assured us of sources of essential raw materials and so furnished us with a financial reserve available in case of possible international financial emergencies.

"In the last five years," said Dr. Edwards, "the United States has been lending money abroad at the rate of about $2,000,000,000 annually so that the total of our foreign investments amounts to approximately $18,000,000,000 exclusive of government advances to foreign nations. This has been the greatest international movement of capital in all history and raises serious questions as to whether it has been or will be advantageous.

Dissolution of Bank Approved

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Stockholders of Bancitaly Corporation approved dissolution of that organization at a meeting in New York today so its assets may be sold to, and incorporated into, the newly formed Trans-American Corporation, according to information from A. P. Giannini. The latter was empowered to work out the details, and left for San Francisco at once after the meeting. He is expected Sunday.

Previous unauthenticated reports that the corporation would declare an extra disbursement at the meeting failed of substantiation. If any of the assets of Bancitaly are to be distributed prior to the absorption of them by Trans-America it is considered certain that Giannini will reserve the announcement until his return to the headquarters city of his banking institutions. Silence was maintained also on the personnel of the Trans-America directorate and the acquisition of banks in the East.

Uneven Tone on London Mart

LONDON, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Buoyancy in Mond Nickel was a feature of the dealings on the stock exchange today. The market on the whole had a steady tone, with trading quiet. The oil group was in demand, and the mining list was strong, with Rhodesian issues particularly active. The industrial group was in fair demand, talking machine issues having a steady tone. Tobacco shares hardened and artificial silk and textile securities were well supported. Dunlops were easier, while wireless and rubber issues were dull. Ford Motor Company, Ltd., had a firm tone.

The gilt-edge division had a steady tone. Foreign issues moved irregularly. Home rails were quiet and Argentine rails irregular.

UNION OFFER SHOWS FAITH

Terms of Announcement Indicate Belief That Stock Market Will Sell Higher Next Month

BY EARLE E. CROWE

While some disappointment has been expressed by Union Oil stockholders over the terms of the stock privilege announced earlier in the week, a few minutes of reflection and a few simple calculations may alter the first impressions. The obvious explanation is that the Union Oil directorate believes that stock market conditions will improve substantially after the turn of the year, and that the spread between the market price for Union shares and the subscription price for the new stock will increase.

While the directors of this company probably are not anxious to appear as stock market prophets, the natural course for any company wishing to benefit stockholders and to obtain new capital advantageously is to choose a time when market conditions are favorable for its type of shares. Possibly this question of choosing the right time was discussed in the meeting of the directors on Monday. At any rate it is evident that the present is the propitious time for offering rights, in the opinion of the Union Oil management.

PAYMENT DELAYED

Bearing out this reasoning that the company looks for more favorable conditions in the early part of 1929, the initial payment on the new stock will not be called for until February 15. Trading in the rights will continue until that date, which will allow the rights to reflect whatever rise takes place in the stock in the first month and a half of the anticipated period of improvement.

The following table showing the theoretical value of the rights illustrates the possible additional compensation to stockholders through rising prices for the stock:

Price of stock	Theoretical Value of rights	Price of stock ex-rights
$50	$1.20	$48.80
51	1.37	49.63
52	1.54	50.46
53	1.63	51.37
54	1.72	52.28
55	1.81	53.19
56	1.90	54.10
57	2.00	55.00
58	2.09	55.91
59	2.18	56.82
60	2.27	57.73
61	2.36	58.64
62	2.45	59.55
63	2.54	60.46
64	2.63	61.37

CASH RETURN SWELLED

Assuming stockholders are able to dispose of their rights for an average price of $2.50, the total cash return next year would amount to $4.50, including the regular annual dividend of $2 a share. The likelihood of this extra compensation seems to eliminate the possibility of extra cash dividends, or increases in the regular rate next year. Both of these hopes should be satisfied by the cash value of the rights.

Of all the stocks quoted on the Los Angeles exchanges, there probably is more Union buried in safety deposit boxes than any other. Older residents have been accumulating this stock for years, and developments affecting the stock are followed with the closest interest. Right now the offering of the new stock is the most important current event, but there are others that have a bearing.

Perhaps stockholders will hope for a share of the proceeds from the sale of the Rocky Mountain properties to the Continental Oil Company. Or field developments in Mexico or Venezuela may influence the action of the stock at any time.

UNION OIL SELLS OUT SUBSIDIARY

Continental Oil Buys Rocky Mountain States Property

Confirmation of the acquisition of the entire properties of the Union Oil Company of California in the Rocky Mountain States by the Continental Oil Company was given yesterday by S. H. Keoughan, president of the latter company.

The deal includes eight oil fields in the Rocky Mountain district, and was formally completed yesterday morning when Mr. Keoughan conferred with officials of the Union Oil Company. Mr. Keoughan stressed the fact that the transaction affects only the mountain properties of Union Oil.

Mr. Keoughan, in a formal statement said: "Continental Oil Company has acquired the oil and gas properties of the Union Oil Company of California in the Rocky Mountain States which is distributed in eight proven fields with fifty-two wells capable of producing 15,-000 barrels of oil a day."

The transaction includes the Fort Collins Producing Company, a subsidiary of Union Oil, he stated. The price paid for the properties was not made public, but it is understood that no new financing will be necessary to handle the expansion.

Included in the deal are two casinghead gasoline plants and all the equipment necessary to operate the properties. The cities of Fort Collins, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo., are supplied with gas from one of the properties.

For a number of years he was vice-president and general manager of the Spreckels Brothers Commercial Company. He is now associated with the Globe Grain and Milling Company in the capacity of vice-

Pioneer Paper to Pay Bonus

As a share in the profits of the business for the year, a $50,000 Christmas bonus will be distributed Monday to employees of the Pioneer Paper Company, Inc., it was announced yesterday by H. M. Eichelberger, treasurer of the company.

Distribution of the bonus culminates the most successful year in the history of the business, according to company officials. This is the first year of a profit-sharing plan inaugurated for the 300 employees of the factory and sales offices throughout the West. The Pioneer Paper Company, according to J. H. Plunkett, general manager, has experienced the largest volume and greatest earning record during the past year that it has enjoyed since its establishment in 1883.

Car Loadings Register Gain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended the 8th inst. totaled 984,352 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced today. This was an increase of 84,566 cars above the preceding week which contained the Thanksgiving holiday, with increases being reported in the total loading of all commodities.

The total for the week of the 8th inst. was an increase of 106,676 cars over the same week in 1927, but 8103 cars under the corresponding week two years ago. Miscellaneous freight loading for the week totaled 353,629 cars, an increase of 45,747 cars over the corresponding week last year and 17,873 cars over the same week in 1926.

Sunnyside Buys Gold Property

Sunnyside Consolidated Mines Company has acquired the German Bar Gold Mines on the middle fork of Yuba River in Sierra and Nevada counties, and will begin work at once to develop and operate the mine, C. H. Palmer, Jr., president and general manager, announced yesterday.

The property consists of ninety-six acres, forty of which are patented. Approximately 750 feet of tunnel work on the vein, crosscuts and up-raises have been developed. The mine, he said, has a past production record in excess of $200,000 in gold bullion. Stock of the company on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange has advanced rapidly in the past week.

IRON PRODUCERS PLANNING AHEAD

Active Campaigns Scheduled for Start of Year

Additional Furnaces Lighted and More to Follow

Steel Operations Still Hold Seasonally Heavy

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19. (Exclusive) Iron Trade Review today says:

Pig iron producers are planning active campaigns for the first quarter of 1929. Blast furnaces at Struthers, O., and Granite City, Ill., have been lighted in the past week while one stack at Birmingham, Ala., and two at Buffalo will resume early in January.

This capacity is being brought in against tangible requirements. Especially in those districts where automotive business is dominant have melters covered heavily for the first quarter. Furnace stocks are negligible, consumers will scarcely average a ten-day supply in their yards and pressure for delivery promises to be insistent with the turn of the year.

CAPACITY INCREASED

Steel works operations continue seasonally heavy, Steel corporation subsidiaries at 86 per cent are at the highest rate so far in December. This is a gain of 4 points over last week and makes the average for the entire industry about 85 per cent. Many finishing departments of steel works will be down for repairs next week, but the expectation is that operations will come back rapidly after New Year.

The virility which has sent steel production and consumption to record heights this year is cushioning the markets from the shock of year-end handicaps. At Cleveland demand for heavy steel thus far in December has exceeded the comparable periods of October and November.

Considering that first quarter prices on most products represent an extension of current levels contracting has been broad and it is noteworthy that consumers rather than producers have taken the initiative. The 15th inst. dead line on sheets which have been advanced $2 per ton for the first quarter has driven in substantially all unspecified fourth-quarter tonnage and the new prices now approach their test.

RAIL BUYING UP

Railroad equipment buying is outstanding. Including 500 cars by the Boston and Maine, 300 by the the Great Nrthern and 200 by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the week's car lettings total 1214. Refrigerator lines have placed 796 steel under frames and are inquiring for 800. The Pennsylvania is taking tenders on 1000 freight-car bodies and the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern on 250 gondolas and seventy-five flat cars. Fifty thousand tons of rails may be placed at Chicago this week. The Louisville and Nashville has bought twenty-four locomotives.

Back of the unusual activity—considering seasonal factors—in sheets, strip and bars of all classifications is the automotive industry. Its requirements, especially for the higher finishes of sheets, promise to tax the mills in January.

Iron and steel prices have been firm but unchanged in the past week, resulting in the Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading products remaining at 36.24, the highest point in fifteen months.

KRESGE MAY DISTRIBUTE NEW MELON

Profits of Chain Store Held to Warrant Some Sort of Action

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (Exclusive) With the most prosperous year in the history just ended, with surplus at a new peak and with the outlook good for a continuation of sales and profits gaining during 1929, it is likely that S. S. Kresge Company directors early next year will give serious consideration to the declaration of a substantial stock dividend or a split-up of the present stock.

The last stock dividend paid by Kresge was 50 per cent in April, 1925, increasing outstanding common to 367,861 shares of $100 par value. Early in 1926 following an increase in its authorized common stock to $100,000,00 from $50,000,-000 and the changing of the par value to $10 from $100, the stock was split on a ten-for-one basis increasing shares to 3,678,610.

Stock dividends of 33 1-3 per cent and 54 per cent were paid in 1923 and 1924, respectively. It will be seen, therefore, that three years have elapsed since the stock was split and four years since a stock dividend was paid, the longest stretch since 1921. And despite the fact that during the past three years the greatest progress in Kresge's history both in sales and profits for any similar period has been reported.

Cotton Spinning Operations Gain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Census Bureau's report today on cotton-spinning activities for November showed active spindle hours for the month totaled 8,524,399,388 or an average of 241 hours per spindle in place.

Spinning spindles in place November 30 totaled 35,373,996, of which 30,596,840 were operated some time during the month, compared with 30,315,086 for October this year and 32,341,114 for November last year.

The average number of spindles operated during November was 38,-232,964 or at 108.1 per cent capacity on a single-shift basis, compared with 103.9 per cent in October this year and with 106.7 per cent capacity in November last year.

NEW ENGLAND AWAKES

States in Group Unite for Advertising Campaign to Sell Themselves to Other Sections

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The United States of New England, 66,434 square miles, compact, geographically and industrially a unit, are busy now selling themselves to other sections of the United States.

The New England council is the agency through which they work. "Have faith in New England," is their motto.

New England's natural assets are "her forests and seashores, her lakes, her streams, her soil, her climate and her mountains," says the council. Her developed assets are her good roads, her railroads, her busses, her electric power, her agriculture, her numerous, extensive and diversified industrial developments, not excelled anywhere in the world, and a widely appreciated adherence to the higher standards of manufacture."

The council expects to spend $1,000,000 in advertising the industrial and social advantages of New England.

John S. Lawrence, founder and first president of the New England council, has just retired to make way for his successor, Redfield Proctor of Vermont, former Governor of that State.

The work of the New England council will be closely watched and perhaps followed by other sections of the nation, where unity and coordination in business and social effort are as necessary as in New England.

Should sugar from the Philippine Islands be allowed to enter the United States in any quantity without duty, as at present, or should there be a limitation upon the importation?

There is one thing the United States must remember. It cannot expect to export goods without limit to the Philippines, without duty, unless the same privilege is given the goods entering the United States from the Philippines. The United States must "play the game."

Daniel R. Williams of New York says that "to export freely American products to the Philippines, and at the same time set a limit upon Philippine products which can enter the United States would be to revive the worst traditions of colonial exploitation."

The facts are that the United States exported goods to the Philippines in 1927 valued at $70,993,000, while the Islands sold to the United States $112,804,000 in goods. The figures are mounting rapidly each year. When the Philippines are developed to the same extent as Cuba they will purchase from the United States goods amounting to $540,-000,000 annually.

"To paralyze this great potential development of Philippine resources in the alleged interest of a small fraction of our people would be the acme of folly and shortsightedness," says Mr. Williams.

Brazil has a coffee problem. She organized the coffee institute in 1924 better to control the distribution of coffee.

Every year now about $120,000,000 worth of coffee is shipped out of Santos, the coffee port of Brazil; and of this more than half—about $65,000,000 worth—is sent to the United States. For this Brazil takes back automobiles, tractors, farm machinery, typewriters, adding machines, canned goods, radio sets and drugs. It is a fact that approximately 80 per cent of the automobiles alone imported through Santos are from the United States.

But this is not Brazil's real problem. Since the coffee institute was organized about 10,000,000 more bags of coffee have been produced than have been consumed. In other words, the coffee institute must hold over between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 sacks of coffee this year. At $20 a sack, this means that $100,000,000 is tied up in coffee which the market cannot absorb. And that's expensive business.

What should be done with this coffee surplus? How can it be disposed of? This is the heart of Brazil's coffee problem.

Produce Mart Begins Trading in Securities

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—The New York Produce Exchange instituted trading in its securities department today, with about 150 members participating in the transactions. This adds a third securities market to the financial machinery of Wall street.

The initial transaction was a sale of McFadden publications common stock at 12 3-4. The issue has been traded in the "over-the-counter" market and the latest bid and asked quotations were 10 3-4 and 11 1-4 respectively. Other issues active in the initial trading were Associated Gas and Electric, Bank of America National Association and Great Atlantic and Pacific Sea Company.

The produce exchange has listed 250 securities, most of which have been previously traded over the counter. The list includes industrial, bank, insurance, and miscellaneous stocks and coupon bonds. A number of tickers had been set up throughout the financial district for the opening and the ticker system is expected to expand as security trading on this market develops.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (Special)—A brisk demand for the nonferrous metal shares, coupled with another large turnover in the new Ford stock, enlivened trading in today's curb market which developed a distinctly bullish price tendency. Although many of a specialty character continued to reap many traders out of the market for the time being, there was evidence of good accumulation in a number of oil, public utility, merchandising and industrial shares.

Ford Motors limited advanced 2 points to 10¼ on confirmation of reports of small shipments of the recent offering, the day's transactions running well over 200,000 shares.

The buying of the metal stocks was stimulated by the increase in the Granby dividend, and recurrent rumors of another early advance in copper prices. Newmont ran up nearly 11 points to 204 and then eased to 202. Miranda closed more than 4 points higher. International Nickel (new) and Mond Nickel established new high prices for the year.

Issues of the aircraft group were heavy despite widespread predictions of another banner year in 1929. Niles-Bement-Pond broke nearly 13 points on realizing. Boeing moved ahead about a point but Aviation Company of America and Keystone showed moderate gains.

Marconi International Communications forged ahead to another new high above 23 on buying influenced by the recent announcement that foreign participation in this issue will be limited to 25 per cent of the outstanding stock. Other Marconi issues improved fractionally.

Electric Bond and Share was again the leader of the public utility group, climbing nearly 2 points and retaining all but a point of its gain. Middle Western Utilities ran up 4 points and Empire Power, Lone Star Gas and United Gas Improvement advanced a point or two. Cities Service fell back on profit-taking. Oils also pointed upward, Gulf of Pennsylvania, Prairie Pipe Line and Ohio Oil showing net gains of 2 to nearly 6 points. Venezuelan-Mexican Oil touched a new high at 74 and Standard Oils of Indiana and Ohio, Prairie Oil and a few others advanced a point or two.

There were a few soft spots, notably Rolen Aluminum, which dropped from a record high of 111¾ to 106½, closing at 107 for a net loss of 3½ points.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Oil Shares Respond to Renewed Confidence and Dominate Local Trading

Trading struck a firmer note on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday as the general uneasiness of the year-end credit situation gave way to a new tone of confidence. Oil shares led the way with a vigorous buying wave and the total volume of transactions reached a level more in keeping with the daily rate manifested before the recent shakeout. Other divisions of the market held fractionally steady on a continuation of the light turnover.

Speculative activity centered principally on Standard of California, Union of California and Richfield, in the oil section, while Emsco Derrick, of the industrials, soared to a new high at 300 in further response to the expected split-up of stocks. Subsequent profit-taking forced this issue off 15 points net, to 275.

Despite the recent declaration of subscription rights to holders of Union Oil and Union Associates stock, traders in some quarters are now looking toward an extra cash dividend and this rumor was largely responsible for a late buying flurry under which the stocks advanced 1-2 and 1 point, respectively, to 52 3-8 and 52 1-2. Possibility of the sale of the Colorado subsidiary has strengthened the rumor.

Further important announcements are still expected from Standard Oil of California in speculative circles, which fact is thought to account largely for an advance of 1 1-4 points added to a 2-point gain in the previous session, which raised this stock to 72 7-8. Richfield strengthened to jump 1 1-8 points to 46.

Rio Grande old stock advanced 3 points to 162 and the new issue, 1-4, to 72 7-8. Barnsdall closed up 3-4 to 40 3-4. Low-priced oil shares receded fractionally. No important changes took place in the balance of the list where operations, for the most part, were confined to odd lots.

LOS ANGELES CURB

Macmillan Petroleum, transferred to the extent of more than 10,000 shares, jumped into leadership of the trading activity yesterday on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange. This sudden spurt of activity is largely attributed to the reported extension of the Elwood acreage adjoining property controlled by Macmillan. The stock rose sharply to a new high at 43 3-8 and closed at 42 3-4 for a net gain of 1½ points.

Mexican Seaboard Oil continued to play a prominent part in the trading activity and jumped 3 points to 59 7-8. A high for the day was touched at 60 1-4 which follows an advance of 3 points in the previous session. Bandini was an outstanding performer among the lower-priced oil shares with a jump of 35 cents to 4.

Kinner Airplane and Motors was the strong spot of the industrial list and soared 22½ cents to 1.50. The action is said to be due to pool operations, which are supported by a report that motors are now being manufactured from the production line. Lockheed Aircraft warrants moved 1 1-4 points to 7 1-4, while the new stock eased fractionally to 13 5-8. Twenty shares of Western Air Express were exchanged at 575, up 5 points from the previous sale.

Sales totaled 117,723 shares valued at $1,204,508.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet again today with prices lower under some southern selling and further liquidation which was probably promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and some uncertainty as to the showing of the ginning figures which are due to be announced tomorrow morning. After showing net losses of about 7 to 13 points, however, the market ruled fairly steady on covering. Trading was dull with the active months about 8 to 10 points net lower in the late afternoon.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (Special)—Prices improved appreciably in the bond market today, with virtually every group except first-grade rails showing substantial gains. The improvement apparently was in sympathy with that in the stock market and both seemed to indicate relief over the fact that money rates have not yet soared to expected heights. Call money moved to 7 per cent today and time money clung to high levels of the past few days, but there was no indication of the wide upward movement for which traders had been preparing.

Utilities were among the strong issues, International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s for the third consecutive day establishing a new high, this time at 112¼, with a net gain of 2 points. Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s soared 13 points to 770, broke to 760, and recovered. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s were traded in volume at fractionally higher prices.

Andes Copper 7s moved up more than 5 points and Anaconda 7s nearly 4, while Barnsdall 6s, Pressed Steel Car 5s, Illinois Steel 4½s, Indiana Steel 5s, Paramount-Famous-Lasky 6s, International Cement 5s and Loew's 6s gained 1 to 3 points, the latter reaching a new peak at 115. There were a few recessions, notably in General Motors acceptance 6s, Penn Dixie Cement 6s, National Dairy Products 5½s, Kayser & Co. 5½s and others.

Seaboard All-Florida 6s A were among the heavier rails, breaking 6 points to a new year's low at 63. Rock Island 4s, 2000 6½s, Frisco 4½s, New York Central 3¼s, Norfolk and Western 4s, Florida East Coast 5s and Erie 5s also yielded to selling pressure. A feature was the strength of International Railways of Central America 8½s, which advanced more than 2 points.

The foreign list was irregular. Bolivian issues improved, reflecting relief over the war situation. United States government obligations sold off.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

has obtained a lease on 480 acres of land in the Cat Canyon district of the Santa Maria field in Santa Barbara county. It is located in Township nine, Range 32, and is just north of the holdings of the Palmer Union Oil Company and about a mile from production.

Bankline Lease

The Bankline Oil Company has taken a lease on 160 acres southeast of Corcoran, in the southeast quarter of Section 36, 22-22. Under the terms of the lease drilling must start within on year or an annual rental must be paid in lieu of drilling.

Elwood News

The drill was down to 3018 feet in the Barnsdall-Rio Grande combination's Doty No. 7 at Elwood yesterday, going through sand. Drillers believe they will have to go about 250 feet to the oil sand.

The derrick used in drilling the Luton-Bell No. 3 of the combination has been moved over to the location for the Luton-Bell No. 5, which is being rigged up, and drilling is expected to begin there within the next few days.

The crew is still milling on a pipe lost in the hole in the Elwood Community No. 1 of the same interests.

The bottom of this well is now 4480 feet.

Shell Renews Lease

The Shell company has gotten an extension of six months on its lease on approximately 11,000 acres of land belonging to the Union Sugar Company in Santa Barbara county, according to reports, and agreed to start drilling a well on the land at once.

TEACHERS WANT OLD LAW IN USE

Return of Tenure Plan Asked at Bay City Session

Opposition to County-Unit Scheme Expressed

Other Resolutions Passed at Annual Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (Exclusive)—A plea for the restoration of the teacher-tenure law in force in California prior to 1927 and opposition to the so-called county-unit plan of school administration proposed by the California Taxpayers' Association were voiced in resolutions adopted here today by the bay section of the California Teachers' Association in its final business session of the annual meeting.

Other resolutions passed pledged support of the education bill advocating establishment of a national department of education with a secretary in the President's Cabinet, preservation of the professional right of every teacher to a life diploma after a reasonable period of successful experience; high standards of certification for teaching; up-grading of elementary teachers under a plan whereby any graduate of a two-year normal or three-year teachers' college course in California, augumented by three years of successful teaching experience, shall receive credits toward an A.B. degree; liberalization of the course of study for rural and town elementary schools; 50 per cent representation of classroom teachers on the State council of the California Teachers' Association; lessening of the increasing burden of clerical and nonteaching work now exacted of teachers and principals; no change in the traditional policy of educational development and no plan of reorganization in conflict with the policy of local control and democratic organization.

A return to the tenure law in vogue prior to 1927 will solve the discontent in the rural districts, it was argued. It was pointed out that trustees in schools of eight teachers or less have refused to hire an instructor for more than a year in order to obviate the necessity of

BOSSES IN AND OUT, BUT SHE---

Yes, Clara H. Olsen Apparently Goes on Forever, for She's Serving Tenth New Mexico Governor as Secretary Having Begun 'Way Back in Territorial Days

When it comes to the matter of the survival of the fittest, Clara H. Olsen probably has hung up a world's record, for, as secretary to Gov. Dillon of New Mexico, she is serving the tenth Governor of that State in such capacity.

Miss Olsen is visiting friends in Los Angeles over the holidays and despite a natural modesty and a disinclination to "talk shop" told briefly of her career in public life in New Mexico. She is the type that spells "strictly business" with capitals, and yet she can smile. She smiled yesterday when, at a reporter's request, she went over the list of governors she has served.

"Did you ever do any other work?" she was naively asked.

"Any other work!" she laughingly exclaimed; "just count up the years represented there."

DETAILS OF RECORD

The record goes something like this: Having been engaged in work in the Legislature of New Mexico in Territorial days, Miss Olsen became secretary to M. A. Otero, Territorial Governor under President McKinley and later under President Roosevelt. That was in 1901. In 1906 H. J. Hagerman was appointed Governor by President Roosevelt, and Miss Olsen stayed on as his secretary.

There followed then George Curry, from Roosevelt's Rough Rider regiment, and she remained as Curry's secretary.

Judge William J. Mills was then appointed Governor of the Territory by President Taft, and even though there had been a change in governors and in presidents, Miss Olsen remained as secretary to the Governor. She served under Gov. Mills until the Territory became a State in 1912.

Along came then the first election and William C. McDonald became the first Governor of the State. He was a Democrat. The others had been Republican. But even though the whole machinery changed and the political complexion of the chief executive changed the secretary to the chief executive of the State continued to be Clara H. Olsen. After five years McDonald was succeeded by E. C. De Baca, another Democrat. He was ill when he went into the campaign and by the time he was elected he was in the hospital—in fact, he took the oath of office in the hospital on his sick bed. He was Governor forty days, when he died.

SUFFRAGE APPEARS

Lieut.-Gov. W. E. Lindsey succeeded him. In the next election M. C. Mecham was victor, and, as with the others, Miss Olsen continued to be secretary to the Governor. After two years O. A. Larrazola was elected, and she remained as his secretary. About that time woman suffrage became a fact and with its advent Miss Olsen took an active part in the campaign, believing it a woman's duty to do so. Two Democratic governors followed in succession Larrazola, and Miss Olsen having opposed them she was not in the Governor's office during those two terms.

But with the election of R. C. Dillon she was called back into the service and took up her old post. Gov. Dillon was re-elected at the last general election and Miss Olsen continues in her capacity as secretary.

It is a long record in a public office, and inasmuch as it is not a civil service position, but one of choice and appointment by each individual Governor, well, the record tells a lot about the kind of a secretary Miss Olsen must be.

Asked what she thinks are the qualifications most required of a good secretary, she said she thinks that loyalty is really an outstanding qualification. And tact. Yes, you might be loyal, very loyal, but if you are not tactful, loyalty will not get you very far.

And how about efficiency? Efficiency? Why—she just naturally takes that for granted, first and foremost, of course.

You don't have to make three guesses as to Miss Olsen's efficiency. She is not at all talkative herself about it, but over in the New Mexico country the understanding is that Miss Olsen can handle anything that ever popped up in any Governor's office.

Miss Olsen is stopping at the Belmont Hotel here.

ARREST DELAYS CALLED ILLEGAL

Practice of Holding Suspects Pending Inquiries Hit

County Counsel Rules That Speed Must be Shown

Sheriff and Police Officials Declared Affected

Persons held by the Sheriff or the police department as suspects in order that the officers may have time to make further investigations are detained illegally. This is in substance the opinion of County Counsel Mattoon submitted yesterday to Sheriff Traeger.

Under the ruling of the County Councel there is nothing in the section of the Penal Code of the State of California governing the arrest and prosecution of persons accused of committing misdemeanors or felonies that provides for any delay in taking a prisoner before a magistrate, other than for the safety of the prisoner himself, the officers in whose custody he is or to comply with the convenience or rule of the court.

The opinion, according to its explanation by Deputy County Counsel Prichard, applies not only to persons detained by the Sheriff and his deputies, but to prisoners taken into custody by the city police department.

The general practice of holding prisoners booked as suspects to give the officers time to sweat them and to obtain sufficient evidence in order to obtain a warrant on a formal complaint is absolutely in violation of the law, according to Prichard. There is, he says, no basis for the belief that a period of twenty-four hours is allowed within which to file a complaint after an arrest has been made.

The County Counsel also points out that "suspicion" of an offense is not a sufficient basis on which to make a complaint on which to take a prisoner before a magistrate. The law is clear, he says, in this because it provides for no penalties except for overt acts formally charged against the person arrested.

The opinion then goes on to recite that a suspect is protected against arrest under all circumstances until such a time as a formal complaint is placed against him and he is taken before a magistrate without delay.

A delay of twenty-four hours, the opinion says, might be "reasonable" provided it is taken in order to insure safety to the prisoner, or where a court is closed and a magistrate is not available at the time.

It is the belief that the opinion will have considerable effect upon the future conduct of officers in the police department and the Sheriff's office when booking prisoners as suspects until a formal charge can be placed against them.

HOLLYWOOD PAIR VAGUE ON WEDDING

Joan Crawford Declares She and Young Fairbanks May Marry Before March

Wedding bells are to ring in Hollywood in the near future for Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., according to statements made by both yesterday. Miss Crawford said she and Fairbanks planned on being married before Christmas, but that these arrangements are certain not to mature.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR.

It was not long ago, after a considerable space of silence on the part of both, that they admitted their betrothal. Yesterday they confirmed this by declaring they are hoping for an early wedding.

"We will be married before her next birthday," said Douglas.

"When is that?" she was asked.

"In March," she answered.

"But what about these reports you now are married?" they were asked.

"Maybe, but we don't think so," they chorused. The romance has been watched with keen interest in the screen colony.

LAMKIN DENIES FLAPPER PLEA

He Asserts Modern Teachers Need No Defense

Wise School Spending Urged by Head of N.E.A.

"Walking Cadavers" Told to Take Life Interest

Denying the report that, in a speech at San Francisco, he had "defended the right of the young school-teacher to 'flap,'" Dr. Uel W. Lamkin, president of the National Educational Association, in an address to 1000 members of the Los Angeles High School Teachers' Association at the Biltmore yesterday told his audience that school-teachers of the country need no defense, adding that "they'll 'flap' if they want to." The luncheon was a feature of the City Teachers' Institute which opened Monday, last.

"I plead for the humanness of the school-teacher," said Dr. Lamkin. "If some of them want to wear short skirts, use cosmetics or do any other perfectly human, or at least feminine thing, it's their own business."

Requesting the co-operation of every member of the N.E.A. in the efforts of that organization to assist local educational associations, Dr. Lamkin mentioned the fact that California heads the list in membership in the association, but said the State will have to look out for its laurels, as other States are forging to the front.

SALARIES DISCUSSED

Discussing the financial status of public school instructors, Dr. Lamkin said that just as the constant statement that "the farmers are bankrupt" militates against the agriculturist when he attempts to borrow money, so, also, respect for our teachers is not heightened by the fact, or even the popular statement that they all are poorly paid and have no money.

"California is one of the greatest corporations in the United States and its most important business is education," said the speaker. "Teachers should be paid enough to allow them to appear as respectable as they really are, and when they are allowed to retire on pay it should not be because they are needy, and as an act of charity, but as a reward for efficient service."

Discussing school tax money, Dr. Lamkin voiced the opinion that funds collected to run the schools should be spent wisely instead of saved and that the important question is not "How much is collected for schools from the taxpayers?" but "How does the city spend that money?"

MUST KEEP ABREAST

"The modern school teacher should be financially independent, should keep abreast of all new knowledge and know how to impart knowledge and wisdom to her pupils," said the speaker. "If you don't know more than you did eight years ago, you are educationally bankrupt."

A. R. Clifton, State Director of the N.E.A., announced that a breakfast in Dr. Lamkin's honor will be served at 8 a.m. today at the Commercial Club, Eleventh street and Broadway.

Introducing the past presidents of the High School Teachers' Association, Albert M. Shaw, the president, said that when the association was organized twenty years ago there were only five high schools in the city, while today there are fifty-one. He pointed out that in 1915, school teachers of all grades numbered only 2000, while today there are 4191 high school teachers alone.

Mrs. Susan Dorsey, another honored guest, complimented the teachers of the Southland upon their attendance and interest in the various sessions of the Teachers' Institute and said that, in her opinion, "the work of the high-school teachers is the most important work in the world."

FLATTERY HINTED

"Some of these folks who are excited because they think science proves that man descended from the monkey should really feel highly flattered," said Dr. Thomas H. Briggs, professor of education of the Teachers' College at Columbia University, in an address to 2000 teachers at Trinity Auditorium yesterday.

Dr. Briggs was discussing the "walking cadavers," educated and uneducated, who, on the highway of life, from cradle to grave, fail to find anything worthy of interest.

"With all the wonders and glories of the phenomenal universe around them, above, below and within them, some persons go through the world as if this were a cold, dead sphere or a howling wilderness—in

Capt. Clyde Plummer.

FITTS PICKS PLUMMER IN LIQUOR WAR

Deputy Chief of Police to Take Office January 20 as Head of Bureau

Deputy Chief of Police Clyde Plummer will become the chief of the Los Angeles county liquor and gambling law enforcement department after January 20, it was announced yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

In announcing that Plummer, who has been the head of the city vice squad under Chief of Police Davis, will join his staff and direct the prohibition squad, Fitts praised highly the ability of his appointee, and called attention to the twenty-year service Plummer has given to law enforcement in the city.

"Next to Alf Oftedal, assistant national prohibition administrator, who could not accept the position on account of Federal plans, I consider Plummer the best and most fearless enforcement officer that could come to this office," the District Attorney said.

The organization and direction of the bureau will be under the complete supervision of Plummer, according to Fitts, and he will be in full charge of the office.

"All I ask of Plummer is results, and I feel certain that he is thoroughly capable of fulfilling the desire of this office," Fitts said.

Plummer will continue his work as Deputy Chief of Police, until he completes his twenty years of service on January 20, when he will resign to accept the new post. In the meantime the operations of the enforcement squad will be under the supervision of Chief of Investigators Wheeler and Investigator O'Brien.

Other announcements by Fitts yesterday in connection with his re-organization plans were the appointment of Percy V. Hammond, attorney, as a Deputy District Attorney. Hammond probably will be assigned to the trial detail.

Miss Rena Brewster was named as permanent stenographer for the grand jury. Miss Brewster is able and experienced and thoroughly familiar with stenographic work as it pertains to the position.

COUNCIL SEEKS KNOWLEDGE

A demand that the Board of Public Works furnish the Council with a report on the wearing qualities and upkeep cost of the various types of pavements was voiced yesterday by Councilman Martin. At the suggestion of President Bonelli he said he will offer a resolution on the matter today, so the Council will have an instrument wherewith to institute the matter.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IT APPEARS that our husky young men are just too darn rough for the tender little flowers who play eastern football.

By rights, you see, the eastern teams from New York University and West Point, Notre Dame and way stations should have won; but the Trojans and the big mean farmers from Oregon Aggie and the Stanford boys just stood them on their heads and went on with the ball.

With sour remarks, the eastern football critics say that it's our climate. That it is no use to try football tactics against boys made out of steel muscles.

WELL, WHO KNOWS?

Well, we admit this much, and also throw out a warning. Any one of these days our young college men—finding nobody who can make football interesting to them—are liable to turn intellectual. And then look out.

DRYING THEIR TEARS

Just from the standpoint of an outsider, I might observe that the main thing the eastern teams seem to need most sorely is a nurse. The news dispatches of the West Point game state that the bold Napoleons of the Army team all left the field in tears. At the Notre Dame game in Los Angeles the defeated buccaneers, led by the estimable Rockne, wept so copiously that the Coliseum swam with tears. I have heard that all-day suckers and toy balloons are an excellent antidote for the very young and lachrymose in such instances.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND

It should not be a surprise that New York streets are filled with hungry actors and that the shows have flopped. This was written in the skies.

For two or three years the theaters of Broadway have smelled to high heaven. Plays of sex degeneracy—plays of dirty talk—plays of perversion—plays built on filthy stories usually confined to drunken nights in water-front dives.

THE LIMIT COMES AT LAST

Theater managers who stand on this line are licked before they get to first base. Each season the public demands a dirtier thrill than the season before. The audience that once giggled at the terrible word "damn" now has exhausted all the low profanity in the language. There is nowhere to go from here.

JOHN STRUCK

It should always be remembered to the everlasting credit of John Barrymore that he walked out on Broadway at the very height of his fame because he refused absolutely to take part in plays written on garbage heaps with putrid pencils.

FAIR SKIES TO FOLLOW COOL SNAP

Light Firing in Groves Prevents Frost Damage, Weather Men Report

Following somewhat higher temperatures in the citrus districts which required only very light firing in the exposed groves during the early hours yesterday, fair weather is looked for today and Friday with moderate temperature, according to the forecast by the Weather Bureau last night.

Reports to the California Fruit Growers' Exchange yesterday stated that only light firing was necessary in some spots and that no damage has been experienced in the present cold snap. Some portions of the Redlands district required a little firing during the night as well as some of the low spots around Azusa, Glendora, Covina and some of the lemon groves in the Whittier district. Albert W. Cook, frost expert, said yesterday it was not likely that heating would be required last night.

The Weather Bureau reports gave low temperatures as follows: Redlands, 32; Riverside, 40; San Bernardino, 38; Santa Ana, 31; San Fernando, 39, and Imperial 30.

Ventura reported that smoke from smudge pots filled the lower valley of the Little Santa Clara during the early morning hours yesterday. E. S. Ellison, United States Weather Bureau observer, stationed

Police Captain Shows How to 'Get Your Man'

Capt. Jack Mart, who commands the Seventy-seventh-street police station, has been a member of the force for twenty-five years and it has been a long time since he has done active outside police work.

But yesterday afternoon when a call came in from a person living near the home of Jack Lestoulie at 8415 South Figueroa street saying he had seen a man climb through the window of the Lestoulie house, Capt. Mart was alone in the police station except for the telephone operator.

Appointing himself a plain patrolman, the captain answered the call himself. When he got to the Figueroa street address he drew his gun and entered the house. In the dining-room he saw a young man, who shouted:

"Don't shoot, I'll come out."

The captain took his prisoner, who gave his name as George Maxwell and his age as 20 years, back to the station and booked him on a burglary charge.

CONSULTANT RETAINED ON RIVER TASK

Mulholland Chosen by Water Bureau to Aid in Colorado Aqueduct Plans

William Mulholland, who retired from active service with the Municipal Water Bureau the 1st inst., after serving more than fifty years with the city's water system, was yesterday retained as consulting engineer with the Department of Water and Power, in a resolution adopted by the Board of Water and Power Commissioners.

The resolution retaining Mr. Mulholland as a special consultant was introduced by Commissioner Keller and was unanimously adopted by the board.

Although no statement has been issued by the members of the Water and Power Commission, it is expected Mr. Mulholland's advice will be sought in connection with the problem of procuring a domestic water supply for Los Angeles and other Southern California cities from the Colorado River. With the signing of the Boulder Dam bill, it is understood immediate steps will be taken by Los Angeles looking to the launching of the proposed Colorado River Aqueduct project through which it is planned to obtain sufficient domestic water to meet the needs of 7,500,000 additional people in Southern California cities.

Julian Oil Sale in Court Today

Action looking toward the confirmation of the sale of the physical properties of the Julian Petroleum Corporation to the Sunset Pacific Oil Company is expected this afternoon when the case again is brought before United States District Judge McCormick.

Sale of the properties, said to be worth about $30,000,000, recently was conducted on the steps of the Courthouse under an order of the court. The sale was not for cash but was through the transfer of stock and interests.

OLD LOS ANGELES TO BE REVIVED

Typical Mexican Orchestra, Colorfully Garbed, Will Give Saturday Afternoon Concerts for Year in Plaza Under Auspices of Main Street Organization

Revival of the music of Old Mexico and the early custom of the pioneers in Los Angeles of gathering on Saturday afternoons in the Plaza to hear the costumed musicians play on typically Mexican and Spanish instruments is to be achieved, according to the announcement of the North Main Street Business Men's Association.

Organization of the "Orquesta de la Placita" with a regular schedule of a three-hour concert in the Plaza every Saturday has been effected. A Mexican orchestra of twenty-two players will be assembled this Saturday and the weekly concerts will be featured every week for a year.

Assurance that the orchestra will be continued a year was made by the North Main Street Business Men's Association, which pledged the sum of $500 a month to meet expenses. One of the prime movers in the venture is Carlos Tamborrel, who has devoted much time in obtaining players and instruments.

The weekly concerts will be free to the public and later will be broadcast over one of the large Los Angeles stations by remote control.

Mr. Tamborrel and several of the officials of the association have taken up the matter with several of the broadcasting stations in an effort to obtain the necessary time allotment around the first week in January.

Many music lovers of Los Angeles have become interested in the project, according to Mr. Tamborrel, and have promised support. The City Council will be asked to erect a concrete bandstand in the Plaza, but at present the new orchestra will play from a temporary wooden platform.

The players are to be costumed in the style of the early Spanish and Mexican musicians with sombreros, trajes de charros and serapes. Only Mexican and Spanish stringed instruments, such as guitarras, mandolinas, citaras, violinas, violoncelos and bajos, are to be used.

Besides being of benefit to the business men of the section the plans are expected to center interest in the proposal to preserve many of the old buildings about which early traditions of the city are centered.

The concert Saturday is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

NEW PANTAGES PLANNED

Theater Project Involving $3,000,000 Expenditure Will be Located in Center of Hollywood

The Pantages Theater Corporation practically has completed negotiations for a long-time lease on a new theater to be erected on a plot of ground near the northeast corner of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine street, it was learned from authentic sources last night.

It also was stated that the real estate and structural operations will involve an expenditure of approximately $3,000,000.

According to present plans, it is understood that the frontage on Hollywood Boulevard will be given over largely to shops, but that a wide court, such as that leading to the Egyptian Theater, will give theater patrons access to the new Pantages from the boulevard.

Alexander Pantages, head of the Pantages Theater Corporation, denied a few days ago that any deal had been completed, but it was learned later that only the signature of one of the property owners, heir of an estate, is needed to complete the deal, and the papers now are in the East to be signed.

An outstanding concern of architects, it is reported, is at work finishing the designs for the theater and these plans, probably will be released within a day or two. It was declared that Pantages plans to make the new theater one of the

VOTE BACKS BIBLE TEACHER

Presbytery Upholds Dr. MacInnis, Institute Dean, and Denounces Fundamentalist Squabble

A resolution expressing confidence in the character, integrity and orthodoxy of Rev. Dr. John Murdoch MacInnis, dean of the Bible Institute for the last three years, who resigned recently as the result of a controversy involving criticism by fundamentalists of his philosophic writings, was passed unanmously yesterday at a special meeting of the presbytery of Los Angeles.

Despite repeated efforts to end the meeting and block any further action, the presbytery, by a majority, then adopted a resolution urging that the larger aspects of the cause of the church as a whole take precedence over any local misunderstanding or fear, voted to send copies of both resolutions to every presbytery in the United States and Great Britain, invited Dr. Mac Innis to speak and applauded his brief remarks.

The resolution of confidence in Dr. MacInnis states that in the opinion of the presbytery he is a man of unblemished character and outstanding manhood; a loyal and faithful minister unfailing in his devotion to Jesus Christ and devoutly believing in the truth as revealed in the Scriptures; a teacher of marked ability and success, with a sympathetic understanding of youth, and a preacher worthy of all esteem, confidence, co-operation and support.

The second resolution declares that the presbytery, realizing that it has no authoritative relationship

Ultimatum Against Slot Machines Indicated as Fitts Summons Manufacturers of Devi

BAN FORECAST ON OPERATIONS

Five Leaders in Field Called for Conference Today

Action Follows Seizures in Outlying Sections

Dry Forces Take Holiday Liquor Supply

Orders to slot-machine manufacturers and distributors to cease operations in Los Angeles county were forecast last night, when Dist.-Atty. Fitts summoned representatives of five of the leading companies to appear before him today at 2:30 p.m. for a conference.

While the District Attorney declined to make public the nature of his remarks to the slot-machine distributors, it was intimated that he practically will issue an ultimatum that they immediately get out of business here, collect the machines which are asserted to be gambling devices and confine their activities to sections other than county points, or face arrest.

FIVE GET ORDERS

The five manufacturers ordered to appear before Fitts by Chief Investigator Wheeler are: Gans Brothers, Will Durham, George Distel, R. Harold Robinson and R. M. Schaffler.

The move of Fitts against the slot machine gambling followed the seizure yesterday of the mechanical devices in El Monte, Wilmar, Fuente, Montebello and Rosemead. Forty-eight machines in the five county towns were confiscated by investigators from the District Attorney's office. Thirty persons, charged with violating the gambling ordinance, will appear before justices of the peace today for arraignment and pleas.

LIQUORS SEIZED

In the drive to dry up the county during the holidays, investigators under Capt. Tom O'Brien of the District Attorney's enforcement bureau Tuesday night seized a large assortment of choice liquors and two five-ton trucks at a Beverly Hills residence, it was reported yesterday.

The liquor confiscation was made at 902 North Rexford street, according to Chief Wheeler of the Bureau of Investigation, and included thirty cases of Bourbon whisky, Benedictine, cognac and choice wines. Fifteen gallons of Scotch whisky and thirty-five gallons of Bourbon liquor, as well as a large quantity of labels and cutting-plant paraphernalia, also were seized. Harry C. Allen was taken in custody by the investigators and is charged with the possession of the liquor.

HUGE MARKET PROJECTED

Option Taken on Hollywood Property for Site at Expenditure of More Than $1,500,000

Involving an outlay of more than $1,500,000, option was taken yesterday on property in Hollywood in anticipation of the construction of one of the largest drive-in markets in the west. According to Max Arnold of Arnold and Associates, holders of the option, plans are being drawn by Walker & Eisen of this city and it is expected construction will commence on or about February 1, 1929.

Located on the west side of Highland avenue between Romaine street and Willoughby, the new market, it is asserted, will be one of the most elaborate and up-to-date structures of its kind. The building will be of strictly Spanish architecture throughout.

Free parking space for 400 cars will be provided in a patio-like enclosure around which the structure will be builded in the shape of a square. Facing east, the front of the building, running along Highland avenue a distance of 600 feet, will be two stories high with markets located on the ground floor and office space in the second story.

A huge refrigeration storage plant will be contained in the rear, four stories high, containing cold storage space of more than 300,000 cubic feet. The structure will be surmounted with a Neon sign moving in a semicircle, the letters on which will be six feet high.

Approximately 600,000 square feet of floor space will be contained in the structure according to the plans. The building will have a depth of 585 feet, running from Highland avenue through to Mansfield.

MANY TREES LIGHTED UP IN BEVERLY

Hundreds of Homes Join in Christmas Celebration and Park Has Fete, Too

Beverly Hills put on her holiday attire last evening when 400 Christmas trees on private estates were illuminated simultaneously and a pre-Christmas party was held in the city park, which contains the largest tree of all, a fifty-footer, with hundreds of lights.

Mary Pickford, Lois Wilson and Judge M. J. Cavanaugh took part in the ceremonies attending the general lighting up and a massed chorus of the six Beverly Hills churches sang Christmas carols. There was an extensive musical program under the direction of Paul Taylor, and dancing by young pupils of Miss Sally Finney.

A feature of the Christmas lighting-up celebration was provided by Howard E. Shafer, who played Santa Claus and distributed candy to children. The festivities were under the auspices of the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce.

to the Bible Institute, but knowing that the institution was established and is maintained with funds largely from Presbyterian sources, fears that without intention a great work may be hindered, the devotion of a consecrated leader injured and a widespread good influence retarded, and therefore interests of the Christian cause at large should be given precedence over any local misunderstanding or fear.

Both resolutions were introduced by Dr. William S. Young, stated clerk. Dr. Hugh K. Walker, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, moved the adoption of the resolution of confidence, and several ministers spoke in its favor and declared that there never has ben a shadow of modernism in Dr. MacInnis's teachings.

The second resolution met with considerable opposition and was adopted only after a long debate in which several demands that the meeting be closed abruptly were voted down and the opponents of the measure declared that the presbytery lacked jurisdiction to make such a statement.

A motion to invite Dr. McInnis to express his views met with similar opposition and was carried by a majority of only two votes. When Dr. MacInnis stepped onto the rostrum of the Sunday-school room of the First Presbyterian Church, Twentieth and Figueroa streets, where the meeting was held before a large audience, he was greeted by loud applause which was prolonged for several minutes.

Dr. MacInnis thanked the presbytery for its action and declared that its vote of confidence is a thing he cherishes more than anything else on earth.

He said he wanted to enter a protest against the "unscrupulous attitude of men who undertake to black up a man as untrue to Jesus Christ," and challenged the church "to see to a deepening of the life of its own people and to cultivate its own constituency to realize that no other organization is as efficient as the church in the investment of money in religious work."

"The church gives an account of receipts and disbursements, a statement of contributions, overhead and promotion expense," Dr. MacInnis said. "Some other organizations ask for money and refuse to give a statement showing where it came from and where it was put."

At that point Dr. MacInnis was interrupted by demands for order and protests against persons in the audience talking out loud. Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, moderator, who presided, requested that there be no further talking and Dr. MacInnis finished by remarking:

"I am convinced that the church should train its own students."

PURPOSE OF MEETING

The purpose of the meeting, according to a notice read by Dr. Young soon after the gathering was called to order, was "to review and take such action as may be deemed constitutional and wise and will tend to make right the wrongs which have been done a member of the presbytery, Dr. MacInnis, by certain persons who, in private and through the public press, have made it appear that he is of unsound faith and lacking in respect for Jesus Christ and the Holy Scripture, in spite of repeated avowals on his part of loyalty to the historic standards of the Presbyterian church, thus placing in jeopardy his word and character as a minister of the gospel."

The acceptance of Dr. MacInnis's resignation, effective the 31st inst., by a majority of the board of directors of the institute, was followed by the resignations of four members of the board and eleven members of the faculty in loyalty to Dr. MacInnis.

The criticism of Dr. MacInnis by the fundamentalists has been based on "Peter, the Fisherman Philosopher," which he published several months ago.

Their sense of smell will direct them to the carbon bisulphide.

PRIVACY NEARS FOR NORTHCOTT

Defense and Prosecution in Accord on Plea

Lawyer Will Get Conferences Alone With Client

Habeas Corpus Action Put Over for One Week

Gordon Stewart Northcott's defense counsel and Los Angeles prosecutors apparently are in accord as to the accused boy's constitutional rights in so far as County Jail conferences are concerned, and as a result Superior Judge Woods yesterday continued Robert Savay's application for a writ of habeas corpus until a week from yesterday.

The application, filed Tuesday morning, requested that County Jail attaches be instructed by the court to allow Northcott and his counsel absolute privacy during their discussions. The prisoner and attorneys' room where meetings between prisoners and attorneys usually are held, was declared by Savay to be "too public."

STATE ACCEDES

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Becker, who represented the State in yesterday's hearing, declared his office is willing and anxious for the Wineville chicken farmer, who is accused of the murders of four boys on his Riverside county ranch, to have all the advantages accorded him under Savay's chief argument for the writ was based on a long letter from J. McKinley Cameron of Calgary, Alta., who Northcott says is his chief counsel, and which the local counsel says he is prevented from presenting his client by jail attaches.

"The letter is unsealed and contains instructions from Mr. Cameron to Northcott and he should be allowed to read it," Savay contended in his short argument to the court.

The defense counsel further intimated that a "large horn" located in the ceiling of the attorney's room of the jail, probably is a dictaphone by which his conferences with Northcott can be overheard by hidden detectives. As a matter of fact, it was pointed out by jail attaches, the instrument is a part of the "shadow box" equipment by which detectives listen to comments made by prisoners concealed behind a screen in another room, but which does not carry sound from the prisoners' and attorneys' room to the other.

Becker made it plain to the court that his office in no manner will grant favors to Northcott that are not accorded other prisoners.

SUSPECT LAUGHS

When Northcott first entered Judge Woods's courtroom on the eighth floor of the Hall of Justice, apparently he believed that he was to be the central figure in yesterday's hearing. He stepped before the jurist with his hands crossed before him, as he usually carries them when handcuffed, and stood at attention. When a court bailiff pulled him back into a chair Northcott laughed, and throughout the hearing sat on the edge of his chair attentively listening.

Yesterday, Riverside officials announced that no delay in Northcott's trial will be asked by them. Northcott's counsel also indicated that an immediate trial, now scheduled to begin January 2, will be welcomed by them.

Mrs. Louise Northcott, mother of the accused slayer, is charged jointly with him with the slaying of Walter Collins and will face trial with her son on January 10.

Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. in the E. W. Holman & Sons chapel, 1808 East Florence avenue, with burial in Inglewood Park Cemetery. PRATTLE OF BOY BRINGS LIQUOR RAID

Child Tells Police Suspect Bought Auto Load of Rum from Father

Mario Saromazz picked the wrong boy to accompany him on an asserted bootlegging expedition when he chose 4-year-old Billy Merli, it developed yesterday in Municipal Judge Reed's court. Saromazz and Billy were stopped in the former's coupe at Sunset Boulevard and Figueroa street by Motorcycle Officer Sol Bazier, whose arrest report shows that he found fifty-four quarts of assorted liquor in the car.

When Saromazz refused to talk Bazier questioned the boy.

"He bought it from my daddy," the child said. "There's lots more in the clothes closets at home, too."

Two hours later a raiding squad under Detective Lieutenant Crane raided Merli's house at 1531 Palmer street. In court yesterday they charged the boy's father with possession of 300 gallons of wine and seven full cases of assorted liquors, which they declared were found in clothes closets at the Palmer-street address.

Both Saromazz and Merli pleaded not guilty to the liquor charges made against them by Deputy City Prosecutor Higgins before Judge Reed and asked for a jury trial. It was set for January 15, next.

Tractor Crash Kills Japanese

Fusakichi Oshio, 44 years of age, a Japanese, was found dead yesterday under his tractor 100 feet off the highway near the intersection of Oxnard and Owensmouth avenues on land which he owned. The body was found by J. L. Kelly of 7700 Owensmouth avenue, who notified the police.

Oshio, the police said, evidently had attempted to enter his property with the tractor when it overturned on uneven ground, pinning the driver beneath it. The motor was running when Kelly got the aid of passing motorists to extricate the body. The dead man was married and the father of four children.

Animals Will Be Cited in Lesson

"The natural reactions of the primitive creatures can teach us more than all the physiology written in textbooks," maintains Dr Lovell, who will utilize this contention as applied to the solving of physical problems this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

In addition to his suggestion to forget the arguments of the great authorities and observe the phenomena of nature as exemplified by the animals, Lovell will answer questions from the floor, and N. P. Roe will give a brief demonstration of therapeutic corrective exercises.

South American countries are planning to use a number of American planes on new lines.

Fire Chief Scott Will Lead Parade Christmas M When City's Paper Vendors Will Mobilize for Mo on Feast Provided by Fred Solomon

Led by Ralph J. Scott, Chief of the Los Angeles Fire Department, a parade of some 2000 newsboys through the downtown streets will open the program of Fred H. Solomon's thirteenth annual newsboys' Christmas dinner at his Grand-avenue ballroom next Tuesday morning.

Chief Scott has provided the fire department band to head the lengthy cavalcade of taxicabs, provided by J. A. Baldi, chairman of the board of the Yellow Cab Company, to carry the boys from the newspaper offices, where they will assemble, to the ballroom.

To begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday, the parade will go down Broadway to Seventh street, follow Seventh to Grand avenue, and take Grand to Ninth street and the ballroom. To give the newsies some exercise to bolster up their appetites Chief Scott and Solomon will have a penny shower in front of the dance palace just before the boys go in.

Public officials and members of the fire department have volunteered to don aprons and see that the guests get plenty of eats and drinks. The affair is given by Solomon as a memorial to his father, Mrs. Seraphine G. Solomon.

Dr. George H. Kress was awarded the Ling medal of the silver class for "distinguished services for the health progress of school children" by the board of governors of the Ling Foundation yesterday morning at the meeting of the Teachers' Health Institute held at Patriotic Hall.

The recipient of the medal was lauded for his services as chairman of the advisory board on eye, ear, nose and throat work in Los Angeles schools by Dr. Sven Lokrantz, director of the division of health and corrective physical education of the local schools who presented a diploma, and by J. W. McKinley who presented the medal on behalf of the Ling Foundation.

In addition to his work as chairman of the advisory body, Dr. Kress aided in the care of school children in other positions and in clinics as dean of the Los Angeles medical department of the University of California, professor of opthalmology in the College of Medical Evangelists; editor of California and Western Medicine, chairman of the Los Angeles County Health Department Board, and as one of the senior eye surgeons in clinics at the County Hospital.

The medal is given each year for the purpose of promoting health work for children and awards are made to those who have worked unselfishly for health progress among school children of Southern California.

The board of governors of the Ling Foundation comprises Warren B. Bovard of the University of Southern California; Louis Bradbury; Dr. C. C. Browning; Edward Dickson, regent of University of California; Dr. Even Lokrantz, D. C. MacWaters, and J. W. McKinley.

Power Bureau Will Decorate Holiday Trees

With the view of indicating to Los Angeles any decorative effects that may be gotten through illumination of out-doors living Christmas trees the department of water and power has authorized the Municipal Power Bureau to decorate a large number of trees on the grounds of sixteen of the bureau distributing stations, it was announced yesterday by President Richards.

Lighting engineers with the bureau have now completed the decorations of these trees, and they will be brilliantly illuminated every night hereafter until New Year's, it was stated. The decorated trees are situated in virtually every section of Los Angeles. In many instances the decorative effect has been enhanced by flood lighting.

ALIMONY LEVY KNOT UNRAVELED

Auto Dealer's Divorced Wife Loses Attempt to Have Him Pay Debt

A knotty question in law relative to whether alimony paid to a wife is free from a levy for debts was decided yesterday by Superior Judge Rosenkranz against Mrs. Blossom Eleanor Huggins, divorced wife of Joseph Huggins, automobile dealer. A levy had been made on her $65 a month allowance. The court held the levy valid.

The attachment was made for bills incurred by Mrs. Huggins. She endeavored to show that alimony is exempt from an execution and that her former husband should have asked exemption. His failure to do so, she contended, made him liable. If she had been upheld, Huggins would have been required to pay the alimony a second time.

In deciding the case Judge Rosenkranz pointed out that the records showed Huggins had obtained the divorce and that the allowance Mrs. Huggins was receiving came under a property settlement made by the parties and afterward approved by the court.

Alimony, he said, paid to an innocent wife is not a debt within the meaning of the law, but a legal obligation and is exempt from an execution, but inasmuch as the husband was granted the decree his wife was the party at fault, theoretically, and the property settlement was subject to being attached.

which they do most of the boning," said the speaker.

"A person is intellectually alive to the degree that he responds to the phenomena around him," said Dr. Briggs. "I wouldn't give a snap of my finger for the teacher who is not interested in his subject, and in the pupils he teaches. And, by the way, it is good to know students, not as a class, but as individuals, to learn their particular interests in life and to help them develop those interests.

MUST CONTINUE

"Education amounts to little unless it goes on forever. The kind of education that truly broadens life is that which is applied to practical and ideal living. Knowledge that leads to wisdom is the only kind of learning that counts."

The result of the election of officers for the California Teachers' Association, southern section, for the coming year, will be announced at the business meeting this afternoon at Trinity Auditorium. More than 20,000 teachers voted at the election.

Through an agreement in the organization the new president will be one from a Los Angeles school. Frederick F. Martin, superintendent of schools at Santa Monica, is the retiring president.

JUDGE WILL SPEAK

Among the speakers who will address sectional meetings this afternoon is Superior Judge Yankwich. He has been invited to the classical section because of his ability as a linguist and a student of the classics.

Judge Yankwich will speak at the luncheon of the classical section of the University of California at Los Angeles today. Other speakers will be Dr. Paul Shorey, University of Chicago, and Mrs. Dorsey.

General meetings today will be held at the Bible Institute, with Dr. Walter R. Siders, field representative of the World Federation of Education Associations, as the chief speaker. The opening hour is 9:30 o'clock. Other meetings of the morning are at the Bovard Auditorium, University of Southern California, at which Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction of Illinois, will be the speaker; Philharmonic Auditorium, Cameron Beck, personnel director, New York Stock Exchange; Polytechnic High School Auditorium, Paul Harvey; Trinity Auditorium, Dr. Frank Bohn, New York Times.

TRAFFIC SAFETY COURSES URGED

Compulsory Instruction in Schools Proposed

Measure Will Be Submitted to Legislature

Auto Associations Sponsor Proposed Act

A compulsory course of safety instruction, primarily devoted to traffic danger and responsibility, in all the public schools of the State, is the object of a bill that will be presented to the State Legislature in January, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California and the California State Automobile Association, representing more than 200,000 motorists of the State. Various organizations interested in child welfare, including parent-teacher associations and similar bodies, are expected to lend their support to such a measure, and indorsement of the plan already is coming from many boards of education throughout the State.

The bill now is in course of preparation and will be introduced early in the session, according to announcement yesterday at the offices of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Word was received last night from Senator Breed, president pro tem of the Senate and father of motor-vehicle legislation in California, that he would not only support such a measure, but would introduce it in the Senate. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the House, also announced yesterday that he would support the bill and indorse it in the lower house of the coming legislative session.

YEARS OF STUDY GIVEN

The ever-mounting motor-vehicle accident toll in the State is the reason for the proposed measure. Years of study and consideration have been given by the two motoring organizations to traffic-accident prevention, and it is believed that if the State will set its stamp of approval on the safety teaching introduced some years ago in the public schools by the automobile clubs this work will be carried along more effectively.

Figures of traffic fatalities show that more than one-quarter of the lives sacrificed the country over are of children 15 years of age or under. Through work already begun California has reduced the percentage of child fatalities.

UP TO SAFETY BOARD

It is planned to submit the bill under preparation to the California Committee on Public Safety, which was recently organized at Sacramento. This committee comprises representatives of all organizations in the State having to do with either traffic-law enforcement or safety, and is pledged to a State-wide campaign of not only child education, but adult education in traffic matters. The bill also will be submitted to the Motor Vehicle Conference, the State-wide organization which considers carefully the legislation affecting motor vehicles and whose recommendations are considered a responsible legislative guide in amending the existing laws or establishing new ones.

MRS. JULIA MILLER TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Miller, 85 years of age, a widow, who died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. B. Myers, 11117 Venetia avenue, will be conducted at 2 p.m. from the Bowen funeral parlors. Interment will follow in Inglewood Park Cemetery. Mrs. Miller was born in Virginia, and lived in California forty-six years. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Miller leaves a son, Price Phillips of Willows, and four grandchildren, Mrs. Newell and M. B. Myers of Los Angeles, and Sadie Phillips Valk of Lodi, and Charles Phillips of Stockton.

DAMAGE SUIT ON TRIAL

Damages in the sum of $26,300 are asked in a lawsuit brought by Marjorie R. Ferguson against Dr. A. R. Dickson and others, called for trial yesterday before Superior Judge Guerin. Miss Ferguson asserts that the physician improperly treated her for burns on the head received when several celluloid combs she was wearing exploded when they came in contact with an electric current.

Struggle Over Liquor Blamed in Fatal Crash

A pint of whisky, for the possession of which several sailors were struggling in an automobile speeding along Harbor Boulevard, was responsible for the death of Peter Vaughn, according to testimony introduced in Municipal Judge Baird's court yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney.

The speeding car crashed into another owned by R. F. Barnett, which was parked alongside the road while Barnett was changing a tire, and overturned. Vaughn was killed in the crash.

Judge Baird ordered John Francis Dempsey, sailor and driver of the wrecked car, held for trial by Superior Court on manslaughter charges. The court fixed bail at $5000.

BUILDING OWNERS HAVE FUN

One of the largest meetings of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association at the Clark yesterday enjoyed the organization's Christmas frolic. A Christmas tree occupied a prominent position and a visit by Santa Claus, who distributed gifts, enlivened the proceedings. A program and orchestral selections also added to the pleasure. The affair was arranged by L. T. Clark and a specially selected committee. President Lathrope presented Mr. Clark as chairman of the meeting.

CITY ALLOTS FUNDS TO SETTLE DAMAGES

Appropriation of $35,000 to pay a judgment obtained against the city by Stanley Rogers and others was voted by the Council yesterday on recommendation of the City Attorney. The suit was brought for $190,000 as the result of an accident when Rogers's car ran off the Avenue 21 bridge over the Arroyo Seco, due to the lack of guard rails and lights. Judgment of $45,000 was obtained, but in order to receive the money at once and to obviate further delay, it was stated, the plaintiff was willing to compromise for $35,000.

OWNER OFFERS WEDGE OF LAND FOR $1400

The Council yesterday referred to the Public Works Committee a report from City Engineer Shaw that the owner of a small triangular sliver of property, which projects from the easterly side of the intersection of Fletcher Drive and Glendale boulevard, has offered to sell it to the city for $1400. The property, he stated, constituted a serious interference with traffic at this point and he recommends that the money be appropriated for the purchase, rather than using eminent-domain proceedings.

Although his airplane crashed through forty telegraph wires near Middlesex, Eng., flying field, Flying Officer Andrews of the British Army escaped uninjured.

Man Warned on Alimony Dues

Edward H. Voellinger must put a dollar mark on his "good faith" resolution the first of the coming year or go to jail.

This was the ultimatum of Superior Judge Rosenkranz yesterday when Voellinger was haled into court for failure to pay alimony to his wife, Mrs. Margaret Voellinger.

"I am acting in good faith," Voellinger told the court. "I've only made enough money to take care of myself."

"In the meantime your wife and child are in want," said the judge. "You'd better put a dollar mark on your good faith and come back here after New Year's Day and report that you paid the alimony, or you will go to jail."

MEETING DATE CHANGED

The harbor board yesterday decided to hold its next meeting on Friday the 28th inst., at the City Hall, instead of Wednesday. The first meeting in the new year will be held January 4 at 10 a.m. in the new municipal building in San Pedro. One meeting a month will be held at San Pedro.

MRS. HOLSCLAW BURIED

The last rites for Mrs. Julia Holsclaw, 71 years of age, a widow, who died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marie Kanouse of 3049 Budlong avenue, were conducted yesterday afternoon at Pierce & Low undertaking chapel. Interment was in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

INSANE ASSAILANT ORDERED TO ASYLUM

Hilario Villar, who stabbed and seriously wounded Albert Driver, 75 years of age, as they arrived in Los Angeles on a stage on the 5th inst., was committed to the State Asylum for the Insane at Norwalk by Superior Judge Gould yesterday following a hearing as to his sanity. Shortly after his arrest Villar attempted to end his life by beating his head against the bars of his cell.

THREE YOUTHS HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

Three youths arrested by Chief of Police Smith of Bell were under investigation by the Sheriff's office yesterday. They were taken into custody in Bell driving an automobile which, officers assert, was stolen from L. C. Frick of 1511 East Sixtieth street. Two revolvers also were found in the car, the officers reported. The youths gave their names as Ray Rimer, 18 years of age, of 10612 South Avalon Boulevard; Gerold Remus, 19, and Willard S. Ryan of 8124 Virginia avenue, South Gate.

HEARING CONTINUED

AMERICANIZATION DEFINED

National Education Association Head Declares Youth Must be Taught Right Ideals

"Americanization means the teaching of American ideals to all the children of America, and if such ideals were taught in the schools there would be more observance of the law and less need of enforcement of the law," Dr. Uel Lamkin, president of the National Educational Association, told the teachers who gathered at the Bible Institute last night for the opening session of the California Teachers' Association, southern section.

Dr. Lamkin outlined the platform of the National Education Association and declared that "a platform should be stood on after a person is in office as well as before."

"The National Education Association believes that every child has a right to an education, and he has that right whether he lives in this country or some other country. As soon as we are sufficiently educated to understand that the people of a foreign land have the same hopes, fears, ambitions as ourselves, we will abolish war.

HOPES REVEALED

"I want my boy to be able to fight, but I want him to be unwilling to fight," the speaker declared, and added that he has the same feeling about his country that he had about his son.

In enumerating the things for which the National Education Association stands, Dr. Lamkin named the preventable disease. He declared that two out of every three cases of blindness are preventable.

"If we could stamp out preventable disease, we could pay the national debt," he asserted.

The abolition of illiteracy also is one of the association's objectives, the speaker said.

"And by illiteracy I mean that the child not only shall be able to read the printed page, but shall be able to translate what he reads into terms of life."

He also touched on the rights of teachers and asserted that they have a right to do anything which any other decent self-respecting person can do, but that they should be employed only so long as they make good as teachers.

"Give the child a chance to meet the problems of 1950 as well as those of 1928," he commanded.

MRS. DORSEY CHEERED

The opening of the meeting was delayed awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, retiring superintendent of schools, who received an ovation from the several thousand educators who filled the auditorium.

She was presented with a beautiful basket of roses by Frederick F. Martin, president of the California Teachers' Association, southern section, who paid high tribute to her splendid leadership in the field of education.

In responding, Mrs. Dorsey outlined the many important educational measures enacted during the sixteen years since she had left the classroom for a desk as an assistant superintendent and later as superintendent of schools.

"I thank God that He has given me the opportunity to work in this great State," she said in conclusion, "and may the best of all good things that He has to give be yours in the coming years."

Today's Bible Text

My son, if thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine. Prov. xxiii:15.

GOING DOWN

There are many steps to the top of the ladder, but sometimes only one to the bottom.

WARMING UP

Scientists declare that the Arctic regions are getting much warmer. Any time that Nome thinks it can compete with Pasadena in the matter of climate we will be ready to push off for Baffin in a canoe. So far as we know the Alaskans have nothing to get hot about.

SHOW FOR THE HORSE

Just wait until February comes. Then we will give the horse such a show as he has not had for a dickens of a while. As an evidence of good faith there will be a matter of $40,000 in prizes to be given for quality. Between the Hollwood cowboys, the Tia Juana jockeys and the natural lovers of fine stock Southern California is still giving the horse a place in the sun.

CANALS OF VENICE

In emulation of its Italian namesake our neighboring Venice established and created sundry canals. But a famine in gondoliers renders these watery channels unnecessary, and the citizens would fill them up and make them over into streets. But this may not be. The high courts are holding that these canals are a part of the original plan of the community and are not to be blotted out with a few words and a shovel. A Venice without canals is like Santa Claus without a beard.

CHINA IN THE AIR

California is sending a flock of planes to China. One order for thirty big fellows is now under shipment and there will be more to follow. The Chinese like the way we wear our wings and there is no reason why the Pacific Coast should not help them into the skies. China is a country of long distances and few highways. Airships can quickest solve the problems of the people. The next Chinaman may be able to fly better than he can walk. Confucius would get a great kick out of that if he could come back.

PAYING UP

The British government has just paid into the United States coffers in New York $94,200,000, of which $27,000,000 is repayment of principal of the British war debt and the remainder interest. The payment would excite no particular comment were it not for the contrast between Britain and some of the other governments which owe the United States money. Long after these war debts are either paid or repudiated, will remain the memory of them and the effect of them upon national credit. It is a safe prediction that the national credit of Britain will be good.

THE PARTY LEADERS

Somebody will have to succeed Senator Curtis as the leader of his party in the upper house of Congress. It looks as if the lot may fall to Senator Jim Watson of Indiana. The Hoosier is kicking up the most dust and because of his standing and apprenticeship might be considered well in line. As the original Watson man, however, he neglected giving Herbert Hoover that support to which the latter's vote would entitle him. In the Senate there are stronger friends of the administration than the Indiana man. Things work smoother when the legislative leaders are in accord with the executive office.

KEEPING THE PEACE

Between them the League of Nations and the Pan-American Union should be able to coax the dove of peace back to the Bolivian border. The Latin-American peoples glow with fire and emotion over questions concerning what they call their national honor. But these issues may be merely tinsel and straw. It would be difficult to convince the world that a surveyor's difference in the great waste of land between Bolivia and Paraguay is sufficient warrant to entangle two nations in bloody conflict. Peace pressure is all that other governments may apply. If the warriors are unable to get any support or backing in other lands their blood may cool.

THE GOOD-WILL CRUISE

Westward for a thousand years the course of empire winged its way. In the eighteenth century it leaped across the Atlantic; and in the twentieth century, repulsed by the saline barriers of the Pacific, it turned to the southern hemisphere. The South American republics, according to the lately returned members of the good-will cruise of the Lasseo liner City of Los Angeles, form a new land of promise. Argentina, Chile, Uruguay and the state of Sao Paulo of Brazil are growing in wealth and population as rapidly as the Pacific Coast of the United States.

Peru is the land of the Incas, the richest state archeologically in South America. Here is the tomb of a vanished civilization and the cradle of a new, potentially wealthy, but still primitive.

Chile is the nitrate storehouse of the world and in southern Chile are flocks of sheep equalling those of Australia and surpassing them in the quality of the wool.

Argentina produces the cheapest and best beef in the world, and Rosario, its second city in population, is second only to Chicago as the world's greatest port for the exportation of wheat. For its population, Argentina is perhaps the world's greatest exporting nation. Its exports this year will total $2,000,000,000. The United States, with more than ten times its population, exports but $6,000,000,000. In Argentina the winters are no colder than in Southern California, and there is no dry season; the grass grows lush green the year round.

Uruguay is rich in beef and other food products, and in marble. In the per capita wealth of its people, it is one of the richest countries in the world.

Brazil produces more than two-thirds of the coffee supply of the world and the single state of Sao Paulo produces three-fourths of the coffee of Brazil. The export of coffee from Santos, the port of Sao Paulo, almost equals in value the total wheat export of the United States. Brazil possesses a great agricultural domain, about equal to that of our own country; but, outside the state of Sao Paulo, it is practically undeveloped. Tropical climate and diseases are its barriers to development.

Development of all these countries, according to our good-will cruisers, is progressing with almost inconceivable rapidity. Argentina, to illustrate, has more than doubled its exports in five years.

But it is not for material wealth alone that these South American republics are notable. They are making equal progress in literature, science and art. Here Latin culture has taken a new flight. More people speak Spanish and Portuguese in South America than in Europe. More Portuguese is spoken there than in all the rest of the world.

Amazing are the reports that our messengers of good will bring back of the wondrous beauty of the capitals of those republics. For nearly fifty years there has been an intensive competition among the peoples of Chile, Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil to have the most beautiful capital in South America. What the peoples of Europe expended in competitive armaments these peoples are expending on beautifying and developing their capitals, each of which is a metropolis as well.

Such a national aspiration is new to the northern hemisphere, but it is a logical development of the cultural, artistic spirit of the Latin races. Perhaps this was the patriotic sentiment back of the cultural development of Athens. Each state taxes itself, bonds itself almost without stint or limit, to embellish its city beautiful. Wondrous tales have our travelers brought back of park-lined boulevards and marble palaces, cathedrals, houses of parliament, national theaters, galleries and museums—as much as $30,000,000 expended on a single building. They assert that, in cost of construction, there is no public edifice in North America or Europe to compare with them.

Most of the voyagers were world travelers; they had made many trips to Europe, and when they report that this was the most enjoyable cruise of their lives, it is evidence that South America has something to give that delights, charms, even rejuvenates.

What Fred Hogue found as the chronicler of the good-will cruise, Will Irwin has found on his tour with President-elect Hoover. No people surpasses these Latin Americans in cordial welcome to those who come to them bearing a message of good will. Here are material prosperity, culture, refinement. There is gold in the Andes, but more gold in the hearts of the people.

This good-will cruise may well mark the beginning of closer social, commercial, cultural relations between the South American republics and the people of the Pacific Coast of North America. Perhaps we shall go to Europe less, and to South America more. And perhaps we shall find ourselves hosts in turn to these charming Latin peoples. They should feel far from expatriated in Los Angeles; for this city is builded, like Santiago, Buenos Aires and Lima, from a pueblo founded by Spain. Here more Spanish is spoken and understood than in all the rest of the United States combined.

How like a message of the Christmas season it sounds: "Peace in the two Americas to all people of good will—peace through closer contacts and better understandings."

HOW WAFFLE!

Over in dear old London the Waffle Club is in peril of the courts. The organization was formed by a little group of retired army officers—an American or two being included in the party. The idea was to have a night club that should be different from the rest. So the Americans urged the waffles. The Englishman didn't know much about waffles, but when it was explained that they were a sort of short-order cake that Americans loved to wash down with rum, gin and other high-powered stimulant, they entered the venture with zest.

Maybe they were all right at that, but the hour came when the police interfered. A night club in London is supposed to be a restaurant and not merely a drinking contest. But the sleuths from Scotland Yard reported that they had been unable to locate any waffles at the Waffle Club. They were curious to know what a waffle was, but had been left unsatisfied. They saw Englishmen and Americans emptying vast flagons of rye and Bourbon, but they passed the waffles lightly by. The nearest approach to cookery they noted was when a mellow citizen sought to brown a kippered herring on a hot brick.

So they took the mystery of the waffles into court.

The judge himself grew curious and asked what a waffle really was, but the minions of the law were unable to explain. They said they had been hanging around the joint a good deal, but had never met one of them face to face. There was plenty of Scotch but no waffles. "How awful!" exclaimed the judge, mopping his brow.

So the place is pinched and padlocked and America and England may have to go to war to settle the partnership and responsibility.

EXPORTING OF LIBELS

Motion pictures which feature crime and scandal and cable dispatches which relate exclusively bank robberies, divorces, lynchings and gunmen's battles are giving South Americans a wrong picture of life in the United States, in the view of a distinguished Montevideo journalist. In minds which get this wrong impression, it is easy to foment anti-American sentiment.

Will Irwin, who reported the Uruguayan's pointed remark for American readers, says he has heard similar things in other South American capitals. It is, perhaps, too much to expect film producers and commercial news services to cease exporting libels so long as these libels are salable, but a little experimenting might prove that a better grade of goods is still more salable.

The newspapers of this country, particularly in the last decade, have been making the discovery that constructive and informative news is better relished by a better grade of readers than crime and scandal, and the tendency to devote more space to the solid and less to the sensational is a growing one. The sooner this tendency affects the film business and the news-services, the better it will be for international relations.

"XMAS"

We are in such a rush that we do not have time to call it by its right name. So we abbreviate it to "Xmas." Just what unknown quantity "X" stands for, future generations may have to explain to their children. The streets are so full of cars and the crossings are so full of pedestrians, the stores are so full of shoppers, the aisles are so full of customers, their arms are so full of bundles, the bundles are so full of presents, and everybody is so full of the Yuletide spirit, that nobody has time to say more than "Xmas."

The mails are so full of orders, the postoffice is so full of queues, the mail-bags are so full of packages and the tracks are so full of trains, that all we can do is to shout, "Xmas!"

The hotels are so full of guests, the homes are so full of families, the theaters are so full of patrons, their eyes are so full of pictures, their ears are so full of music, their tongues are so full of talk and their fists are so full of cash, that all they can recall is "Xmas."

Our coats are so full of chests, our chests are so full of pride, our pride is so full of noble deeds and our stockings are so full of sweets, that there is nothing left—just "Xmas."

The kitchens are so full of caterers, the cooks are so full of pots and pans, the pots and pans are so full of roasts and dressing, the doors are so full of delivery men, and the children are so full of fun, that all anyone can think of is, "Xmas."

Even the church is so full of people, the choir is so full of music, the collection platters are so full of coin, the rafters are so full of song, the windows are as full of light, the air is so full of incense, the pews are so full of folks, the altar is so full of poinsettia, the city is so full of carols, the morning is so full of chimes, that there is no room for anything save "Xmas!"

EDUCATION AND THE SCREEN

By James J. Montague

Professors have found with alarm and concern
That dear little Sister and Buddy
Learn faster from films than they ever will learn
From the books they are given to study.
It is found that in matters which deal with the screen
The youngsters abnormally smart are;
They may not know who was Napoleon's queen,
But they all know who Doug and Bill Hart are.

They take little interest in Butcher and Lang,
Preferring to chat through their lessons
O' the quick trigger stunts of the Bowery Gang
And the crack of their big Smith and Wessons.
They find in the raids that are led by Tom Mix
More zip and more genuine glamour
Than in all of arithmetic's brain-tangling tricks
And in all of the puzzles of grammar.

And, therefore, the worried instructors whose trade
Is to make the old school entertaining
Have thought that the film might become a first aid
In our youth's educational training.
With movies portraying historical scenes
They hope they may waken a yearning
In millions of eager and sly little beans
For the erudite branches of learning.

But a film of the gentlemen sitting around
And discussing a league or a treaty
Will not by the average urchin be found
As either absorbing or meaty.
The kids will find scenes of historical lore
Not even a little exciting
When they know they can find in the film house next door
A rattling good picture of fighting.

WE BELIEVE we have a right to say Paris is on the lee side o' Los Angeles, so many of our film stars have been running over there for legal separation and other week-end diversions. Anyway, we feel this advertisement, clipped from Le Journal the other day, should interest some of our readers:

Divorce a Credit
Jugement en 45 jours. Cabinet Roussel. English Spoken.

The heading, by the way, means "divorce on time payments," not what it appears to mean in English. It's all French but the last two words—but how eloquent they are!

Oh, Well, We're All a Little Like That

Lee: The black mammy who presides over our culinary department develops the symptoms of every bodily ill she hears of. As soon as she heard of the flu she had it. When a neighbor had appendicitis she had all the symptoms and is convinced she had a close call. When she heard of jaundice she grew alarmed about the strange yellowness of her skin (undistinguishable to any other eye) and when one of our neighbors broke a leg she limped for three weeks.

When the neighbor broke a leg the ambulance called at our house first, by mistake, and Aunty Liza opened the door. She came running back, scared almost to mulatto. "Lawsy!" she cried, "de avalanche done come, an' two fetcher-bearers is at de do'."—A. M.

Watch Your Coat

Overcoat thieves just now are playing restaurants less and churches more. Maybe it's because they feel there's very little chance of meeting a policeman in church. Anyway, churches which have cloakrooms are getting worried, and some may adopt the check system.

In a big Hollywood church the other day a man who had to leave early reached the cloakroom just in time to see a young man slipping on his coat. He protested, and the young man looked hurt and indignant.

"I was asked to get the organist's coat," he said, "and told exactly where to find it. Isn't that the organist's coat?"

"I hardly think so," replied the owner. "Our organist happens to be a lady."

The young man dropped the coat and left hurriedly.

Kingly Tradition

Many of us were surprised that so very little authoritative news of the condition of King George was given out when he must have been very close to death. Had he been a President of the United States the public fairly would have sat by his bed—through continuous bulletins would have watched his every change. But W. R. Humphries, who used to be on The Times years ago and later was a press photographer whose achievements still are remembered among the fraternity in England, was telling us yesterday of an incident when King Edward died which may shed some light on the matter. Humphries then got some of the most remarkable pictures ever published of the King's funeral and the succeeding coronation, and had to learn a great deal of inside gossip.

"King Edward," he said, "wished to die, officially, at the time when it would do least harm. The afternoon of his last day he knew he had only a short while to live. Had the news gone out then all the theaters in England would have been dark that night and the players would have lost a day's pay. So almost the last words of the King were an order that news of his death be held back till the evening performances were over. The news was held back nearly three hours. From what I learned at that time, I feel sure that it was the wish of King George that his critical condition should not be too much in the public mind and, therefore, depress Christmas trade."

COLOMBIA, FRANCE

BY EVELYN McDOWELL

Every once in a while one or another of the Paris dailies publishes an article or a series of articles from some special correspondent who is traveling in Latin-American countries. There are often reports of interviews with representative men which interest me, especially when they throw light on the Latin-American attitude toward France and toward the United States.

A correspondent of Le Temps has been in Colombia, and told recently of an audience he had had with President Abadia Mendez. Like all Colombian men of law, he said, the President studied in French books. Even today, in spite of the natural attraction which universities of the United States exercise in Latin America, Colombian students of law and medicine study French text-books. The greater part of President Mendez's library is composed of French books.

"It is not surprising," the President is quoted as saying, "that you have found among us so much interest and taste for the movement of ideas in your country. France has been and is still today our spiritual guide. We owe our civilization to her. Was she not the mother of our independence? Was not the first movement toward freedom provoked by the feeling caused among us by the translation of the Declaration of the Rights of Man, made by our great Narino, precursor of Bolivar?"

From the economic stagnation still existing at the beginning of the present century, Colombia recently passed to a feverish activity. Her resources, her population, her commercial activity, have made surprising progress, President Mendez explained. This work has been facilitated by foreign capital and technicians. Circumstances in the last fifteen years have led Colombia to receive from the United States about everything she needed to begin to capitalize her riches. The United States has, therefore, become the principal creditor, if not the only one, by loans contracted in New York; also the only customer for the coffee which represents more than 88 per cent of Colombian exports, and the sole exploiter, up to the present, of her petroliferous deposits. Without being at all aggressive in its acts and its intentions, the Colombian government, interpreting with moderation a popular aspiration, has had some anxiety because of the extraordinary preponderance of the masters of the Panama Canal. If Europe, at grips with post-war difficulties, has been absent from Latin America, Colombia, for her part, has not ceased to look toward her.

"Our intellectual formation," Mr. Mendez said, according to the Tempa, "has given us, along with the taste for political independence, a penchant for a universalist foreign policy . . . Colombia has a just appreciation of the value of friendship with the United States. Clearly, this friendship should not be exclusive. Colombian civilization has too many European, and particularly Latin, origins, not to hope to find collaboration again in a Europe on its way to reconstruction. Colombian nationalism does not exclude the aid of foreigners who are respectful of a sovereignty which events taking place in America itself, during thirty years, have rendered somewhat jealous. It is natural that Colombia should desire economic collaboration free from political ambitions."

THE GREAT RELIEF

The smoke of battle cleared away soon after the election day, and peace resumed its reign; we turned away from politics, from stratagems and sordid tricks, to topics safe and sane. Campaigns are all drawn out too long; we start with resolutions strong to be serene and calm; we won't indulge in roar and shriek, but every blessed word we speak will be a healing balm. And for a while we do maintain an attitude that's safe and sane, we argue without heat; with fine politeness, grace and tact we point out many a vital fact and figures good as wheat. The neighbors, too, with whom we talk, at wild and angry statements balk, though they may disagree; and everyone is so polite, denouncing wrong, defending right, it is a sight to see. But wearily the campaign drags, and pretty soon our patience sags, our tempers are at fault; we've used our arguments so much the best among them needs a crutch, they are so lame and halt. We've talked around in rings and rings, a thousand times the same old things we dismally have sprung; we've talked so long our jaws are tired, in cheap statistics we are mired, we've spavins on each lung. The neighbors whom we daily bore with arguments are growing sore, they meet us with a frown; and old-time friends line up as foes, and some one soon resorts to blows, and knocks a neighbor down. It's pleasant when it ends, gadzooks, and we can talk again of books, of pepful motor cars, of works of art and writing inks, of song and love and kickless drinks, and fifteen-cent cigars.

LETTERS TO The Times

Paul the Second

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What an opportunity for the inhabitants of the earth—especially these United States of America—to get behind this new landslide toward good and prove to a waiting world that your "Uncle Samuel" is none other than a revised edition of our old friend, Moses, come to lead them forth from the wilderness of death and destruction into the promised land of health, wealth and happiness.

Two thousand years has this old world been waiting for a "Paul the Second" with his "mighty hand and stretched-out arm" and here he has stepped forth in the fullness of time and with ripeness for service—having emancipated himself from the slavery of limitation and ignorance and has already begun the liberation of the world from its thralldom of fear and will on March the fourth, next, fling a challenge into the consciousness of America to come out from among its sins, its bootlegging officers of the law—its corruptions, its "calves of gold," its dimness of soul, its petty political and professional jealousies, its trickeries, treacheries, tomfoolery and intrigues—its religious prejudices, its mental gymnastics of occultism and black magic—into the sunshine of right thinking, right doing, righteous activity along all lines.

And where is this opportunity located? Right in the consciousness of everyone of your Uncle Samuel's nephews and nieces.

It was the activity of the collective good in the consciousness of America that spoke as "when a lion roareth" last November sixth and it must be the continued and continual activity of that same collective good in the consciousness of America if we are to lead our brothers and sisters of the United States of the world into the promised land of peace and joy and plenty and power and good will to man.

Another Sufferer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As the owner of an apartment-house on a corner, I desire to add a protest to others you have received against the howling and yelling of men selling the morning newspapers the night before. This nerve-racking nuisance begins about 8 o'clock every evening, including Sunday, and continues without intermission until 11:30 or 12 and frequently later. Sleep is entirely out of the question, and to one who has to get up very early in the morning it is a serious matter. Surely there is some way of abating this nuisance.

Men, Women Change Fashions

Men and women Alpine sports enthusiasts of Switzerland have interchanged fashions since last winter. Men are disporting themselves on the ice in the most picturesque of blouses, complete with fasteners down the center, while women are wearing more modest sweaters, but have assumed men's plus fours reaching down to the ankles. Women, however, are looking to their feet and are wearing more dainty boots than ever before, in order that when upside down after a spill they may be more attractive than in previous seasons.

EDUCATION GIVES TOPIC FOR DINNER

Civic Leaders Will Meet to Hear Talks on Mexico and China by Guests

Educational progress in China and Mexico, as well as the furtherance of amicable international relations, will be topics stressed during a Young Men's Christian Association dinner tendered by a group of Los Angeles educators and business men in the Mary Louise ballroom, 2200 West Seventh street, tomorrow evening.

DR. DAVID Z. T. YUI

Dr. David Z. T. Yui, Chinese prophet, peacemaker and patriot, and Dr. Moises Saenz, educational leader of Mexico City, will be honor guests. Invitations to 600 persons were extended, according to J. Gustav White, director of education of the Y.M.C.A.

Dr. Yui, who is general secretary of the national committee of the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association, was graduated from St. John's University, Shanghai. He obtained an M.A. degree at Harvard and afterward devoted his life to specializing in education in his native country.

In 1918 he was director of a tour of Chinese merchants in this country. He came to America recently in behalf of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the National Chamber of China.

Dr. Saenz, the other honorary guest, is brother to Aaron Saenz, Mexican Presidential candidate. His work largely pertains to the educational movement in that country.

At the dinner Dr. Remsen Bird, president of Occidental College, will preside. Short talks will be given by George L. Eastman, James O. Warren, George Pepperdine and C. I. D. Moore.

Rough Voyage on Matrimony Seas Related

It was rough going on the matrimonial sea during the seven months and twenty-four days that Harry O. Hartman and his wife, Dorothy Hartman, were embarked, according to their accusations hurled in a preliminary yearing of a divorce action before Superior Judge Rosenkrans, yesterday.

Hartman, a police officer, asserted that his wife tried to shoot him. Mrs. Hartman declared that Hartman jumped up, grabbed the gun and it was discharged. She denied she tried to shoot him with it.

The couple separated several times during their short married career, each time making up and trying it over again, the evidence showed.

One of the wife's complaints was that Hartman made her live for a month in a mountain cabin that had no water, light, heat or bath. She said the roof leaked badly when it rained.

TRIO SAVED IN DEATH PACT

Two Girls and Man Snatched From Attempt at Self-Inflicted Destruction

Right in the midst of the festal season there flickered out the last of what made life endurable to Ouida Hill, Lucile Meyers and William Kelly, Jr. So the three of them went up to Mrs. Meyers's apartment at 3109 West Sixth street to talk it over.

Miss Hill's sweetheart, Barney Jackson, had just come to marry her. She is 21 years of age. But she had been sick and was just out of a sanatorium and something had gone wrong. Mrs. Meyers, 22, was estranged from her husband Kelley, 32, was a mental sufferer.

It was a tragic little conference the three held and at the end they telephoned some of their friends good-by, drugged themselves and turned on the gas.

Percy Ryan, Kelly's guardian at 764 South Normandie street, found the three unconscious in the apartment early yesterday. They were whisked away in the police ambulance to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where their lives were saved, and thence to the General Hospital for further care. They are expected to survive their experience.

Victor Meyers responded to his wife's call and for the moment, at least, there was a reconciliation.

Jackson was at his sweetheart's side.

Kelly was too far gone most of yesterday to receive the comfort of Ryan.

Miss Hill lived in the Sixth-street apartment with her mother, Mrs. B. B. Burke.

Christmas Pint Brings Arrest

Because Sandy Barker was afraid to drive his automobile while he had part of a Christmas pint of whisky which a friend had given him, he was held for trial by Superior Court on a charge of drunk driving yesterday by Municipal Judge Baird.

Barker, who waived preliminary hearing and told the court that he intends to plead guilty to the charge, when it comes up for trial, took the stand to make a statement. He declared that the liquor had been given him at Twelfth and San Pedro streets and that he had started home with it but on the way stopped and drank it, as he feared that he might be stopped by police and his car confiscated.

According to testimony introduced by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney, Barker ran his car into the curb at Vernon avenue and Hoover street.

ROW OVER CHECKERS RESULTS IN AFFRAY

A fight that developed from an argument over a checker game was responsible for the arrest of Antonio Castro, 127 South Kem Boulevard, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, Sheriff's office reports stated yesterday. Refugio Escreno, 245 Mednick street, Belvedere, the victim, received a four-inch slash in his right cheek inflicted with a razor, it is charged. The fight occurred in a poolroom at Brooklyn avenue and Federely street.

JUDGE AGAIN GIVEN CASE SANS JURY

Aggeler Will Fix Guilt of Man Charged With Statutory Offense

To Judge Aggeler goes the honor of hearing both the first and second criminal cases to be tried in a California Superior Court under the recent Constitutional amendment providing for such trials without the services of a jury.

Two weeks ago the first case, in which Elmer A. Magusin was the defendant, was tried with the judge acquitting Magusin on a count of grand theft and finding him guilty of operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. Magusin's application for probation is pending.

Yesterday the second case, in which John V. Roberts is defendant, went to trial before the judge after both prosecution and defense waived a jury trial. Roberts is accused of a statutory offense.

Judge Aggeler today is scheduled to pass on the question of Roberts's guilt or innocence.

Many Aliases of Wife Cost Her Husband

Mrs. Agnes Van Rossum during her life had changed her names almost as often as she changed her hats, according to her husband, James Van Rossum, who came before Superior Judge Stutsman yesterday asking for an annulment of his marriage.

Mrs. Van Rossum had carried eight names before Van Rossum gave her his, the husband said he discovered after he married her at Tia Juana on September 22, last.

The worst of it was, however, Van Rossum told the court, his wife had been in almost as many penitentiaries as she had names.

Judge Stutsman granted the annulment.

Kisselburgh to Sing in Oratorio

Through the generosity of Mrs. E. L. Doheny, Sr., Alexander Kisselburgh, bass, will appear as one of the soloists in the Los Angeles Oratorio Society's production of the "Messiah" at the Shrine Auditorium Sunday afternoon.

Kisselburgh, who has won much recognition on the eastern concert stage during the past few years, is coming from New York especially for this engagement and under the patronage of Mrs. Doheny. The singer lived in Los Angeles six years ago.

Other soloists for the production of the Handel masterpiece are Alice Gentle, soprano; Altha Montague Elliott, contralto, and Ivan Edwardes, tenor.

The "Messiah" originally was scheduled for the 9th inst., but was postponed due to illness among the principals and many of the chorus. Miss Gentle recently recovered from an attack of influenza.

MAN DIES SUDDENLY

J. P. Graf, 65 years of age, of 520 Hillcrest avenue, Inglewood, was found dead in his home by neighbors yesterday morning after they had failed to see him about the house for twenty-four hours, according to Sheriff office reports. Graf had evidently died after retiring, the report says.

Man Prefers Jail Rather Than Alimony

William E. Boyle, well-to-do railway switchman, frankly told Judge Rosenkranz yesterday that he would "rot in jail" before he paid any alimony to Mrs. Anna B. Boyle, who is suing him for divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

"I won't pay alimony and I have got the money. I'll rot in jail first," said Boyle.

"Well, that is just what you will do unless you pay $50 a month," said Judge Rosenkrans.

"Well, I won't pay," Boyle replied as he left the courtroom.

According to the records in the case the couple have been married for twenty-one years.

Goudal-De Mille Treaty Forecast

When the suit of Jetta Goudal, motion-picture actress, against the Cecil B. De Mille Corporation, arising over asserted back pay amounting to $42,500, was called for trial before Superior Judge Yankwich yesterday, attorneys in the case asked a continuance on the grounds that a settlement is pending.

The actress asserts the money involved is due her on a contract running from 1925 to 1930 for salary graduated from $750 to $2000 a week. She avers that she worked until September 10, 1927, when her services were terminated by the company.

Juryless Court Convicts Man as Wife Beater

Morris Greenberg, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon his wife, April 20, last, was convicted before Superior Judge Hardy yesterday in two hours after he had waived a jury trial under a new State law.

Greenberg, according to J. W. Choate, deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, separated from his wife early in April but returned to her home April 20 and beat her with a piece of gas pipe. He was identified as the assailant by Mrs. Virginia Newton.

Following the conviction, Judge Hardy permitted Greenberg to file an application for probation.

Theater Party Brings Divorce

It was a most embarrassing moment for both Charles Stallings, employee at a motion-picture studio, and his wife, Olivette, when Mrs. Stallings attended a theater one evening and Stallings came in with another woman on his arm and took seats directly in front of her, the wife told Superior Judge Montgomery yesterday when granted a divorce.

PRISONERS' FEED LOSES

The Council yesterday declined to appropriate $650 for a big Christmas dinner for city prisoners, acting on the recommendation of the Finance Committee. Councilman Randall explained, however, that this did not indicate stinginess on the part of the city government, as money is available from the regular funds to provide the feast.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, "grabbing" at genitals, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, stves and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

KEEPING THE DINNER DOWN

There are numerous reasons why children vomit and quite aside from the fact that some of them are harmless and some of them indicate serious trouble the habit of vomiting is a bad one for the child to continue. Having discovered how easy it is for food to be brought up some children use this as a method of discarding food which they think they do not want. Or tiny babies, who have no food discrimination, force food back for no particular reason that anyone can discover.

It seems reasonable then to make some effort as soon as baby begins to vomit, to discover some method of making this impossible, instead of just letting it take care of itself.

Because the subject is so large a one, we are going to talk today on just one phase of this harmless vomiting, and that is the one in which the small baby, gaining and thriving, habitually spits back, either immediately afterward or as long as an hour afterward, some of his breast milk. Even if this milk simply rolls out of his mouth and obviously is just an excess, that excess had best be checked, merely for the good effect it will have on the baby in the future.

METHOD OF PROCEDURE

Here is one of the easiest ways of doing this. Babies nurse various lengths of time at the breast. Some nurse one breast and some two. Whenever a baby is vomiting, no matter what time he spends at the breast it is better to cut that time down. Try first of all to lengthen the periods between nursings, for if baby is nursing every three hours he would perhaps do just as well and not vomit if fed only every four. Then if the spitting back still continues hold the clock on the little soul. Nurse for five minutes on both breasts. If this doesn't end the spitting up, then nurse but four minutes on each breast, or reduce this down to as low as two to three minutes on each breast. Naturally if the mother has a lot of milk she may find that the breast is not stripped by this process, even if baby's vomiting is helped, and she had best express by hand whatever milk is left in the breast so that her milk supply will not grow smaller.

In speaking of vomiting one must always warn mothers that the baby who vomits explosively, who is constipated and not gaining, needs a doctor's attention and the above methods are not for him. Cutting down the supply of milk to prevent vomiting is done for the big, fat baby who is just getting more food than his stomach will hold.

OYSTERS IN CRUSTS

Take six French rolls, cut through the long way and divide into two parts; remove the soft part; brush with melted butter, place in a sauce pan four tablespoonfuls of butter, a seasoning of salt, pepper and paprika; and when the butter is hot add two dozen oysters; toss over the fire until they begin to crinkle, lift out the oysters; place them in the rolls and to the liquid in the pan add enough milk or water to make one and one-half cupfuls; thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour that has been moistened with a little cold water, and stir until it begins to boil. Pour over two tablespoonfuls of the liquid; brush the top crust with melted butter, place them on top of the oysters; place in a baking pan and put in the oven until the crusts are heated through.

GERMAN APPLE TORTE

Pare, core and slice six apples, beat to a cream two eggs and add to them, three tablespoonfuls of brown sugar; and one-quarter of a cupful of thick cream; the grated rind of one lemon, four tablespoonfuls of melted butter, mix all together and add four tablespoonfuls of blanched almonds. Cut in strips, line a pie tin with a rich crust; pour in the mixture, sprinkle over the almonds, and bake in a moderate oven, remove from the oven, dust with sugar and serve hot or cold.

STUFFED HALIBUT STEAKS

Choose two steaks of even size; place in a saute pan and brown on one side; remove from the saute pan and prepare the following dressing; squeeze dry two slices of stale bread to which has been added, one cupful of hot water, while hot add to them three tablespoonfuls of butter, a seasoning of salt and paprika; one tablespoonful of capers, one tablespoonful of finely chopped sour pickles, two teaspoonfuls of onion juice and one well-beaten egg; place in a baking pan the halibut steak, brown side up. Place on it the dressing, lay on it the other steak, brown side down, place in the oven, sprinkle over the top paprika and chopped parsley and allow to bake until tender. Serve with a tomato sauce.

MAPLE NUT TAPIOCA

Place in a double boiler two cupfuls of hot milk, add to it one-third of a cupful of quick cooking tapioca, two-thirds of a cupful of maple syrup, a half a teaspoonful of salt, stir and cook for fifteen minutes; add the well-beaten yolk of one egg and allow to cook for three minutes; cool, add one-half a cupful of chopped walnut meats, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a cold mold; decorate with one-third of a cupful of walnut halves and allow to thoroughly chill. Serve cold with whipped cream.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The First Visit to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

VOCAL GYMNASTICS

There are a number of diseases and abnormalties which may affect the respiratory apparatus, throat or nasal passages, and all of them will influence the speech. We are all familiar with the hoarseness accompanying a cold and the peculiar nasal twang from a deformity or polypus of the nasal passages.

Men who are forced to use their voices in public often develop a soreness of the throat and an inability to talk much above a whisper. This is usually termed the "clergyman's sore throat." It results from an insufficient breath control of the diaphragm and chest rather than from too much speaking. The huskiness is usually made worse by the many remedies applied.

Lisping and peculiarities of speech may be caused by a cleft palate, tongue-tie or other deformity, or they may result simply from habit.

A mute person or one having an inability to speak is usually a mental defective, although occasionally a person with exceptional mental brilliance is found suffering from some interference with the nerve supply to the vocal organs. A deafness from birth may also cause mutism from not having learned to speak, (since one affected in this way has not the opportunity of learning to speak.) These people may be taught to speak even though they cannot hear, if they will closely watch, feel and imitate the throat and lip movements of others.

Stammering can usually be overcome by careful training, since it is usually caused by an inco-ordination or lack of control of the vocal apparatus.

Aphasia sometimes occurs in brain diseases from a destruction of the cells controlling speech. The treatment for this form of inability to speak is the same as that employed for apoplexy, since the causes are much the same.

The most frequent cause of roughening of the voice and an unpleasant harshness is chronic catarrh. So prevalent is this disease that almost any voice may be improved if its owner will undergo the fasting and dieting regime which I outline for the cure of catarrh.

Perfect health is reflected in the voice, and it is not unusual to find that some of our greatest singers have come from the hardy sons of toil and the peasants of Europe.

There are many exercises for developing and controlling the voice which are very useful if practiced daily just as one would any other system of calisthenics. The use of the vocal apparatus in song gives delight to the body. The bathroom baritone is enjoying himself even though he is annoying his neighbors. Your vocal gymnastics should be indulged in where they will not disturb others and, after you have gained control of the muscles and nerves supplying your vocal organs, you will be pleased to know that your speech and song also will be enjoyed by others.

Let not your voice give expression to harsh or mean thoughts. There is no sound as sweet as a voice that is moved by love and tenderness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Itch Parasite

Question: H. J. asks: "What can I do to cure the scabies or itch. It is driving me frantic. I have tried all kinds of remedies without benefit. Since the diet you sent cured my daughter of eczema, I thought you might be able to help me."

Answer: The itch or scabies is a contagious disease caused by the presence of a small parasite which burrows into the skin. It causes an intense itching on the part affected, and a careful examination will disclose some thin white lines through which the pest burrows and at the end of these lines small yellow or watery pimples will appear. The disease is made more serious by the scratching which sometimes produces ulcers and scabs. A scrupulous cleanliness should be combined with the application of some ointment to eradicate the disease. A paste of sulphur and olive oil will quickly kill this parasite. Hot baths with soap should be taken three times a week and after this bath the affected parts should be rubbed with the sulphur mixture.

Urethral Caruncle

Q.: E. B. writes: "I would like to know the cause of a caruncle and the cure for it."

A.: A caruncle may appear in any part of the body, but you no doubt refer to an urethral caruncle, which is a small red growth on the mucous membrane, appearing on the urinary meatus in women. The best treatment is usually to burn the caruncle off with caustic or through electrical treatment.

Grapefruit Wholesome for Children

Q.: I. J. asks: "Is grapefruit too acid for a child of 2½ years? If not, how much should be given her? She enjoys it, and I would like to give it to her as often as she should have it."

A.: Grapefruit is quite wholesome for your little girl if she enjoys it. It is best eaten by itself, and should never be combined with any starchy food such as breakfast cereals or bread.

Magicians' Club Elects Officers

Announcement of an ambitious program of activities and development during the coming year was made yesterday by the Los Angeles Magicians' Club at the determination of the election results. Frank Fewins was elected president, Joseph Brown, vice-president; Arthur Valli, secretary, and Alexander Williams, treasurer.

The club is composed of amateur and professional magicians and has grown to the point where it now boasts sixty-five persons in its membership, twenty-five of whom are professionals. The club meets the last Tuesday evening of each month in the assembly room of the Roslyn Hotel.

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

PAINTS

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Every little child is glad to find among his Christmas gifts a set of paints. But the usual paint box with its dozen colors and shades is a gift which betrays his first enthusiasm, and often brings the subject of painting into disrepute.

The variety of colors confuses eyes not yet perhaps trained to the most fundamental discrimination between yellow, blue and red. The tiny cakes of paint and the small, shallow pans are not suitable for manipulation by hands only able to make large simple movements. The tiny cheap brushes are not good for little fingers which must be pinched white with the effort of holding them.

The results are usually melancholy, scrubbed and muddy smears that please nobody, not even the young artist.

Yet every child over 4 can be truly happy with his paints if they are of the right kind, and if his mother will take pains to teach him a few simple things about their use.

To begin with, his box of Christmas paints should be the sort that come as a semifluid in little bottles. The paints are soluble in water and are variously known as "show card colors" and "tempora paints." They cover much more easily than ordinary water color and give a fine, solid effect. There also should be three cups which will not tip over easily. Enamel kitchen cups with straight sides are good. Into these he can pour as much paint as he means to use and can add water as he needs it. There should be three large good quality brushes, the hair of which will not come out as he works. Large sheets of smooth, white, wrapping paper to be tacked on blackboard or table complete his equipment.

The 4-year-old should be allowed only one color at a time, and for a period he should have only the three primary colors at his disposal. Thus his pictures have at least the merit of clear bright color, and he is pleased with his work. As he learns his colors, he can have a greater variety of them. He must be taught never to put the brush from one paint cup into another. He must learn that it is better not to put a red roof on his green house while the latter is still running wet.

Why not start the day right?

Healthful breakfasts can and should be the most appetizing

IF THE fiber foods are so important in our diet—and food authorities impress upon us that they are—why not start the day right by eating them for breakfast? They can be made into the most delicious and satisfying breakfasts imaginable.

Just think for a moment what foods it is that furnish the bulk and fiber that our bodies need so badly. They are: bran and cereals, and fruits and vegetables, all but the last being ideal for the first meal of the day. What is more tasteful and beneficial, for example, than cereal with milk and sugar? What is more delicious for breakfast than grapefruit, sweetened to taste, or apples or pears sweetened and baked? Nearly everyone enjoys apple sauce or stewed prunes or other dried fruit with the morning toast and coffee.

Note that sugar is mentioned in connection with each one of these healthful foods. Sugar is the ideal flavor that Nature has provided, thus enabling people to enjoy the kinds of foods that are best for them.

One fact cannot be stressed too much. All growing children should eat hearty breakfasts of bone and teeth building, body developing foods such as the cereals, milk and fruits. Proper sweetening makes children relish the foods that their growing bodies need so badly.

Eat varied healthful foods, so sweetened that they are delicious and enjoyable. The Sugar Institute.

Its Flavor—Its Delightful Consistency Is So Different

You'll Relish This New Breed of Corn

DEL MAIZ
The New Sweet Corn

The evolution of this new breed of corn is a story that excites the imagination. Years of effort to produce a finer quality of canned corn. Then the realization that Nature alone could solve the problem—12 long years of patient, expert seed breeding—and at last the evolution of a new and distinct variety of corn.

So different is this new breed from any you have ever known in the matter of flavor, texture and consistency, that it is hard to describe it. There are no standards by which to compare.

It has a delectable fresh corn taste all its own—big bodied, tender kernels, so tall, that in full cutting you get no cob chunks or other undesirable particles. And that rich, creamy consistency—how you will enjoy it!

Each ear is carefully inspected (Note the rubber gloves)

We alone own the seed from which this new breed of corn is grown. It can not be duplicated anywhere. Every stalk is grown under the direct supervision of our own experts, each ear individually inspected, washed in clear running water, then cut, prepared by our own improved process and packed in sanitary enamel-lined tins. This insures a quality and uniformity unique in canned corn, readily appreciable as you taste DEL MAIZ.

Novelties, Ideas, and Suggestions

By OLIVE GRAY

Are we inclined to become selfish at Christmas time? Doing our utmost for our own dear ones, to forget those in need? Figuring the purse not long enough for all, to give ourselves the pleasure of gifting where we can enjoy the happiness visible? Let us, then pause in this unaltruistic enjoyment and give thought to those—not our own, save in the universal sense—those in hospitals or in need of assistance, possibly of sustenance. Just a mite of all our presentation, for those; and that mite given with all our might.

The Open Heart

It is the season when every mail brings to us opportunity for giving. Requests for help from this hospital, from that association, from the other circle or guild. We cannot help them all—even though possessed of the Croesus purse; but we can do our share; and we can send the helpful thought, even though our charity budget be full to overflowing. We can extend the word to others, who may be better able to help, or who may have a less crowded list of those charities which begin at home. By this expression we may not mean literally members of our family—but there are certain ones who by right of some claim, some "touching of the sleeves," as the oriental saying runs, seem to belong to us as charges—and these are our first duty.

Rain Glories

Did the recent rains suggest to you a potent gift possibility? Umbrellas, this season are actual glory sticks—so artistic in shape, the handles so beautiful and so varied. Never were rain-coats so giftable. Never were the colors in these shades, so many, so pleasing.

Whose Showers?

And, by the way, one can tell by the expression on the faces of those one meets, during a rain, whether or not that person is a land-owner. If possessed of acres—growing acres—a wide smile is certain to illumine the countenance. If minus acres, fear of injury to clothes or shoes is more likely to blur the smile.

Indoor Plants

It is a mistake to think that, in California we do not need indoor plants. Potted plants always add cheer to a room, in any climate, and even where so much of flora-beauty is at hand in garden and lawn, the nearby growing plant, the budding bulb, indoors—is of deepest interest. Especially is this true where there are invalids or those shut-in. No pleasure can excel that of watching the tiny leaflet putting forth, in pot or water-garden.

The Desert Garden

The small cactus garden is at present the most favored form of house-plants. Requiring little, if any, care these desert denizens are of perpetual interest. Some of our florists excel in assembling cacti; and there is much in knowing the various kinds, their habits and manner of growth; much, also, in planting correctly even the small cactus gardens for decorative effect. Some of the smallest of these are so designed as to carry the thought to wide open spaces, where "the sun perpetually is shining and the winds are never weary." An inspiring breath for those confined in cities.

Men's Hat Boxes

And now it is gay hat boxes for men. Following feminine lead, boxes for the man's hat help to make his headwear more gifty. Sprigged with holly, mistletoe and other greenery, the hat box for him has a very holiday air; or for all season 'round this box—usually shaped round—may be less seasonly decorated but quite artistic.

Coming Along

Do you not see high shoes for women in the foreshadowing of the mode? The overturned tops of galoshes may have incubated the idea and the "Robin Hoods" are bringing to further life high-topped shoes, or, as we formerly named them, high boots. I am wondering how these finally will come forth. Not like those we stowed away, because they were but recently purchased, when high shoes "went out." One may rest assured that Mme. La Mode always will vary her revivals sufficiently that the new must actually be new and not an old style revamped. This is not her custom, ever. The out-of-fashion is out of it, forevermore.

"House of Oddities"

Could a name be more fascinating, more charged with mystery? And recollection reverting to a shop formerly instituted by the one assembling this, one is assured that housed there will be gems of artistry and of antique worthfulness. The one named thus is in a little city a day's drive away; a pleasant place to pause and browse, when passing along that much-liked foothill drive where the town is quite up-land. An objective for touring during the holidays.

Boxing the Child

Boxing the child may prove not only a holiday pleasure, but educational as well. I do not mean "boxing" in the usual sense—not in the "spare the rod" sense; but a gift of boxes for housing the possessions. To inculcate orderliness—prime characteristic—boxes in tiers—the boxes, not the child! Boxes for hosiery, for shoes, for lingerie, for ribbons, for gloves. What more attractive way of teaching the young idea to have a place for everything and everything in its place, and teaching this pleasingly, than to present pretty, convenient boxes for all personal accessories.

PUNY MAN

Time will elapse before—if ever—the Vestris disaster is clearly understood. Human factors which were at play are susceptible to interpretation, to opinion, to change. But already the broader, cosmic aspect of the tragedy is as clear as it will ever be, and it is this: There will be occasions when, pitted against the unfathomable and often unrelenting forces of nature, the man-made apparatus will collapse and men will perish. Such is the basic, if disconcerting, fact of life.

Now as never before the human mind is creating wonders in the field of mechanical invention, electricity, navigation. We may at times bewail the lack of progress in the social and economic sense. But no one whose eyes are open can bewail it from the engineering or, say, medical point of view. In engineering, as in medicine, amazing strides have been made in the last twenty-five years—so amazing that in taking full cognisance of them one must stand in awe and admiration at the ingenuity and discernment of the human mind.

But although we build bridges which will carry unanticipated loads a score of years hence; although we protect ourselves with lightning arresters of marvelous perfection; although we build houses to withstand colossal winds; although we build vessels with almost impregnable features for safety, yet there will be instances when bridges will collapse, lightning arresters will fail, houses will tumble in the pathway of typhoons, vessels will falter and sink, battered by the seas. For the human mind with all its marvelous perspicacity will never be able to cope with absolute safety with the sea, the typhoon, the bolt of lightning, when these are on a rampage.

Not alone our remote ancestors but those who lived only fifty years ago were compelled to face the outbursts of nature with, in our present eyes, astonishing defenselessness. But total immunity there will never be. In the immutable plan of the world the transcendental forces of nature will always look down on puny man and his ingenious contraptions with a mocking, if also sympathetic, smile. For to them these contraptions will never be too formidable.

MORE CENSUS FIGURING

The Federal Census Bureau's mid-year estimates of the population of the principal cities of the United States must always be taken with reserve. They do not represent actual enumeration of the inhabitants. They constitute at best an educated guess. In nine cases out of ten they are worked out by a rule based on the average yearly increases in the period between two Federal censuses, or, in some cases, between a Federal census and a more recent State census.

The nearer the time comes for a new census to be taken, the greater the liability to error in the estimate based on the old one. Still, the Census Bureau, which has to meet the demand for per capita figures from year to year in the country's industrial and social life, must have some estimate to go by, and it does the best it can.—[New York Times

MAN LUGS WIFE'S WARDROBE TO COURT BUT STILL MUST PAY

"There!" said John W. Hahn, fresh from his Alhambra dairy, as he put down a heavy suit case in the court of Superior Judge Rosenkranz. "That's the evidence."

"What evidence?" asked Attorney W. J. Clark, counsel for Mrs. Mae S. Hahn, who is suing her husband for a divorce and wants alimony until the case is heard.

"Well, she says that I never bought her any clothes," Hahn began, somewhat out of breath. "So this morning I packed up all her duds in that suit case to show the court. I got twenty-two dresses in it."

The clothes meant nothing to Judge Rosenkranz, who merely wanted to know if the dairyman was going to pay alimony.

Hahn protested, declaring it was an outrage. He asserted he was deprived of his child, of his home and now had to pay alimony.

"Oh, well; I'll pay," he wound up, waving his check book. "Just name how much. I'll give her a check for all she asks."

At this point the attorney for the wife asked about Hahn's balance in the bank.

"It is not much—$1.85." Hahn replied, and added: "But I don't mind giving her a check."

Mrs. Hahn agreed to take cash on pay day and Judge Rosenkranz ordered the dairyman to pay her $50 a month.

Warrant Issued in Traffic Case

A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of P. R. McCutcheon of 2661 Flower street, Walnut Park, who failed to answer summons for trial in the Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of reckless driving.

According to Traffic Officer Jensen, who gave him the summons, McCutcheon, who is an aviator, ran his automobile into the rear end of a car driven by J. T. Brandon of Santa Monica on Figueroa street between Eighth and Ninth streets on the 13th inst. Brandon got out of his car and remonstrated with McCutcheon and, after the two men had re-entered their cars and started off again, according to the officer, McCutcheon ran into the rear of Brandon's car again.

BANK HELD UP BY BANDIT TRIO

Two Whites and Negro Get Away With $1210

Institution at Jefferson and Arlington Victim

Thousands Overlooked by Men During Haste

The trio, consisting of two white men and a negro who, police say, have held up a number of banks in Southern California in recent months, added the branch of the Los Angeles First National Bank at West Jefferson and Arlington streets to its list yesterday afternoon.

While the three bandits escaped with $1210, N. I. Bush, manager of the branch, said they overlooked about $10,000 which easily was accessible in their haste to make a quick getaway.

It was at 1:30 p.m., when there were about ten customers in the bank, that the three men drew up in front of the bank in a sedan. As they stepped into the bank, the two white men drew pistols and one fired a shot in the air.

The taller of the two white men, who was described as movie-sheikish in appearance and wore long thick sideburns, did all the talking for the trio. He ordered the customers and employees to congregate in the rear of the bank and while they responded to his orders, the negro dashed behind one of the tellers' windows and grabbed $1210 in currency. He paid no attention to the stacks of bills at the other windows, but quickly rejoined his companions and all three made for the street, got in their car and drove away.

HARBOR BOARD TURNS FARMER

Railroad Classification Yard Area to be Let to High Bidder

Bids on use of 313 acres for farming purposes in order that revenue may be received from the tract, recently purchased for a railroad classification yard, will be opened by the Harbor Commissioners Friday, the 28th inst., at 9 a.m.

Specifications prepared by Engineer Nicholson show a total of 280.3 acres suitable for growing vegetables and other produce. Provision is made for bidding on the entire tract or individual acreage. Part of the area already is being used for garden products, and the occupants, mainly Japanese, are expected to be among the bidders.

The plan was suggested by President Allen in order that the tract may pay its way pending the time it will be developed into a railroad classification yard to handle increased tonnage at the port.

Screen Actress Back From East

Back home again but not broke describes the return to Hollywood yesterday of Bessie Love, screen actress, from a visit to New York. This time she came back with a long-term contract and vague memories of how, just a few years back, she arrived at the same station broke and looking for a job.

Her former arrival was at the outset of her screen career. Then she made a tour of one of the larger vaudeville circuits and when she came back the talking pictures won for her the contract at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

Miss Love said she is glad to be back home again.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR OCTOGENARIAN

Writer Goes to Court and Gets $60,000

Samuel Ritter Brown, who has gained a reputation as a writer under the pen name of Montgomery Brown, left the court of Superior Judge Desmond yesterday richer by $60,000.

The money Brown received is not, however, the result of his literary efforts. It is from the estate of his father, S. A. Ritter Brown, who died at Santa Barbara several months ago leaving his son his estate valued at $500,000.

A petition filed in court by Attorneys Clarke, Bowker and Neville stated that there was $60,000 cash available for distribution, which went to the son.

SUIT ECHOES CRASH

Damages of $50,000 are sought in a suit filed in United States District Court yesterday on behalf of Lena Mae Boeckman and others against Arthur G. Merry and the Santa Fe Railway Company for the death of Henry F. Boeckman at Pasadena on February 21, last.

The suit which previously had been filed in Superior Court was transferred. Besides Mrs. Boeckman, the First National Trust and Savings Bank, as guardian of the estates of Frances V. and Evelyn L. Boeckman, is a plaintiff.

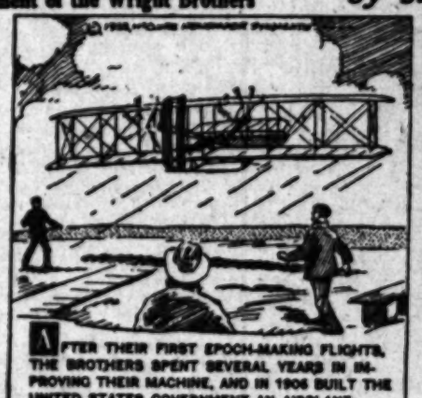
HIGH LIGHTS IN HISTORY 1216

America In the 20th Century
Aviation—The Achievement of the Wright Brothers

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

IN 1896, TWO BROTHERS, WILBUR AND ORVILLE WRIGHT, WHO HAD READ WITH DEEP INTEREST OF THE EFFORTS OF LILIENTHAL AND LANGLEY TO PRODUCE A HEAVIER-THAN-AIR FLYING MACHINE, BEGAN TO DESIGN, BUILD AND TEST GLIDERS. IN 1900 THEY WENT TO KITTY HAWK, N. C., WHERE, ON THE SANDY STRETCHES NEAR THAT PLACE, THEY MADE EXPERIMENTS FOR MORE THAN TWO YEARS.

DECEMBER 17, 1903, THEIR BIPLANE GLIDER, DRIVEN BY A GAS ENGINE AND TWO PROPELLERS THEY HAD MADE THEMSELVES, CARRYING WILBUR WRIGHT, ROSE FROM THE SANDS NEAR KITTY HAWK, AND FLEW THROUGH THE AIR FOR 12 SECONDS. THREE OTHER FLIGHTS WERE MADE THAT DAY. ON THE LAST THE PLANE REMAINED IN THE AIR FOR NEARLY A MINUTE, AND TRAVELED 853 FEET.



AFTER THEIR FIRST EPOCH-MAKING FLIGHTS, THE BROTHERS SPENT SEVERAL YEARS IN IMPROVING THEIR MACHINE, AND IN 1906 BUILT THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AN AIRPLANE THAT COULD CARRY TWO MEN AND THE NECESSARY FUEL FOR A FLIGHT OF 125 MILES AT A SPEED OF 40 MILES AN HOUR. LATER, THE WRIGHTS SOLD THE RIGHTS TO MANUFACTURE THEIR PLANES IN FRANCE, GERMANY AND ITALY.

THE AIRPLANE WAS ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED IN EUROPE, WHERE THE GOVERNMENTS RECOGNIZING IT AS A POTENTIAL INSTRUMENT OF WAR ENCOURAGED THE PUBLIC INTEREST IN AVIATION. IN 1911 GLENN CURTISS, AN AMERICAN, INVENTED THE HYDROPLANE, AN AIRPLANE EQUIPPED WITH PONTOONS, THAT COULD RISE FROM AND ALIGHT UPON THE WATER.

MOTORISTS HELD AFTER ACCIDENTS

Three Hurt in Crashes; Two Collisions Laid to Drinking Drivers

Automobilists who are asserted to have been drinking were involved in two of three accidents in which persons suffered serious injury last night. One of the drivers, H. M. Snyder of 1131 Fourth avenue, was arrested on a charge of drunk driving, after his car had struck Mrs. Estrella Gardner, 46 years of age, of 1237 Crenshaw Boulevard, at Pico street and Crenshaw Boulevard. Mrs. Gardner was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where it was found that two bones in her left leg had been broken and she had suffered a severe back injury.

In a collision on Western avenue near Eleventh street, between cars driven by Mrs. R. H. McMahon, wife of the captain of detectives of the Hollywood division, and Packey McMullen, 21, of 347 East Eighty-seventh Place, the latter suffered severe scalp lacerations but Mrs. McMahon escaped with injury. At Georgia-street Hospital, where McMullen's injuries were dressed, he was found to have been drinking, so he was sent to the Wilshire station and held there for questioning. He is said to be a former pugilist.

John J. O'Connor, 46, of 2843 Somerset Drive, is in a critical condition as a result of injuries he received when an automobile in which he was a passenger and which was driven by George Hickey of 2313 South Grand avenue collided at Bronson avenue and Twenty-eighth street, with another driven by Freda Greenspoon of 2837 South Bronson avenue. Neither driver was injured, but O'Conner received a concussion of the brain, six deep scalp lacerations, an injured hip and suffered severely from shock and loss of blood. He was taken to Georgia-street Hospital.

OFFICER ON CYCLE DIES IN WRECK

Fatal Accident Occurs on Inglewood Boulevard as Machines Meet Head-on

County Motorcycle Policeman M. W. Honeycutt was instantly killed in a head-on collision with a motorist on Inglewood Boulevard near the intersection of Jefferson street in Mesmer City late last night. The driver of the motor car was R. K. Southwaite, 23 years of age, 830 West Fifty-fourth street. He was held by the police, who found a bottle half filled with liquor in the car, they asserted. They also assert Southwaite admitted having had several drinks.

The motorcycle policeman and his partner, I. A. Young, were riding west on Inglewood Boulevard when they observed the car driven by Southwaite coming east. Officer Young asserted he saw the Southwaite car leave the road several hundred yards away, but the driver straightened out his machine and came back on the road.

When nearing the motorcycle officers the car is alleged to have swerved into Policeman Honeycutt's machine. Deputy Sheriff H. K. Hutchison appeared shortly after the crash and aided in arresting Southwaite and in taking the body of the dead policeman to the Community Hospital in Culver City.

The dead policeman lived at 701 East Laurel street, Compton.

FOUR SAVED FROM DEATH IN FLAMES

Children Carried from Blast-Torn Residence by Man and Girls

Four children, severely burned when a gas explosion destroyed their three-room home, were saved from death by the quick rescue work of an elderly man and two young girls yesterday after the children's mother, her clothes aflame, collapsed outside.

One of the children, Joe Sanchez, 3 years of age, is in a critical condition and may not recover. His brother, Arnold, 8, two sisters, Alicia, 6, and Empora, 5, and their mother, Mrs. Josephine Sanchez, 27, were burned badly but are expected to survive. All are at the General Hospital.

The children were in the living-room of their home at 116 South Avenue 19, to which the family had moved Tuesday, when their mother struck a match to light a gas heater. The explosion which followed said by fire department investigators to have resulted from gas which escaped from a leaky hose connection.

As the concussion rocked the surrounding blocks, Benito Saragosa, 70, of 118 South Avenue 19, and two sisters, Elvira and Linda Mell, rushed to the house where the children were trapped by the flames and carried them outside to safety.

Air Mail Record May Reach Ton

More than a ton of Christmas mail is expected to be transported out of Los Angeles this morning by Western Air Express planes, following the second record load in two days carried eastward yesterday, according to officials of the company.

At 7:35 a.m. yesterday Pilots Graham and Doty lifted a huge trimotored Fokker off the ground at Vail Field with thirty-eight pouches of mail, containing 58,480 pieces. A few seconds later Pilot Laas in a biplane hopped off with thirteen sacks holding 22,760 pieces, or a total of 78,240 pieces. This was about 14,000 greater than the previous record made Tuesday.

NEW BAN ON THIRD DEGREE

Police Bulletin Denies Existence But Restates Policy Against Use of Violence

Apparently as answer to criticism directed at police officers for the use of asserted "third-degree" methods in extracting confessions from prisoners, the following general order appeared in the Police Bulletin yesterday:

"To all officers:

"Members of the department have probably noted the current discussions on the subject of abuse of prisoners by police officers. Although we do not believe that officers of this department are practicing such abuse in defiance of their oath of office and of the policy of the department, it may not be amiss at this time to state again exactly what that policy is.

"The use of force or violence upon a prisoner for any other purpose than in self-defense, or in overcoming resistance to arrest, or to prevent an escape, is strictly forbidden. Securing statements or confessions by the use or threat of force or violence is likewise forbidden. If any officer is found guilty of using force or violence upon a prisoner for any reason other than the three noted above, drastic action will be taken immediately."

The Police Bulletin is the official mouthpiece of Chief of Police Davis and is signed by him. Copies of it are distributed to all officers of the department.

Various attacks on police methods of getting confessions have been made recently, the latest coming from Hubert Morrow, president of the Los Angeles Bar Association, in a talk before members of the Justinian Club Tuesday.

Morrow declared that it is a "common practice" for peace officers to use brutality in handling prisoners and that a stop must be put to such practices. He pledged himself and the association to a finish fight against the asserted abuses of official authority.

FLEET GUN PRACTICE ENDS

Program for Year Brought to Successful Peak, Establishing New World's Record

The battle fleet's gunnery program for 1928 was brought to a highly successful conclusion yesterday when the battleships Mississippi and New York fired their annual long-range battle practice, the New York firing off Santa Rosa Island and the Mississippi near Los Coronados Islands. Tuesday, the dreadnaughts Pennsylvania, Arizona and New Mexico completed the exercise, all five ships firing the important battle practice without casualties. Splendid visibility and weather attended the practice in both firing areas.

The battle fleet this year not only leads all other combatant forces of the Navy, but has established new world's records for all forms of gunnery practices, both for ships of the battleship, cruiser, destroyer and submarine classes. Air squadrons of the fleet have likewise set new world marks for machine-gun battle practice and torpedo practice aloft.

The fleet will remain in port until it departs for South America on January 15 for the joint cruise with the scouting fleet from the Atlantic. In addition to Christmas holiday leave and liberty, the various units will be engaged in machinery overhaul, landing force drills, loading of stores and other preparations for the southern cruise during the long at-anchor period.

All major units based on San Pedro this year will hold ambitious Christmas celebrations. In most cases the ships' companies will be hosts to orphans and children from the poorer quarters of the city. Several units, however, including the fleet flagship California, are departing from the usual custom and will have as their Christmas guests the families of the officers and crews.

PEEP INTO MYSTERY FUTURE COSTS BANK TELLER TIDY BIT

Gypsy voodooism and a desire for a "peep into the future" cost H. E. Counts, a bank teller living at 10737 Tabor avenue, Palms, $320 yesterday, he told the police at Central Police Station last night.

"It was sure slick," he told the desk sergeant. "I was standing inside my cage when in walked two gypsy girls."

"Did you say 'gyp girls'?" queried the sergeant.

"No, I said gypsy girls," continued Counts, "and one of them asked me if I didn't want to look at the future and I wise-cracked back and said, 'sure bring it out.' Well the girl took my hand and looked at it a second and said I was going to live eighty-four more years. I asked her what was I going to live that long on, and she laughed and said if I gave her a penny she would tell me more.

"When I gave her the penny she wrapped it in a handkerchief and said a couple of gypsy words, and then asked to be allowed to touch some bills of a large denomination."

"Oh, oh!" sighed the sergeant.

"Well, I had some large bundles of twenties and fifties there and I just let her touch them for an instant, and she told me I would become prosperous. Then she left."

"And so did your 320 simoleons," said the sergeant.

"Exactly," replied Mr. Counts.

Now the robbery detail is on trail of a gypsy maid.

Second Hoover Train Planned to Inaugural

Arrangements for a second section of the Southern California special train to Washington for the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, California's first President, will be made before March, Chairman William Eric Fowler, of the Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee, announced yesterday. Almost the entire capacity of the first train has been reserved.

Indications are that Southern California will be represented by a large and distinguished group of citizens on March 4. One drawing-room car has been reserved by leaders of the Republican party in the south, who with their families are to witness the real culmination of the Presidential campaign in which California played so prominent a part.

The special train will be routed directly to Washington, and accommodations at one of the leading hotels will be arranged. The visitors will be enabled to return to California over a variety of routes, and at whatever time they wish.

'DR.' MUSICK JURY FAILS TO AGREE

New Trial in January Ordered for Defendant in Pharmacy-Act Case

The jury in the case of Dr. H. L. Musick, charged with violating the State Medical and Pharmacy Act, was unable to agree on a verdict last night and was dimissed by Municipal Judge Sheldon. A new trial has been ordered for January 23.

Musick was arrested at his office at 701 Camulos street, October 29, last, by Albert Carter and William A. Byrne, special agents for the State Board of Medical examiners and H. P. Lenehan, inspector for the pharmacy board.

On the witness stand yesterday Musick declared that he has been selling his remedy for the past fourteen years and has disposed of approximately 7,000,000 packages at $1 each. Several score of his "patients" took the stand and testified that they had received a great benefit from the remedy.

The specific charge against Musick is that he violated the medical and pharmacy laws by diagnosing and prescribing for patients without a medical license.

Rites for Smith Will be Today

Funeral services for Fred J. Smith, Hollywood business man and son of Carrie Jacobs-Bond, author and song writer, who ended his life in a cabin near Lake Arrowhead last Monday, will be conducted by Dr. Robert E. Freeman of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church at noon today in the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery. The body will be placed in a vault.

Mr. Smith, who was known throughout the city both as a business man and a member of the Hollywood Athletic Club, is thought to have ended his life as the result of a physical and mental breakdown. He had been seriously ill for more than a year before his death, according to members of his family. He leaves his widow and two children.

SO DIFFERENT

With a charming air of romance and pleasant sentimentality the group of golfers was discussing in front of the huge club fire how each married man present first met his wife.

Various tales were related until it finally came to Skeet's turn. Now, Skeet was a much married man and he looked it.

"And where did you meet your wife?" they asked him.

Skeet blushed and looked very uncomfortable for a moment. Then he pulled himself together.

"I didn't meet her," he answered resentfully. "She overtook me."—[Answers, London.

Appraiser Will Fix Land Value

The Council yesterday authorized City Attorney Stephens to employ an appraiser to estimate the cost of acquiring a twenty-six-acre tract at Los Angeles Harbor to be used as an athletic field for the Navy.

This land, according to Councilman Colden, is known as Trona Field, and is owned by the Southern Pacific. Part of it now is under lease by the city and is used by the Navy, but the lease, he said, can be terminated on thirty days' notice. It is worth $10,000 an acre, he added. Citizens of San Pedro, he said, have offered to share in the cost.

VICTIM BURNED IN GAS-HEATER BLAST

While Abe Feinstein, 24 years of age, was trying to adjust the automatic gas heater in his home at 2710 West Forty-third Place last night there was an explosion. He was badly burned about the face, arms and body. He was treated at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

CITY GETS FOUR RARE VIOLINS

One Stradivarius Among Instruments

They Made Melody Years Ago
F. M. Brown holding rare Amati violin (1686) while other instruments obtained by music company are shown below

FOUR rare violins with an estimated collectors' valuation of $50,000 have been received in Los Angeles by F. M. Brown, manager of the violin department of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company. One of the violins—a Stradivarius—dates back to 1696, according to Mr. Brown.

Another of the instruments, according to experts, is a Hieronymus Amati of Cremona, dated 1686, and was made for the Infantus Carlos, the fourth King of Spain. It bears in the neck of the piece an imbedded silver crown.

According to Mr. Brown, the violin was played for many years in the Spanish court by the royal musician. Also in the collection is a Francisco Rogeri, dated 1782, and a Petrus Guarnerius, dated 1709.

SUSPECT SEIZED AS 'MAD BANDIT'

Police Find Man Accused of Holding Up Bank

Many Aliases Declared to Have Been Utilized

Mechanical Devices Used in Unusual Robbery

With the arrest last night in a cheap rooming-house on East Fifth street of a man who gave his name as A. J. Anderson and has many other aliases, the police believe they have the so-called "mad bandit," who held up the branch of the Merchants' National Trust and Savings Bank at 2330 South Central avenue last August and escaped with $12,000.

The bandit who perpetrated that job apparently had hidden in a small space above the bank vault for several days before he came down from his hiding place by means of a rope ladder on the morning of August 17 and held up the four employees of the bank who were in the place at the time, locked them in a washroom and escaped with the money.

MECHANICAL DEVICES

Various ingenious mechanical contrivances found in his hiding place convinced the police that he was the same bandit with mechanical aptitude who eighteen months before had held up the Hellman Bank at 2414 South Hoover street by means of dummy arms holding toy pistols, which had been placed in upper walls by a man who had been hiding in the bank for several days previously. In each case the mechanic-bandit spoke with a German accent and walked with a slight limp.

Detective Lieutenants Gorman and Sanborn, who arrested Anderson last night after months of investigation, assert that he is a criminal with a long record, parts of which he is said to have admitted to them.

PISTOL FOUND

The detectives said Anderson's real name is Herbert Maas and that he recently finished serving a sixty-day sentence in El Centro for drunk driving.

In his room, they said, they found an automatic pistol of the type used in the Merchants Bank hold-up and two black handbags similar to those in which the bandit had taken away the money. They also found, they said, a pair of handcuffs and a canvas bank bag with a $500 mark on and the name of a bank in Laredo, Tex.

FRAUD TESTIFIED IN LASKER TRIAL

Auditor's Evidence Purports to Show Pyramiding

Company Official Says Assets Given Overvalue

Fitts Personally Supervises New Prosecution

Testimony designed to show that the Lasker Finance Corporation was defrauded out of $130,000 through the making of false entries in the corporation's books was given yesterday in Superior Judge Emmett H. Wilson's court at the trial of A. I. Lasker, former president of the concern.

Lasker is charged in a grand jury indictment with seven counts of making false entries in the firm's books and on three counts with grand theft.

AUDITOR ON FRAUD

The testimony was given by Morris Warshaw, auditor for the finance company. Warshaw was the first witness, called by the State after the jury was completed and sworn in.

The entries were made, according to the witness, when the Lasker Finance Corporation was organized to take over the business and assets of the A. I. Lasker Corporation, its predecessor.

ASSETS REVALUED

Warshaw testified that, in the transfer of the business from one company to the other, Lasker directed that furniture and office equipment, previously carried as being worth $16,000, be valued on the books of the new company at $46,000. In similar fashion, the witness asserted, Lasker ordered insurance agency business previously listed at $75,000 to be placed in the new set of books at $175,000.

This is the second time charges have been preferred against Lasker in connection with the conduct of his company's business. It is asserted he obtained a dismissal of the first charges through conspiring with former Dist.-Atty. Keyes, now under indictment for bribery.

Lasker is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Costello and Van Cott, acting under the personal supervision of Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

The trial will continue this morning with Warshaw resuming his testimony.

CHICAGO'S 5,000,000

The Chicago Regional Planning Association voices the latest population claim for that aspiring city. It is sufficiently ambitious. Chicago itself is expected to have 3,260,000 inhabitants by January 1. Cook county will have 3,850,000, while "the Chicago region" composed of fifteen counties "centering about the city" has or will have 4,930,000. From that to an even 5,000,000 is an easy jump, soon taken.

There is nothing visionary about this estimate, unless it is that fifteen counties are a generous basis for a "Chicago region." The figures for th city itself follow closely enough the estimates of the Federal Census Bureau. Philadelphia, long passed by the western city, easily retains third place with a present-day population well past an even 2,000,000. Detroit, forging into fourth place chiefly on the strength of the automobile industry, nears the 1,500,000 mark. New York with its suburbs numbers now approximately 10,000,000 people.

Such amazing figures of city growth illustrate the swiftness with which the nation is becoming a commonwealth chiefly urban by residence and industrial in occupation. Agriculture is still the basic industry and concern but it is carried on by a continually diminishing percentage of the workers of the country. The typical American no longer chews a straw, as the cartoons would have it. He lives in town or commutes to it for his daily toil. —[New York World.

CRUEL EXPERIENCE TO HAVE HAPPY END

Fay Hurley

FATE LOSES AS CHIVALRY TAKES HAND

Attack Victim's Fiance Hastens Wedding Plans as Police Seek Assailant

Fate's asserted cruel attempt to wreck the future of a Los Angeles girl was foiled yesterday by the chivalrous fiance of Fay Hurley.

The latter is a young lady, 18 years of age. As a result of her lover's gesture she soon will be a madam, for Lester Jarvis Wood, 25-year-old chauffeur of 960 Wilshire Boulevard, went to the Hall of Records yesterday and declared his intention to wed her.

The couple had been engaged for a short time with a ceremony set for some time in the future. It was hastened, however, when Miss Hurley told police that a stranger entered her room at 4200 South Olive street early Tuesday morning and attacked her while she was caring for the baby of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cameron. The man threatened the life of the child in order to prevent the girl's outcry.

Then, while police went in search of the asserted assailant of the young woman, young Wood went ahead with arrangements for the marriage.

The name of his future wife was given to the marriage license clerk by Wood as Fay Catherine Helfrich, which is her real name, the Hurley girl said last night, but she is better known by the latter appellation.

MEETING TODAY ON CAROL FETE

Final Details Will be Set for Christmas Eve Event

Fifteen Thousand Singers to Get Assignments

All of Out-of-Doors Program Workers to Gather

Plans for the placing of 15,000 carol singers on the streets of Los Angeles on Christmas Eve will be completed at a luncheon meeting today at the Elks' Club, according to the announcement of Glenn M. Tindall of the playground and recreation department, who is directing this phase of the Christmas-out-of-doors program.

The captains, division managers, committee members and other workers who are aiding in putting on the gigantic city-wide singing program will be present at this luncheon. Miss Katherine Crawford, Universal talking picture player, will present her ideas on how Christmas carols should be sung, at this luncheon. Present plans call for groups of singers to visit practically every street in the city on Christmas Eve, singing traditional songs of the Yuletide season.

The following persons will take up their duties today on the Christmas Carol Executive Committee: Dr. E. P. Ryland, Church Federation of Los Angeles; Vierline Kersey, Board of Education; Abbie Norton Jamison, California Federation of Music Clubs; Mrs. Frank R. Schaefer, Parent-Teachers' Association; Grace Widney Mabee, National Federation of Music Clubs; Walter E. Hartley, American Guild of Organists; Mgr. Francis J. Conaty, Catholic Churches of Los Angeles; Mrs. E. A. Erickson, Federated Church Musicians of Los Angeles; Miss Anne McPherson, director of district organizations, and Miss Kay Shank, in charge of radio activities.

NINE PLAYGROUNDS GIVE PROGRAMS TODAY

Nine more Los Angeles playgrounds will present Christmas plays today in continuation of the series of Yuletide performances which began yesterday at four playfields and will continue all of this week. Every one of the municipal playgrounds will take part in this dramatic enterprise, some putting on as many as four plays.

Today's presentations will take place at Pecan and South Park playgrounds at 2:30 p.m. and at State street, Downey, Poinsettia, Arroyo Seco, Queen Ann, Manchester and Echo playgrounds this evening.

The children making the best showings in each of these plays will take part in the outdoor civic pageant which the Playground Department will present on the steps of the City Hall Sunday evening.

TABLET PLEASURES

All kinds of experiments in devising concentrated foods are going on. The ideal which some think glorious is the proper amount of vitamins and calories in a capsule which one can carry in his vest pocket. Then, instead of the old-fashioned pleasures of the table, we shall have such social and gustatory enjoyment as can be got from slipping a nutritious pill into the mouth of a busy man as he sits at his desk.

The chief argument advanced for this kind of diet is that it will be a great time saver. No more dawdling over luncheons; no waste of precious hours or minutes discussing dishes and drinks. Just one gulp and the necessary amount of tissue repair will be done.

What use is to be made of the time saved is seldom stated. The idea is that energy is to be so continuously preserved and expended that no one will wish to rub elbows or talk with a friend or his family. The machine age will have scored a new triumph in the matter of rapid-fire eating. One has only to imagine this process going on long enough, and proving successful enough, in order to lead thousands back to the slower delights of social and artistic dining, with full recognition of the fact that the time saved by the new method is really time wasted. —[New York Times.

A Golfer Himself

A man in plus-fours dropped into the barber's chair.

"How would you like it cut, sir?"

"Mow down the rough a bit," grunted the golfer.

The barber did as ordered, then he said, "And now, sir, let me recommend to you an excellent tonic for the fairway."—[Boston Transcript.

MISS TASHMAN SIGNS WITH M.-G.-M.

Julian Eltinge is Back from Tour to Enter Talkers; Big Cast of Stage Actors Signs for Fox Film; Florence Vidor and Noted Husband Depart

BY GRACE GINGSLEY

How these free-lance players do flit about, to be sure. No sooner do you think that you have them all set at one studio, than they bob up at another.

Take Lilyan Tashman, for instance. Miss Tashman's services are widely in demand. No sooner was it announced that Paramount's "The Genius," in which she was to have played a leading role, was called off than Metro-Goldwyn Mayer pounced upon her services, and she signed yesterday.

The role which Miss Tashman will play is to be one of the principal ones in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," that of the stuttering chorus girl witness. The part, we hear, is to be built up so that it will loom large, and will run all through the picture.

JULIAN ELTINGE NOW HEADED FOR TALKIES

After an absence from pictures of several years, during which he has been playing musical comedy and vaudeville, Julian Eltinge is likely, now that the talking pictures have arrived, to come back to the flickers.

The star of "The Fascinating Widow," and other musicals has just returned from a three months' vaudeville tour in the Keith houses in the east. He wires me that he is spending Christmas with his mother on his ranch down in San Diego county.

"I have two offers for talking pictures," he declares in his wire, "for which I have a fine farce, and I hope to land this farce with one company or the other."

JULIAN ELTINGE

"Nobody's Children" to Start

Al Wuerker is taking his time about assembling his cast for the Fox picture, "Nobody's Children," which of course will be a Movietone.

Helen Twelvetrees will make her bow in the talking pictures in this one, she having recently arrived from New York.

Two others from the stage, Marguerite Churchill and Frank Albertson, will also have principal roles.

Florence Vidor Departs

Once more Florence Vidor is leaving us. The Paramount player lately finished her role in "The Wolf of Wall Street," and tonight will be en route to New York and possibly Europe with her husband, Jascha Heifetz, noted violinist.

Just how long Miss Vidor will remain away from her film work isn't certain at this time.

Fitzmaurice to Direct Vilma

George Fitzmaurice did not take long, once he had left First National, to find himself another berth. According to excellent authority, the director will guide Miss Banky in her next picture for Samuel Goldwyn, the title of which is not announced.

Blanche Mehaffey Comes Home

The above subtitle indicates that Miss Mehaffey considers Hollywood her home; but she has been away from us for so long that I don't know whether I should give her that credit or not. At any rate, after a five-months' stay in New York, she has returned to our midst.

BLANCHE MEHAFFEY

Miss Mehaffey played in an independent picture while in the East, and no sooner had returned than she received two offers. She is to decide on one of them within a day or two. She says that she had a very wonderful time in New York, but that she didn't start any new romances.

Dorothy Dwan to New York

New Year's Day will be celebrated by Dorothy Dwan on the train en route to New York. When she arrives there she will at once start work for the Thunder Bay Film Company in talking sequences to be made there for "The Devil Bear," in which Miss Dwan and Carroll Nye recently played the leads in Hollywood.

DOROTHY DWAN

Miss Dwan may not even finish her travels in New York. It is possible that she will go right on to Europe after making the above scenes. She is to meet officials of the company from London, and confer with them about signing for six productions, some of which may be made in England, and others in Hollywood.

Xavier Cugat Signs

A sort of Pooh-Bah, Lord High Everything, role is that which Xavier Cugat, noted Spanish violinist and cartoonist, has signed for with Pathe, according to word received yesterday.

XAVIER CUGAT

Cugat has been signed for the multitudinous duties involved in writing the theme song, arranging the musical score, and designing the costumes and settings for a forthcoming talking picture which Pathe is to make with a Spanish background.

Ruth Taylor In It

Ruth Taylor, we learn, has been signed for an important baby vamp role in Clara Bow's new Paramount picture, "A Wild Party." The story is adapted from a story by the author of "Flaming Youth," and the name of Miss Taylor's role is Bab, whom doubtless, if you read the story, you will remember.

Lee Patrick Leaves

Lee Patrick, New York stage actress, who came west to appear in Pathe's "The Missing Man," an all-talking picture, returned to the East yesterday. It is said that her work in the picture is so excellent that it is likely she will again be called to Hollywood.

PRINCESS YEA OF NAY

Many a royal personage, speaking frankly about the privileges and duties of his station, has admitted that he would far rather have been born a commoner, says the New York Times. Apparently impostors posing as princes share this feeling sometimes. But having once assumed the role, it is almost as difficult for the pretender as for the real heir to drop it.

At least so Martha Barth, the milkmaid who impersonated a German princess, found it. Brought to trial for fraud and forgery, she admitted that she had sadly imposed upon two elderly spinsters, who were her chief accusers. They had squandered all of their savings on luxuries and loans for the princess and her relatives. But once started, the deception had to be kept up.

When she endeavored to tell the truth she was not believed, and the more she told her devoted admirers that she was not what they thought her, the more they heaped attentions upon her. Jewelry, motor car rides and money were given generously to the servant girl, who had to go on being a princess. Then she played up to the part, left letters from royalties about on her desk, and pointed out notable relatives when her humble friends took her to Berlin.

Even the judge seemed to feel that persons so easily duped invited deception, for she was given the light sentence of two years, with six months off for good behavior.

Grandma: And when he asked you if he might kiss you, I suppose you treated him with scorn.

Miss Up-to-date: Er, rather! I just turned up my nose.—[London Opinion.

STATE GROUP SEEKS UNITY

California Development Association Favors Team Work, Garland Tells Hotel Men

The California Development Association is one of the most potent forces working for State unity in California, William May Garland, one of the directors of the association, told a group of leading hotel men at the Biltmore yesterday.

Problems of the north and problems of the south are but problems of the whole State, Garland said, and when they come up should be backed in solution wherever backing is needed, regardless of location. Other problems not sectional in their first aspect need united thinking throughout the State, he said, and to this end the association bends its efforts.

Garland offered the Olympiad as an example and told how the association determined to bring the games to Los Angeles and through its regional advisory bodies created sentiment all over the State for the games and so when legislation for the purpose was necessary the attitude of the State was right toward the project.

Vernon Scott of the association's San Francisco office exhibited stereopticon views showing activities of the organization.

The hotel men were assembled by General Manager Woods of the Biltmore. Included in the assembly were Charles Baad, E. W. Casson, Rex B. Clark, J. M. Danziger, Charles De Long, F. M. Dimmick, Abe Frank, Harry Fryman, J. A. Hadley, Charles B. Hamilton, Dwight Hart, George Hart, John Hernan, R. J. Matheson, Stanley Pederson, Stephen Royce and Frank Simpson.

PLANE DELIVERS FILM AT SEA

Craft Makes Record Flight to Drop Roll at Boat for Company's Use

What is considered a record for the delivery of film negative was set yesterday by Clarence Brown, director and aviation enthusiast, when he piloted a plane to a company out at sea and dropped a new supply of film. He delivered the negative to a yacht fifteen miles off Long Beach in twenty-one minutes.

Buster Keaton and his company had an accident when some film cans were washed overboard from a launch. Word was sent to the studio and Brown volunteered to deliver the film.

He borrowed Bob Blair's plane and took aboard a float designed for dropping articles at sea from planes and twenty-one minutes later Edward Sedgwick, directing the picture, again was at work with the cameras.

YOUNG SOPHISTICATES OF TODAY TURN BACKS ON OLD-TIME TOYS

Play as an idle pastime has passed out of vogue with the great majority of American children and their hours of recreation are devoted to constructive and practical pursuits which are developing their ingenuity, originality and mentality. This is the general consensus among toy department heads in a number of our large retail stores where toys are an important commodity and where a close observation of changing tastes in playthings has been a matter of interest for several years past.

In other words, the modern child is a sophisticate in regard to the things he plays with, and his perceptions have become so quickened that he is no longer satisfied with unauthentic imitations of the real thing. Small boys have become so familiar with the accessories of dad's car, that the ones with which they play must be in exact duplicates or they are not satisfied. Young misses, it is said, don't pretend at housekeeping any more with the old type of iron stove. They actually bake and boil and fry on an electric range with utensils of sufficient size to be of some practical value.

GREAT PROBLEM

This change, department managers say, began about four or five years ago, and has been so pronounced that things which were good two years ago are totally demode today and the great problem at present is to find things to take their places.

It was said at one store that the present trend is toward larger things and things of a constructive nature. Boat building sets, house-construction sets, real carpenter benches and full-grown tools instead of the former play size, mecanos and erectors are among the most popular of the constructive type of toy.

In another large toy department, airplanes and airplane parts are said to be the chief demand of an air-minded youth. Many youngsters have ideas of their own on plane construction, hence the great call for the parts so that they can experiment and put their own theories into practice. At this same store a popular toy which emphasizes the same constructive ingenuity is a five-in-one set which can be made into five different types of motor car.

LITTLE ONES AFFECTED

Even with smaller children who formerly were satisfied to play with blocks and such, with no particular purpose in view, there now is a demand, toy experts say, for playthings of a similar nature but from which the children can learn something. Games of all sorts, which have been a particularly heavy item this year, all tend toward the educational, also.

From another store comes the report that mechanical toys of the flimsy, useless variety are practically a thing of the past and that there has been a larger demand this year for out-of-door toys than ever before. Dolls are always an important item and wheel goods appear to retain their popularity, it is said. All toy department managers are unanimous in the opinion that the development of American-made toys in the last ten years has had much to do with the present constructive trend in toy demand. Whereas, they say, before that time most of our toys were imported from Europe, today two-thirds of the country's supply is made in this country. And their chief characteristics are usefulness, practicability and substantiality to suit the highly discriminating tastes of young America.

"ARK" SOON SAILS OUT OF CHINESE

Engagement's Close Set for Next Fortnight; No Successor Named

Announcement is made by Sid Grauman that the engagement of "Noah's Ark," Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production, will conclude within two weeks at Grauman's Chinese Theater.

More than 175,000 persons have made the pilgrimage to Hollywood to view the Vitaphone picture, it is estimated. More than 200,000 visitors will have seen it before it concludes its engagement at the theater.

Another coup was scored by Hollywood and Los Angeles in its first presenation, as the Vitaphone special is yet to have its opening in New York, Chicago and other population centers.

With the end of the engagement at the Chinese Grauman's prologue spectacle will pass into history, never to be presented again, as the magnate is adhering to his policy not to permit his stage spectacles to be shown outside of the Chinese.

Grauman's outdoor menagerie established in the forecourt in connection with the engagement, which has attracted throngs all day long, will be broken up and the animals returned to their owners at the conclusion of the run.

No attraction to follow has been reported by Grauman.

McWade Arrives for Rehearsals

Robert McWade has arrived here for rehearsals of "Daddies," in which he will make reappearance with the Henry Duffy Players, this time at the Hollywood Playhouse, starting Sunday.

McWade has been appearing in his old role of Tom Bates in "New Brooms" as guest star with the Henry Duffy Players at the Dufwin in Portland. He is now rehearsing the part of James Crockett, the crusty old bachelor who finds his viewpoint of life changed by the advent of a 6-year-old child in his household. The child, Lorry, will be acted by little Anita Calfet, who is said to be a remarkable juvenile.

Henry Duffy has completed the cast for "Daddies" and rehearsals are now in progress under the direction of Edwin H. Curtis. Doris Phillips, a blend 17-year-old actress, has been chosen for the leading feminine role, that of Ruth Atkins, a part which Jeanne Eagels played in David Belasco's New York production of the comedy.

Zeffie Tilbury will portray Mrs. Audrey, Robert Audrey will be acted by Gayne Whitman. William Rivers by Cameron Prud'homme, Henry Alden by Walter Percival, Nicholson Walters by John Webb Dillon, Parker, the butler, by Frank Dawson, and the triplets by the Lougheeds.

This is the final week of Dorothy Parker and Elmer E. Rice's comedy, "The Lady Next Door," at the Playhouse.

Studio Excited Over 'Arizona'

William Fox's first all-talking outdoor picture, "In Old Arizona," comes to the Criterion Theaters on Christmas Day. Not even "What Price Glory," "Seventh Heaven," "The Street Angel," or "The Iron Horse," have so aroused the enthusiasm of the Fox studio and West Coast Theaters staffs which are working night and day on the campaign for "In Old Arizona."

W. R. Sheehan is directing the launching ceremonies attending the premiere of "In Old Arizona" at the Criterion, while Harold B. Franklin of West Coast Theaters has enlisted every available West Coaster in the work of giving the Fox special a send-off which will be remembered.

"In Old Arizona" is a 100 per cent talking feature with a stellar speaking cast.

Extraordinary care was taken in the sound recording and the result is similar to that achieved by a $700 radio set of the 1929 pattern, it is mentioned. A flawless sound print will be used at the Criterion, the management promises.

Broadway Knows Collaborators

Two authors whose experiences embrace many years in the theatrical world, prepared the Vitaphone adaptation of George M. Cohan's celebrated stage play, "The Home Towners," which is now at Warner Brothers Theater in Hollywood.

They are Murray Roth and Addison Burkhart. Roth at one time was one of Broadway's leading song writers, and his lyrics attracted the attention of a Hollywood producer. He made his bow in the film world with Fox studio, where he remained for over five years as a comedy constructionist and writer. He then joined the ranks of Vitaphone's roster of authors and collaborated on such talking pictures as "Don't Be Jealous," "The Swelled Head" and others. With Addison Burkhart he also wrote "The Alibi," a Vitaphone playlet, while his first effort of feature length was the writing of the dialogue and story of "Lights of New York," the first all-talking picture to reach the screen, which he prepared with Hugh Herbert.

SUN SETS AT WESTLAKE

The final showings of "Sunrise," F. W. Murnau's Fox special, will take place at the Westlake Theater tonight. Starting Friday, the Westlake will show "Mother Machree," with Belle Bennett and Victor McLaglen, for two days.

HOFFMAN'S MUSICAL TALKIE

Renaud Hoffman, who is completing arrangements for "The Climax," will be in production on the Universal talking-musical picture during Christmas week, according to the latest developments.

DUFFY'S MATINEES

All three Henry Duffy theaters will offer special matinees on Tuesday, Christmas Day, as well as the regular evening performance. The plays are "So This Is London," "Take My Advice," and "Daddies."

"Someone to Love"

Charles Rogers and Mary Brian
Hold up the romantic end of the new Paramount film which the Metropolitan will show, beginning tomorrow.

Lane Sets Day for Premiere of His Revue

Christmas night is the date selected by Lupino Lane for the opening of his Hollywood Music Box Revue. He has completed the selection of the cast of principals. In addition to Doris Eaton and Wallace Lupino, previously announced, Lane has signed Edgar Norton, Doris Whitney, Betty Boyd, Charlotte Merriam, Bert Levy, the cartoonist, Myrah Hubert, Tut Mace, George Burton, Tom Whiteley, William Lewis, Evelyn Deffon and Leonore Landram.

Theatergoers here are familiar with Doris Eaton's ability. Wallace Lupino, brother of the star, is making his debut on the American dramatic stage. He is a film comedian, having been featured in Lupino Lane's Educational comedies for two years. Edgar Norton is a musical comedy veteran who is known for his comedy and dancing ability. The delectable Betty Boyd is a recruit from the movies, having played opposite the star in comedies. Doris Whitney will be remembered from the former Music Box Revue for her voice. Tut Mace is a clever little dancer, Charlotte Merriam is another screen recruit who will appear in the sketches, while Myrah Hubert is a discovery of Lupino Lane's.

Bert Levy will contribute one of his cartoon specialties and act as master of ceremonies.

The six Dancing Demons will be seen in specialties, as will an octette of operatic singers.

Nacio Herb Brown has written two special songs for Doris Eaton, with Arthur Freed contributing the lyrics. The book of the revue is by Earl Baldwin, the music by Carlton Kelsey, who will also act as conductor, and the lyrics by Val Burton. Maj. Fairbanks-Smith is the general manager for Lupino Lane.

STUDENTS IN RECITAL

Pupils from the voice, violin and piano departments of the Southwestern College of Music will be presented Friday at the recital rooms of the college.

"AMERICA" TO BE HEARD ON PROGRAM

Sophie Braslau

What will be a unique occurrence in the musical world will take place today when eleven of the leading symphony orchestras of the United States will present as a simultaneous world premiere, Ernest Bloch's new symphony, "America," which has just been awarded a $5000 prize in musical America's contest.

Conductor Georg Schneevoigt, with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will render his interpretation of this piece tonight and Friday afternoon at the Philharmonic Auditorium. Included in the program will be the appearance of Sophie Braslau, eminent contralto, who will sing "Andromache's Lament," from Bruch's "Archilleus" and six of the Gypsy Songs of Brahms. The balance of the program includes Sowerby's Overture, "Comes Autumn Time."

Mary Astor in Revolt Against Sugary Heroine

Mary Astor, who until a few months ago had played nothing but dainty period heroines in costume pictures, once again has a character role in "Romance of the Underworld," the Fox sound production opening tomorrow at Loew's State.

Miss Astor proved in "Dressed to Kill" that she could step into a crook role and portray it just as if she had been accustomed to such atmosphere all her life, thus proving her versatility.

In "Romance of the Underworld" she portrays a girl reared in the atmosphere of underworld "whisper joints," who attempts to break away from this sordid life and win what she regards as honest happiness and romance. She encounters thrilling and romantic experiences, it is said.

Robert Elliott and John Boles are in the cast.

Fanchon and Marco will offer a Christmas stage show with 100 Meglin kiddies. The King of Spain in a Movietone speech and a special Christmas feature. "Forget-Me-Not," also with dialogue, are on the same bill.

'Riley the Cop' Due in Person

J. Farrell Macdonald, who has the title role in "Riley the Cop," Fox Movietone comedy feature, will make, it is reported, a personal appearance at the Boulevard Theater tomorrow night, when "sound" is initiated at the Washington and Vermont house.

The film program will be an all sound and talking. "Riley the Cop," the adventures of an officer on a spree in Paris, is presented with sound effects, singing and synchronized score by the Roxy orchestra. Louise Fazenda, Nancy Drexel and David Rollins are featured. There is also a thirty-minute all-talking Christmas-time romance, and Fox Movietone news.

On the stage Lynn Cowan offers his Yuletide revue, "Around the Christmas Tree," featuring the Junior Follies and Boulevard band.

"Nifty" Marks New Sills Era

"Nifty," Chris, Lou and Carrie—that's the line-up of the principals in "The Barker," the talking screen play now being shown at the Carthay Circle Theater. And they are real people—carnival show folk. The audiences have come to know them and their peculiarities.

The picture is a George Fitzmaurice special. Milton Sills is starred as "Nifty," the Barker. And it is an entirely new Sills who has been discovered in this whimsical but forceful character, one whose voice and stage training stands him in good stead in the many talking sequences of this feature.

Dorothy Mackaill is co-starred as Lou; Betty Compson is Carrie, the hula dancer; Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is Chris, the son of the Barker.

"Trail of '98" at United for Popular Run

Clarence Brown's filmization of the Robert W. Service Klondike yarn, "The Trail of '98," came downtown yesterday for a stay at the United Artists' Theater. A synchronized score barely suggests the sweep of the accompanying action on the screen, which pictures in its course the conquest of Chilkoot Pass, a spectacular avalanche and the burning of Dawson City. In the cast are Dolores Del Rio, Ralph Forbes, Harry Carey, George Cooper, Tully Marshall, Tenen Holtz, Russell Simpson, Doris Lloyd and thousands of others.

An unusually meritorious short subject, "There Is a Santa Claus," lends timely appeal to the show. This little all-talkie, produced by A. J. Weil and directed by Mark Sandrich and Leigh Jason, has been recorded by the R.C.A. Photophone with an exceptional degree of naturalness and fidelity. A hobo and a small boy are the principal characters.

King Alfonso of Spain is the hit of the Fox Movietone News.

Huston Ray, creator of the "musical therapy system of healing," "accompanies" himself at the piano and on the radio in a cleverly arranged novelty act. Ray, who is well known on the concert stage, is superior to most of the pianists who perform in the popular theater.

Benny Davis to Occupy Another Orpheum Week

Benny Davis and his aggregation of musical comedy and night club favorites will remain at the Orpheum for a second week starting Sunday, it is announced.

New songs and "business" will be incorporated into the offering, which includes Mrs. Benny Davis, Senorita Carita, Margie Greene, Little Jacie Heller, Roy Loomis, Dudley Wilkinson, Charlotte Bemis, Bartlett Brown and Gertrude Greene, in its make-up.

The production presents Benny Davis as master of ceremonies, warbling his popular songs and directing his assemblage of talent.

"Really Hilda" Opens Tonight

Frederick Sullivan, who is directing "Really Hilda," Aurania Rouvernal's manuscript play in which the continental and the American attitudes toward infidelity are amusingly dealt with, and which will open this evening for a three nights' run at Theater Mart, is of that famous English family usually associated with the well-known comic operas that continue to be so persistently revived.

Lois Corbet, Sidney Crowley, Marjory Ellerbeck, John Morrisey, Lou Vel Wiley, Beth Ammon, Burwell Jones, Harry Weil, C. H. McBurney and John Manning complete the cast.

LaRocque Drama Given in Sound

A sound picture, Rod La Rocque's new Pathe starring vehicle, "Capt. Swagger," premieres together with RCA Photophone, Sunday, at the Hillstreet Theater.

Sue Carol, skyrocketed to fame during the past year, plays the feminine lead opposite La Rocque. Richard Tucker, with Rod in "Love Over Night," also appears in "Capt. Swagger."

Essaying the role of La Rocque's comic valet and devoted henchman is Victor Potel, the "Slippery Slim" of the old Essanay comedies. Ulrich Haupt, who also has an important role, is the German actor who caught the public fancy through his work with John Barrymore in "Tempest."

Edward H. Griffith, who directed "Hold 'Em Yale," "Love Over Night" and other Rod La Rocque vehicles, served on "Capt. Swagger."

Lincoln Books "Queen High"

"Queen High," musical comedy, will be the colored Lafayette Players' attraction for New Year's week, opening the 28th inst. This musical piece follows "Cheating Cheaters." Max Marcin's crook drama which opens at the Lincoln Theater tomorrow night. "Cheating Cheaters," Marjorie Rambeau's former starring vehicle, is having its first production at the hands of colored players.

The final performance of "Bought and Paid For," the George Broadhurst comedy drama, will be staged at the Lincoln tonight.

MISSING GIRLS RETURNED HOME

Young Women from St. Louis Absent Two Months

Hitch-Hiked from Midwest to California

Found by Officers of Ontario Department

ONTARIO, Dec. 18.—The port of missing girls proved to be an Ontario hotel today and two girls lost from their homes in St. Louis, Mo., since October 18, started a hectic return trip shortly after noon, the first stop to be at San Bernardino county detention home tonight.

The girls, Dorothy Barnhart, 18 years of age, and Dolores Barnhart, 19, sisters, were located by Chief of Police Arthur Axley and Police Officer William Hammond, thus bringing to an end a search that has shifted during the past two months to practically every State in the Union, and was finally on the verge of abandonment in belief the girls had fallen victims to white slave traffickers.

The girls told Chief of Police Axley they left their home at 8421 Oriole street, St. Louis, Mo., October 18. At that time they had $5 with them. Two weeks ago they arrived in Ontario, and today they had 15 cents between them.

The lure of Southern California beckoned to them when it began to get cold in Missouri, they told police. By hitch-hiking, stealing rides, working in restaurants, cafes, drug stores and other shops, they managed to struggle closer to Southern California. The last leg of their trip was made on a freight train.

When the train stopped in the Ontario yards, the girls clambered off and decided this city was the place they had wished for, and voted to stay here.

They found odd jobs that brought them enough money to prevent starvation, but questioned today what they had intended doing after their 15 cents had been spent, they declared a higher spirit would have to do the providing.

Attractive to a decided degree, the young women declared a strong opposition to being taken from Southern California.

They were taken to the county detention home by Chief Axley to await arrival of St. Louis officials who will return the girls to their home in Missouri.

Neither of the girls displayed any concern over the fact that police in practically every State have been seeking them night and day, and that their family and relatives have suffered mental agony since their departure.

CHANGE NAME TO INHERIT ESTATE

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 19.—All five members of the family of Edward Maxwell Stephens, residing at La Jolla, must change their surname in order that the head of the family may comply with provisions of a will left by an uncle in England and inherit considerable property, real and personal, in the old country, it was declared in a petition filed with Superior Court here today.

Stephens, his wife, two sons and a daughter seek to drop the final letter "s" from their surname as it now is, and affix the surname Hassard. If their petition is granted, the family name will be Stephen Hassard. The will left by William Charles Hassard requires the change of name within twelve months from the time of his death, the date of which was not given in the petition. Otherwise the benefits will go elsewhere, it is recited.

Stephens recites that he was born at Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, while his wife, Ann Elliott Stephens, was born at Jedburgh, Scotland. END OF LONGEST LITIGATION IN SIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 19.—Trial of the now famous water-rights suit of Rancho Santa Margarita against Margaret R. Vail, which is believed to have lasted longer than any other American civil case of record, has now passed the four-hundredth day of actual court hearing, it developed today when the court reporter submitted a transcript of testimony to Judge L. D. Jennings. A total of 69,208 pages of transcript held the testimony taken by the court up to the close of the four-hundredth day.

The case may be concluded early in the new year and testimony may be completed before that time, rounding out the second calendar year of trial.

Because of the vast amount of evidence before the court, counsel for both sides entered into a stipulation several months ago that in the event of a death which might otherwise interrupt hearing of the case the transcript should be accepted as it stands.

Spirit of Christmas in Evidence in Many Towns of the Southland

ONTARIO, Dec. 19.—Christmas promises to be a happy time in the lives of youngsters in the Mexican colonies of this community. The spirit of Christmas is to be taken into the camps by Chaffey Union High School and Junior College girls' clubs, who have been preparing for the event for several weeks.

The girls have been filling hundreds of stockings with candy, nuts and fruit.

Invitations written in Spanish, have been sent to all the children of the camps telling them of the party for them, and asking them to be at the camps Friday afternoon when the visits will be made with the Christmas gifts and good things to eat.

A large Christmas tree has been decorated to be taken to the camps. At each place the girls will sing Christmas carols in Spanish, and will urge the Mexican populace to unite with them in the songs.

Christmas work is done by girls of Chaffey clubs, directed by the Girls' Council, of which Miss Florence Jones is president; Miss Leila Frost, treasurer, and Miss Marjorie Taylor, secretary. They are helped in providing the good things for the Mexicans by Miss Clara M. Bissell, secretary of girls' work in Chaffey district; Miss Louise Harris, field captain of the Girl Scouts; Miss Howard Schattuck, president of the women's board; Mrs. Wellset Ross, treasurer of the woman's board. Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves and Camp Fire Girls have taken prominent parts in the work.

Camps to be visted Friday with the Christmas program and good cheer are Emilio and Stewart camps, Upland; Guasti Mexican and Guasti Italian; Lucas, Mission, Thomas, Belser and La Fourcade.

Santa Claus will go along with the tree to distribute the stockings, and Fred Wilding, director of band and orchestra music at Chaffey, will have his Chaffey orchestra present to lead in the carol singing.

CITY COUNCIL AIDS SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

HERMOSA BEACH, Dec. 19.—Christmas time in this city will bring not only a municipal tree and entertainment with gifts and goodies for 1600 children, and a widespread distribution of Christmas dinner baskets, but a heritage of living Christmas trees which are expected to be numbered by the hundreds, under the plan adopted by the City Council last night. The Council, upon the suggestion of Mayor A. R. Holston, proposes to furnish to each church and club who will maintain them, one or two evergreen trees to be planted as the nucleus of a living Christmas tree campaign which householders are to be urged to take up.

Funds for the municipal tree on Christmas Eve were set aside by the Council last night, with committees from the fire department, Taxpayers' League and the Street Department acting with the welfare committee in perfecting the arrangements. The first public appearance of the boys' band of thirty-three pieces is scheduled as a part of the entertainment program which will open at 7 o'clock.

HERMOSA BEACH, Dec. 19.—City Attorney T. A. Marchant was authorized by the City Council last night to appear for the city and city officials in the $36,000 damage suit filed by Henry Cornblith charging third-degree methods and naming as defendants the city of Hermosa Beach, Mayor A. R. Holston, Chief of Police Eddie Messenger, Fire Chief B. C. Hibbets, John Doe and Richard Roe and Deputy Sheriff R. E. Rankin of the Los Angeles county Sheriff's office.

The complaint alleges that Cornblith was wrongfully arrested by Hermosa police on April 30, 1928, as an arson suspect, alleging that he had fired his residence and store at 139 Monterey Boulevard, this city. Cornblith alleges that he was held for five days, the Hermosa police refusing him the use of the telephone, and food one day and that during that time they choked and slapped him and threatened him with lengthy imprisonment. Cornblith states that he was taken to the County Jail on May 4 following his arrest and was released on $2000 bond and later acquitted in a jury trial, the jury remaining out fifteen minutes. The date of the damage suit has not yet been set.

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 19.—The pleasure of being Santa Claus in this community to the amount of $9569 was accorded Frank D. Parent this week when this amount was turned over to him by the California Air Race Association for distribution as president of the Centinela Valley Development Association.

The check was turned over to Mr. Parent, who in turn wrote his personal check to the individual subscribers, assuring them of a nice little sum in cash for Christmas buying. The other 30 per cent of the sums advanced, it is anticipated, will be forthcoming as soon as negotiations with the city of Los Angeles for the purchase of improvements on the Mines Field property are consummated, which, it is anticipated, will be at an early date.

Mr. Herrington is uncertain as to the cause of the fire. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Auditor Wins in Fight for Vindication

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 19.—Complete vindication on Mayor Dighton's charges of "willful neglect of duty and incompetency was given City Auditor Pierson by the Council this afternoon, following a hearing which occupied the entire afternoon.

The Mayor suspended Pierson several days ago.

The Mayor remained away from the hearing, although he had been subpoenaed. His physician sent a letter to the Council to the effect that the executive was still suffering from the fingers which were crushed last week in an automobile accident.

The star witness of the hearing, which was conducted in a Council chamber packed almost to the point of suffocation, was H. D. Sullivan of the firm of MacLeod, McFarlane & Co., Los Angeles public accountants, retained by Mayor Dighton to investigate the city's books. Sullivan stated the searching audit has disclosed nothing that would indicate that there has been any mishandling of funds on the part of Pierson or any other city official.

Recall petitions against Mayor Dighton were filed today with County Clerk Clayton. Dighton is to be opposed at the election by Joseph H. Long.

MAD MULE INFLICTS INJURIES

Animal Suffering From Rabies Bites Two Workmen at Torrance Construction Camp

TORRANCE, Dec. 19.—The first case of rabies among mules to be known to this district is reported by Dr. H. C. Smiley of the Redondo district of the Los Angeles County Health Department in which H. A. Brown, an employee of the Robertson and Roberts Construction Company was severely bitten by a mule found later to have been suffering from rabies and A. T. Peters of 530 Fifth street, Los Angeles, a fellow employee sustained bruises and bites in attempting to care for the animal.

Both men are receiving the Pasteur treatment, and are under the care of a physician. Brown was bitten upon the shoulder and elbow and the flesh and skin lacerated and has scratches upon both wrists. Peters was less seriously injured.

According to the history of the case traced down by the health department today the mules have been in camp in Del Rey, where three others died of unknown causes, presumed now by the department to have been rabies, Dr. Smiley said. Prior to that time they were at Santa Monica at a time rabies was known to have been prevalent, contracting it perhaps from the bite of a rabid animal. The attack occurred at the company's construction camp here where the plant of the General Petroleum Corporation's new refinery is being installed and was reported to the county health department at once.

Deer Question Still Uppermost With Hotel Men

ARROWHEAD SPRINGS, Dec. 19. The winter-long battle between the management of this spa and the hungry deer which sneak into the grounds at night to nibble their suppers from the costly shrubs and flowers planted during the summer, is raging again after a temporary lull.

Early last month it was discovered that the deer were easily frightened away by the screech of peacocks, the decorative birds which are quartered in the gardens. Accordingly, a brood of the vain creatures was imported and placed at strategic points in the grounds.

After a few weeks, however, the deer discovered that the screeches were uttered by mere birds—an empty threat, as it were. The nibbling on flowers and shrubs and young trees was resumed, to the tune of several thousand dollars' damage.

A new expedient is now being tried by Tony Martin, the head gardener, in the form of whale oil sprayed on the bushes. This measure, however, is as costly and laborious as keeping a night guard on duty on the grounds, besides the decidedly odoriferous disadvantages of whale oil on roses and chrysanthemums.

R. W. Larritt, manager of the spa, has broadcast an SOS for ideas as to how to frighten away the deer without frightening the countryside as well. Any method which the deer cannot grow to regard as a frolic will be acceptable, Larritt said.

Boys' Prank Results in Girl's Death

ATWOOD, Dec. 19.—Tests conducted by two juvenile experimenters to determine the value of questionable gasoline yesterday proved the liquid inflammable, but took the life of Julia Gonzales, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luis Gonzales of this city. Pending further investigation, Robert Urias, 16, and Alexander Nava, 15, were taken into custody today by juvenile authorities.

The boys had been trying to start a recalcitrant flivver, according to their playmates. The car refused to start, so the boys drew out some of the gasoline in a can. Touching a flame to the liquid, the boys learned that the fuel was inflammable, so much so in fact that they became frightened and turned the can over in an effort to extinguish the flames.

The blazing liquid spread and caught the clothing of the Gonzales girl, who died at the County Hospital today. A bystander, Sabilla Ruiz, 7, was seriously burned, as was Luis Gonzales, father of the dead girl, who attempted to save his daughter.

Luis Ruiz, father of Sabilla, is believed to have saved the life of his daughter by his prompt action in extinguishing the flames on her body with his bare hands. He was badly burned on the hands and arms in the effort.

The body of the Gonzales girl is at the McCaulay & Suters funeral chapel in Fullerton, where funeral arrangements are awaiting the outcome of an investigation to be conducted by Coroner Brown.

Navel Crop Meets Tests

FULLERTON, Dec. 19.—Navel picking in this district will start next week, it was announced today by Dale R. King, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus Exchange, following completion of tests this week of the sugar content of the oranges.

Approximately one-third of the tests that have been taken have reached the necessary ratio of 8 to 1, King declared. The highest was reached today on a test of oranges from the A. S. Bradford ranch of Placentia, which revealed an 8½-to-1 ratio. By next week practically all of the navels in the district will have reached the stage where they can be picked and shipped to eastern markets, King said.

The exchange is expecting a heavy navel crop of about 350 cars, almost twice that of last year and 15 per cent more than the crop two years ago.

All navels will be picked between December 24 and February 20, King declared.

WORLD PEACE DISCUSSED

Paul Harvey Addresses Teachers' Institute at Glendale on International Commercial Relations

GLENDALE, Dec. 19.—Economics, rather than politics, is the most effective means of bringing about world peace, according to Paul Harvey, former publisher of the International Interpreter, in an address to the Glendale Teachers' Institute, meeting in the Theodore Roosevelt School here. International commercial intercourse, he asserted, will speed the dawn of world harmony much more rapidly than would be possible through the agreements of politicians and statesmen.

Harvey warned American manufacturers that they should turn their attention to the production of things that those of lesser mental attainmens cannot produce, if they are to ward off the dangers of foreign competition, such as is shown in the textile industries of Japan, where women earning a few cents a day are turning out materials for which American factory employees are paid as high as $6 daily.

Japan, with 80 per cent of the world's textile industry in its grasp, is selling 90 per cent of its textile products in the United States, he said.

Dr. Eul W. Lamkin, president of the Northwestern Missouri State Teachers' College, advocated better salary conditions for the teachers who are instructing the youth who will do the work of the world in a few more years, declaring that a teacher cannot be expected to fulfill his or her task with the educational equipment in use five years ago. Dr. Lamkin scored the teachers for talking about their poverty, asserting that they are receiving better salaries than they have ever been paid and advising them that the teachers' retirement law that they are working for is merely good business and not a pathway to charity. Dr. Lamkin favors long tenures for teachers, based on their honesty and efficiency, with political and factional interference barred.

VENTURA, Dec. 19.—The issue of oil-well drilling in the ... which flamed to white heat a year ago following the discovery ... ing sands at Seacliff, west of Ventura, today gave promise of ... the center of a major battle at Sacramento this winter.

George R. Bliss, Assemblyman-elect, is preparing a bill for introduction in the Legislature next month, which provides for the repeal of the 1929 legislation permitting the drilling of tidelands.

Mr. Bliss said yesterday that unless the Supreme Court of the State declares this law unconstitutional by the time the session begins, he will introduce and press his measure and that he believes it will receive the support of the majority of the members.

That there was a general misunderstanding when the measure was passed Mr. Bliss believes to be certain.

"One hundred, doctor? Whew!"

"Well, I saved your life."

"I know, but an insurance company told me only last week my life wasn't worth 5 cents."

Joshua Little

BY LEE SHIPPEY

In Bible Times

Architect (to Lot:) Ah, what a beautiful monolith! Such graceful proportions! Such delightful curves! Such . . .

Lot: You damphool; that ain't no monolith! That's my wife!

A Bad Lead

Jane: Why?

Doris: Why, last night I had to tell him to behave.

Jane: Oh! And he did, eh?
